SIX NATIONS PAY AND 5 DEFAULT; DEBATE COURSE

Hoover at Work on Plan of Action.

French Change Tune

PARIS.—Camille Chautemps, premier designate of France, declared early this morning that he will try to find a compromise formula on France's default of its war debt payment to the United States which will satisfy both the French parliament and the American government. A reaction against France's default is beginning to appear in various political circles, although the Socialists are standing pat on their demand that before being paid the United States must promise to attend an international conference on debts.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—With six nations paying their December installments of the war debts owed the United States and five defaulting, President Hoover today was preparing to lay before congress the question of the course to be pursued in dealing with the debtors.

The President contemplates addressing a special message to congress proposing a reopening of the debt settlements individually with such debtors as are incapable of paying the amounts specified in the 62 year agreements. Such a test would exclude France, which deliberately defaulted, although easily able to pay the 19 million dollar installment due today.

Speculate on Proposals.

Whether Mr. Hoover will go so far as to suggest reprisals upon debtor nations which, like France, repudiate their obligations, as Andrew Jackson did when France repudiated the spoliation claims treaty a century ago, is a matter of much speculation in official Washington.

Disclosure that Senators Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], William E. Borah [Radical Rep., Idaho], and Hiram Johnson [Radical, Cal.] are preparing speeches on the debt developments indicated that the question is likely to be aired in congress even in advance of the receipt of the President's message, possibly tomorrow, and that Mr. Hoover will be blamed for bungling the affair, beginning with his initiation of a war debt and reparations moratorium.

Day's Treasury Record.

When the treasury closed today there was the following record of war debt payments and defaults:

PAYERS.
Great Britain	$95,550,000
Czechoslovakia	1,500,000
Italy	1,346,437
Finland	186,235
Latvia	111,852
Lithuania	92,386
Total	$98,685,910

DEFAULTERS.
France	$19,761,432
Poland	3,302,980
Belgium	2,125,000
Esthonia	266,370
Hungary	40,129
Total	$24,996,511

Paul Claudel, the French ambassador, called on Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson at noon and left with him a note from Premier Herriot stating that his ministry had fallen and that he was not authorized either to pay the installment or to continue the negotiations.

Seeks Prompt Revision.

Ferdinand Veverka, the Czechoslovakian minister, transmitted a note stating that his government was paying, but only with "the utmost self-denial," and pleading for prompt revision of the agreement and crediting of the installment on the reduced obligation.

While an ominous silence pervaded the halls of congress as the due day passed, the senate and house lobbies buzzed with discussion of boycotts and other measures of retaliation aimed at the defaulting debtors. On every side one heard the opinion that there will be a spontaneous popular boycott of French goods and a marked shunning of France by American tourists. In the heyday of European travel Americans were wont to spend from 500 to 800 millions of dollars abroad, a large part of it in France.

Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] opined that the default of France probably has permanently destroyed

Outlines 4 Year Plan of Cutting Waste.

Fight to Cut Taxes

Chicago developments yesterday in the fight to relieve the taxpayers and restore employment:

Mayor Cermak, speaking before the Economic club, tells his plan to save the city $57,600,000 in his four year administration.

Walter C. Teagle, national chairman of "Share-the-Work" movement, also in address before Economic club, urges employers to spread wages to greatest possible number of workers.

City council finance committee ends aldermanic revolt against citizens' committee by recommending that council approve $51,600,000 tax levy for 1933. Details on page 6.

Mayor Cermak last night set a definite goal for the economies he is seeking to effect in the costs of city government. Speaking at the Palmer house before the Economic club of Chicago, he said that during his four years in office he hopes the savings will total $57,600,000.

"In other words," he said, discussing the possibility of looking back in 1935 toward this accomplishment, "out of the four years of municipal management under the present administration, taking the appropriation of 1931 as a guide, the city will have received free one complete year of service."

The starting point of his calculations was an estimated saving of $15,000,000 and probably $13,000,000 during the current year, which, combined with economies in 1933, he said, showed a total saving in his first twenty months in office of $24,000,000, or an average of $1,200,000 a month.

"City Services Maintained."

"While the comment has been that this so-called severe economy plan would cripple the service," he said, "up to date our crime records are lower, our fire losses are lower, our death rate is lower, we have extended and maintained our electric light system, we have kept up our standard of garbage collection and ash removal, we have carried on all our various inspections having to do with safety and public health.

"And we have improved and corrected many evils in our food inspection and in weights and measures, we have added additional firemen, we propose to add 500 additional police; and our population continues to increase at the rate of 50,000 a year."

Plans New Economies.

In a moment he switched to new economies that are planned.

"The year of 1933," he said," will require further serious thought for municipal management. Many of our activities that are now operating departments whose existence depends entirely on public improvements must be so arranged and cut down that only skeletons of the organizations will remain.

"This will apply to all activities of the city government where planning for the future is the main part of their business, such as road building, bridge building, and many activities of this nature.

"This next year will bring about centralization of inspection services in a way that will greatly reduce costs and give the taxpayer and the public more freedom of action in applying for inspection service of various kinds under our laws."

To Reorganize Department.

"Our whole garbage and ash removal department will be completely reorganized in 1933 on a basis that will greatly reduce the cost of this important activity and add to the service. This also applies to our street repair division, where the funds from the vehicle tax are used for the repair and improvement of streets.

"The same procedure will be applied in the water department. This bureau is now being studied and reorganized and being brought to the point where its ordinary operating and repair expenses will be paid for from the revenue collected from water.

"Another economy will be effected by the establishment of a department of transportation. When I took office our hired transportation averaged

HOODLUM BURNS SQUAD'S CAR FOR REVENGE ON COPS

Michael De Stefano, brother of Sam De Stefano, well known hoodlum, soaked a police squad car with gasoline and set it afire early today in revenge for the Maxwell street police refusing to set Sam free at Michael's request. The fire department was called and extinguished the fire in the auto after damage of $100 had been done.

Sam had been picked up earlier in the night by the squad of Sergt. Patrick Gaynor and locked up. Shortly after midnight Michael appeared with Mike Messino, 21 years old, 713 Aberdeen street, and Tony Ponico, 22, of 728 South May street, and tried to effect the release of Sam. When Sergt. John Mau, who had taken Gaynor's place, refused their plea, they emptied a two gallon can of gasoline over the upholstery of Mau's car and applied a match. John Shea, a police chauffeur, saw the trio fleeing and captured them at Harrison and Morgan streets. They were locked up.

14 NATIONS SEEK U. S. AS MARKET FOR THEIR WINE

PARIS, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Means of taking advantage of the opening of the American market in case prohibition ends were discussed today at a session of the committee of the international wine office, at which 14 countries were represented. The meeting was held in a room in the foreign office under the presidency of Deputy Edouard Barthe, president of the wine committee of the chamber of deputies.

The committee adopted a report which said that the chief market in America seems to lie in quality wines, since domestic wines would be able to obtain most of the market.

The report also recommended that the governments of wine producing countries take measures against the false representation of wines and against fake labels.

The bandits got the 15 cents, but failed to find the $31 which he had hidden in a watch pocket.

Chicago, already suffering in temperatures lower than at any time since January, 1930, was told last night that new severities were in prospect.

The official forecaster, J. R. Lloyd, said that the readings in the city early today would fall to 5 or possibly 7 degrees below zero and that the suburbs would see their thermometers register 10 or 12 below. Unofficial figures at 3 a. m. showed 5 and 6 degrees below in the loop. At that hour the U. S. station at the Chicago airport registered 9 below. Skies, it is expected, will be clear today.

Some moderation in the temperature is expected tonight and tomorrow, but Mr. Lloyd added that another section of the cold wave would follow and that it was likely that tomorrow night and Sunday would find Chicago again shivering in cold as intense as this morning's.

Fireman Hurt; 12 Overcome.

At 7 o'clock last evening, with the mercury standing at 2 below, firemen were called to fight a fire in an oil storage warehouse of Swift & Co. at Loomis street and Exchange avenue in the stockyards. The blaze proved stubborn and all the equipment was still in operation as dawn approached. In the early part of the fight one fireman was seriously injured and twelve others were overcome by smoke and revived with inhalators.

The warehouse, 60 by 125 feet and six stories high, held large quantities of oleomargarine. Because of the fear that adjoining structures might be ignited, a 4-11 alarm was sounded and thirty-six pieces of fire fighting equipment were sent to the scene. The intense cold and the dense clouds of smoke hampered the firemen.

Fire Captain Injured.

Capt. George Morton, of Engine company 16, was the fireman injured. He was struck in the abdomen by a ladder which slipped on an icy roof. He was taken to the German Deaconess hospital.

Although the flames were safely confined to the one building, Acting Fire Marshal Carmody said the interior would burn all through the night. He estimated the damage at $75,000, possibly $100,000.

Another fire destroyed the large two story building of the Sterling Drop Forge company, 4725 West 15th place, Cicero. The origin of the blaze was undetermined.

The cold caused the mechanism of the Michigan avenue bridge to clog for a time yesterday while the spans were lifted and traffic was blocked and re-routed to Wabash avenue. Some traffic lights, it was reported, also were out of commission for a time.

Lowest Yesterday 3 Below.

Yesterday's highest official temperature was 3 above zero, reached in the afternoon. The lowest was 3 below, in the early morning. The weather bureau's guess is that it will be about 8 above at noon today.

More than 10,000 homeless men were being cared for in shelters and police stations. The death of two men whose bodies were found in the streets was attributed to the cold. One of the victims was Philip Carey, 45 years old, 2135 South Halsted street. The other was unidentified.

The cold was general over the United States, Florida and South Carolina being the only states unaffected. At Hager City, Wis., the reading was 22 below zero. At Shreveport, La., a heavy snow fell. Despite the unfavorable conditions the air mail routes continued to function and there was no undue delay of other forms of transportation.

SKELETON OF GIANT IS FOUND BY WOMAN IN PALESTINE CAVES

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Dec. 15.—News was received today that another Mousterian skeleton, resembling the so-called Mount Carmel men discovered last year, has been found in caves at Athlit, Palestine.

The Mount Carmel men were first found by Theodore McCown, young American archaeologist, and were later named "Palaeanthropus Palestinus." They were a race of giants contemporary with the Neanderthal men of Europe and differed from all other prehistoric men in their long limbs, jutting chins and enormous, awning-like ridges over their eyes.

The new discovery is somewhat like the Mount Carmel specimens, according to a cable from Dorothy Garrod, who is conducting the present excavations for the British school of archaeology in Jerusalem and the American school of prehistoric studies. It was found in a third layer with the remains of a hippopotamus, a rhinoceros, and large levallois flakes of the African type.

A sixth layer, Miss Garrod said, differs altogether from those above it, yielding hand axes and scrapers of central European types and an elephant tooth.

Bare Tangled Finances of Illinois Life

A preliminary report made yesterday by Gen. Abel Davis, receiver of the Illinois Life Insurance company, indicated his belief that the company, which has 70,000 policyholders and $150,000,000 of insurance in force, cannot be reorganized. It is his opinion, Gen. Davis said, that the troubles of the company are due chiefly to its $13,000,000 of investments in two Chicago hotels, the Stevens and the La Salle, which were controlled by the same management that directed that insurance company.

The receiver's report, presented to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, declares that the policyholders will have to be reinsured in other companies and that negotiations to this end are in progress.

$50,000 Loans Revealed.

J. W. Stevens and R. W. Stevens, who controlled the company prior to the receivership, and other officials borrowed $50,000 from the insurance company in its last few months of independent operation, the report disclosed. J. W. Stevens, former chairman, was lent $20,000; R. W. Stevens, former president, $24,000, and J. B. Stookey, secretary-treasurer and nephew of J. W. Stevens, was lent $4,429. John N. Williams, vice president, borrowed $2,088 after the bill for receivership was filed.

After filing his report with Judge Wilkerson, Gen. Davis announced that R. W. Stevens had been relieved of his duties as assistant to the receiver at a salary of $1,000 a month. Judge Wilkerson later issued an order accepting the resignation of E. J. Stevens as co-receiver of the Stevens and La Salle hotels.

Shows Dividends Paid.

The loans to R. W. and J. W. Stevens were approved on July 1 this year, the same day on which the applications were made. Stookey applied for a loan on July 29 and his request was granted three days later.

When the company went into receivership on last Nov. 28 there were unpaid death claims pending of $170,700. There were also applications for loans of approximately $800,000 filed by 2,486 policyholders on which no action had been taken. There were applications from 298 policyholders who sought to turn in their policies at the cash surrender value.

The report discloses that up to Sept. 20 this year J. W. and R. W. Stevens each drew salaries of $72,000 yearly as officials of the company. At that time the salaries were reduced to $12,000 a year for J. W. Stevens and $25,000 annually for R. W. Stevens.

Davis Avoids Comment.

In revealing the salaries and loans to officials Gen. Davis sticks to a bare statement of the facts. He makes no comment or recommendations to the court. He does state, however, that in his opinion the troubles of the company are due almost wholly to the investments the company made in the securities of the Stevens and La Salle hotels. In addition to the direct investments in the securities of those two enterprises the company also made collateral loans of approximately $3,000,000 on securities of the hotels.

Gen. Davis' report on the company's finances, which is audited by Arthur Young & Co., also shows that the company paid a 25 per cent dividend

RAINEY SEES VICTORY BEFORE THE HOLIDAYS

Collier Bill Wins in Committee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—The rising wet tide swept a 4 per cent beer bill through the house ways and means committee today. The beer would be 3.2 per cent by weight and 4 per cent by volume as to alcoholic content.

[Beer before prohibition averaged 3.5 per cent alcohol by weight, slightly stronger than that approved by the committee. This corresponds to about 4 per cent by volume. Alcohol being lighter than water, volume percentages run higher than the corresponding weight percentages.]

By a vote of 17 to 7 the committee voted to report out tomorrow the Collier bill, so amended as to eliminate light wines, to provide for a 4 per cent beer as recommended by the brewers.

The action of the committee assures a vote on beer in the house before Christmas. Majority Leader Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.] said tonight the bill would be brought up on Tuesday and rushed to a vote at the earliest opportunity. House leaders predicted its passage.

Sales Methods Up to States.

As the Collier bill was amended it places no restrictions on the sale of 4 per cent beer, the question of whether it should be sold in saloons being left to the states. A tax of $5 a barrel, voted by the committee, was estimated to raise from 125 million to 300 million dollars, depending on the beer consumption the first year. The brewers' license was jumped from the present annual rate of $100 to $1,000. Retailers would be taxed $20 per annum.

On the basis of expert testimony laid before the committee by brewers and manufacturers, enactment of the Collier bill would put a half billion dollar kick into business through the revival of the beer industry. It would permit the sale of an eight ounce glass of beer for 5 cents and a 12 or 14 ounce bottle for 10 cents.

Beer could be delivered at the home for approximately $2.16 a case of 24 bottles.

In approving the Collier bill the committee in an enthusiastic mood ignored the protests of the professional drys whose spokesmen spent two days urging the committee to ignore campaign pledges. The need for more federal revenue, plus the impetus given by the overwhelming wet vote in the recent election, sent the beer bill to quick approval.

Only Revenue Bill?

A prediction that no new revenue legislation other than possibly a beer bill would be enacted during the present session was made today by Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], a member of the finance committee. He predicts the Democrats would wait until the special session for other action. Credence was given to that view by a statement of Chairman James W. Collier [Dem., Miss.] of the ways and means committee that no plans have been made for reporting out a revenue bill other than that for beer. A sales tax probably will be offered as an amendment to the beer bill.

Action on Wine Later.

On only two questions did any real fight develop. These came on the issues of whether the bill should bar the return of the saloon and whether wine should be legalized. After a hot debate which left the tempers of the drys badly frayed, the committee voted, 12 to 11, to place no restrictions on the sale of beer beyond those erected by the states. The vote to eliminate wines, leaving their legalization to another bill to be introduced tomorrow, was 17 to 7.

Former Chairman Willis C. Hawley [Rep., Ore.], a lame duck dry, led the fight against the Collier bill and later against the saloon. Although the committee declined to give out the adverse vote on the beer bill, it is understood that he was joined in the balloting by Representatives Frank Crowther [Rep., N. Y.], Heartsill Ragon [Dem., Tex.], Jere Cooper [Dem., Tenn.], Morgan D. Sanders [Dem., Tex.], Charles R. Timberlake [Rep., Col.], and Allen T. Treadway [Rep., Mass.].

The question as to whether the committee will vote favorably on a separate wine bill will be decided tomorrow. Representative Clarence F. Lea [Dem., Cal.] introduced two revised bills today and they will be taken up at once without further hearings. They provide for a 10 per cent wine by volume to yield approximately 25 mil-

4 Per Cent by Volume.

"This measure," Mr. Rainey said of the beer bill at the conclusion of the committee session, "provides for a 3.2 per cent beer by weight and 4 per cent beer by volume. It is to go into effect within thirty days after being signed by the President. The beer can be sold by any retailer who pays the license fee and who operates in accordance with state laws. It should yield not less than 175 million dollars in revenue the first year. Beer can be sold by bottle or in glasses."

Chairman James W. Collier [Dem., Miss.] said that he voted for a 2.75 beer on the first ballot and later changed his vote to the 3.2 per cent beer by weight.

"I believe and the majority of the committee believe," he said, "that 4 per cent beer by volume is not intoxicating. That is why we approved it. We want every cent of revenue we can get."

Hawley Revives "Beer Terror."

Former Chairman Hawley said he would file a minority report tomorrow assailing the beer bill as unconstitutional. He asserted he would charge that 20 per cent of pre-prohibition drunkenness was caused by beer. He predicted a big fight over the saloon issue.

The possibility existed today that a sales tax would be added to the beer bill. Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] said he saw no reason why the two should not be included in a single bill to raise sufficient money to balance the budget. Senator Reed expressed the opinion, however, that no new tax legislation aside from possibly beer will be enacted into law at the short session. Revenue legislation will be left over to the special session, he predicted.

Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], leader of the beer advocates in the senate, said today that he will move for a beer vote this session. He said that Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] had attempted to put through a clever move today to shut out beer legislation by having his bank bill made a special order of business, but had failed.

Predict Boon to Business.

Brewers who testified before the committee said passage of a four per cent beer bill would cause the immediate expenditure by brewing interests of 360 million dollars for rehabilitation work and for raw materials to be used in beverage manufacture. Railroad spokesmen said a revived beer industry would be worth 100 million annually to them. Spokesmen for fifty other industries ranging from barrel makers to bottle manufacturers said they would spend many millions on new construction and on manufacture of new goods if beer were legalized.

Expert witnesses testified that it would take 40 million barrels for four per cent beer during the first year. They stated that 2.75 per cent beer by weight would not satisfy the beer drinker and would not prove palatable enough to drive out the bootleggers and racketeer. They recommended a 4 per cent beer by volume and a $5 a barrel tax.

URGES HOOVER TO BACK LIQUOR CONTROL SYSTEM

A plea to President Hoover to sponsor immediate legalization and control of the liquor traffic was telegraphed last night by Fred G. Clark of New York City, commander in chief of the Crusaders, according to word received by Col. Ira L. Reeves, western director.

"I appeal to you to consider the crisis our country is facing and use the full power of your office to stem the tide of liquor induced corruption which is gaining momentum every day," the telegram read. "Much has been said about the revenue which the government would gain with the legalization of liquor control, but more important is the moral issue. While congressmen are quibbling over the definition of a saloon the speakeasies are opening their doors and operating as local saloons.

"The thinking people of the country must unite to the end that society will control the liquor traffic and not that the liquor interests will control society. Let us act while there is still time in this session of congress."

Sentence 2 Teachers in One-Pupil Crime School

Two men who conducted a one pupil crime school were sentenced to the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Edward S. Scheffer in the Court of Domestic Relations. Arthur Angers, 16 years old, 2423 Natoma avenue, their pupil, testified the men taught him to handle a revolver and drive the car while they performed stickups. Joseph Stein, 40 years old, 2831 North Sawyer avenue, took advantage of Angers' infatuation for his daughter, the boy testified, and enticed him into holdups. Stein was sentenced to serve one year in the Bridewell while Jacob Schneider, 39 years old, the assistant instructor, was given ninety days.

HOUSE APPROVES POSTOFFICE AND TREASURY BILL

Carrying Over 900 Million Dollars.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—With the total of $961,416,000 unchanged since its introduction, the treasury and postoffice bill, first of the session's appropriation measures, was piloted through a barrage of anti-economy amendments today. It was passed by the house of representatives without roll call.

A few moments later the interior department bill, carrying an appropriation of $43,162,904 was taken up for consideration. The day saw a negative victory for economy, but a victory.

Hoover Economy Ignored.

President Hoover's request for an added cut on the higher federal salaries was ignored both in the passage of the treasury and postoffice bill and in the newly reported interior bill. And no cuts in the former bill were made on the floor of the house.

By vigilance and constant battling, however, Chairman Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.] and other appropriation committee members fought off repeated attempts to wreck vital portions of the last session's economy act and so add millions to the cost of government in the fiscal year to start July 1, 1934. Both bills, as now written, carry the economy act with its furlough system, equivalent to an 8 1-3 per cent cut, into effect for another year.

Only two minor amendments to the postoffice and treasury bill succeeded. One sponsored by Representative F. H. La Guardia [radical, N. Y.] will prevent the furlough system from cutting an employe's salary below $83.33 in any month. The other will exempt the pay of special delivery messengers from the 8 1-3 per cent provision. La Guardia tried to make the exemption $1,500. Chairman Byrns took the floor in vigorous opposition to that.

The interior department bill's appropriation for 1934 of $43,162,904 was carried in the committee report as a saving of $23,990,780 under the 1933 appropriation of $67,153,684. But like the cut in the treasury and postoffice measure the decrease was more seeming than real.

Savings under the economy act, which were deducted from the 1934 total, were not deducted from the figure for 1933, making the savings apparently larger by $2,083,755; $14,000,000 of emergency and nonrecurring items were carried in the 1933 total, thereby further increasing the apparent cut. Subtracting the two "joker" items from the apparent saving left an actual saving on regular annual appropriations of only $7,937,025.

Cut for Boulder Dam.

The apparent saving was largest in the case of the appropriation for Boulder dam, for which $10,000,000 was appropriated last session in the emergency construction and relief act, making a total for the year for Boulder dam of $23,000,000. The 1934 Boulder dam item carries $8,000,000.

The largest increase in the bill was for a reclamation project—the Owyhee project in Oregon. The $500,000 voted for 1933 was increased to $1,077,000 for 1934, raising the total for all reclamation works to $3,003,000, an increase of $588,300.

Another large apparent cut was that of $5,588,770 for national parks. The 1933 appropriation was increased by $3,000,000 in the emergency act. Similarly, the cut of $3,012,687 in the bureau of Indian affairs included the nonappropriation of $1,000,000 carried in last session's construction measure.

8 KILLED, 100 HURT IN FIRE AT BIG STORE IN TOKIO

TOKIO, Dec. 16.—[Friday.]—(AP)—Eight persons are known to have been killed and more than 100 injured in a fire in the Shirokiya department store, the largest in Tokio. Scores of customers and salesgirls were trapped in the upper floors of the building. The loss was estimated at $4,000,000. Two airplanes dropped rope ladders to the roof, enabling several persons to descend safely.

All stories above the second in the seven story structure were burned. A battalion of troops was called out to keep back crowds. Hundreds of Christmas and New Year's shoppers, most of them women, were carried down ladders by firemen.

The store was festively decked. Although officially Japan does not observe Christmas it has become a popular gift-giving holiday, while the New Year continues to be the principal festival of this nature.

WOULD RESTRICT VETERAN RELIEF TO WAR VICTIMS

Gen. Hines Tells Way to Save Billion.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—To restrict veterans' benefits to those who actually suffered in the world war will eventually save the taxpayers more than a billion dollars, Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, today testified before the joint congressional committee on veterans' legislation.

He pictured to the committee a not far distant future when the government, under present laws, will be giving free care to more than 80,000 veterans in hospitals and another 63,000 in soldiers' homes.

Service Disability Cases Decline.

Gen. Hines testified that while the number of veterans seeking treatment as the result of nonservice disabilities is increasing at a rapid rate, as it has continually done since free hospitalization for this type of illness was first made available in 1924, treatment of veterans for service disabilities actually has declined slightly.

Extension of facilities to meet these hospitalization and domiciliary demands, Gen. Hines told the committee, would cost a total of $1,203,333,705.

Would Cut Compensation.

Gen. Hines suggested that preference in admission to institutions be given veterans with service connected disabilities or members of the army, navy and marine corps who might be disabled in the line of duty during peace time. He said the remainder of the saving he contemplates could be accomplished through legislation requiring that veterans suffering nonservice disability be barred from public institutions if they are found able to pay for treatment in private institutions.

In additon Gen. Hines suggested ways to save some $12,000,000 in current annual appropriations through laws affecting government insurance and through a provision that veterans receiving free hospitalization should receive not more than $20 per month in compensation while so confined.

PADLOCK BREWERY, BUT NOT BECAUSE AGENTS SMELL BEER

New York, Dec. 15.—[Special.]—The big Phoenix brewery, on 10th avenue, which Broadway has supposed was controlled by Owney Madden, racketeer, now serving in Sing Sing as a parole violator, was ordered padlocked for a year today by Federal Judge Robert P. Patterson.

Aside from Madden, whose name did not figure in the testimony, the attempt of the government to close the brewery attracted attention because it was forced finally to base its action on the contention that prohibition agents smelled the beer on the sidewalk and scooped out of a gutter a bottle of "amber fluid, with foam on top," which they found floating from a door of the building.

Judge Patterson in his opinion did not pass on the value of the olfactory evidence, but he held that the "amber fluid" found to contain more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol by volume was presumptive evidence that beer was being manufactured within, and that there was further presumptive evidence justifying a padlock in that the beer had been dumped when employes saw prohibition agents approaching.

TWO COLLECTING FOR 'PROTECTION' OF DOCTORS HELD

W. J. Pierce, 1039 Hollywood avenue, and Claude G. Hankenson, 4056 Oakenwald avenue, were arrested by state's attorney's detectives yesterday as they were attempting to collect funds from loop physicians. It was charged they posed as representatives of the office of State's Attorney Courtney and were asking $500 each from a selected list of physicians on the promise of "protection."

The men had a list of sixteen physicians, according to First Assistant State's Attorney Grover C. Niemeyer. Among them was Dr. Max Gecht, whose kidnaping a year ago resulted in the arrest of a gang.

Assistant State's Attorney John Leonard Murphy said it is possible another man may be involved in the inquiry. One of the prisoners admitted that the list of physicians to be approached had been prepared by a third person.

The prosecutors also said the men had been soliciting campaign funds for Dr. Walter Ross, the Republican candidate for coroner at the last election, although Dr. Ross knew nothing of their activities. They are to be charged with forgery for indorsing and cashing a check collected in Dr. Ross' name. It is not known how much money they collected during the campaign.

SCIENTISTS 'HEAR' DYNAMITE BLAST 2,000 MILES AWAY

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The sound of dynamite explosions today in far off Nova Zembla, 2,000 miles away, and in Holland, were recorded upon instruments of the meteorological observatory at Potsdam. The explosions were set off by scientists as part of the experiments of the international polar year, a study of Arctic weather.

The dynamite was exploded to study the passage of sound waves from place to place, especially that part of the sound which arches high into the stratosphere. It is thought that such sounds may carry great distances in a path resembling that of a shell from a supercannon. There is a hypothesis that the temperatures in the upper stratosphere are warmer than those which have thus far been measured by instruments carried aloft by meteorological balloons. If this hypothesis is true, scientists think it might be revealed by the way sound waves "break" when they pass into the warmer layers of upper air.

It is also hoped to get further light on the "zones of silence" which were noted by some observers during war time. Such zones might come from sound waves interfering with one another.

HENRICI'S ON RANDOLPH today

In all the length and breadth of America, no other restaurant, maintaining as notably high standards in food, service and environment, ever has achieved a volume of trade equal to that attained by Henrici's.

The basis of this unparalleled patronage, as of course every sensible person must realize, has been, first of all, the proper service of the choicest qualities of foods in extremely broad variety, and second, the maintenance of a scale of prices neither excessive nor cheap but exactly adequate to the sound functioning of the institution.

Only as the market prices of raw foods have fluctuated have Henrici menu prices been altered. Sound appreciation of the very fundamentals of business, upon the part of Henrici's management, has never yielded to temptation toward prices higher than the direct reflection of market costs. Nor has effort been made, at any time, to attract trade by prices below those essential to maintenance of the standards for which Henrici's enjoys world-wide fame.

Another important factor contributing to that stability of operation and service upon which old patrons so often make kindly comment is the unchanging personnel of the managerial staff and of those who in person serve the patrons of Henrici's.

From earliest morning to midnight, every day in the year, including Sundays and all other holidays, you will find, in Henrici's, practically every variety of food on that day obtainable in choicest quality in the Chicago markets. You may partake of such food in an environment most pleasing, at sensible prices substantially below those maintained in any other restaurant in America in which comparable conditions obtain.

Whether you come to Henrici's during the regular hours of breakfast, luncheon, dinner or late supper, or whether you come in-between-times, you will find the service always alert, attentive and responsive. And no matter what the hour you will never feel lonesome at Henrici's, for at every moment of its operation there are always many other patrons who find that particular time best suited to their convenience.

GEORGIA SEEKS EXTRADITION OF FUGITIVE BURNS

New York, Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Because he was not content to remain obscure, Robert Elliott Burns, who wrote "I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang," is a fugitive no longer but in a prison cell in Newark tonight, awaiting possible extradition to Georgia.

Arrested last night near Newark police headquarters by a detective who trailed his brother, the Rev. Vincent Burns of Palisade, who had called to plead for him, Burns spent the night in a cell. Today he was arraigned and held in $25,000 bail.

Meanwhile Gov. Richard B. Russell Jr., at Atlanta, asked for Burns' extradition.

Whether the request is granted depends now upon Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey, who has publicly declared his belief that Burns was sufficiently punished for the alleged theft of $4 in 1921.

"I have made no promise not to return Burns," Gov. Moore said at Trenton today.

Plans "to Move Carefully."

"I will be glad to give Burns a hearing on the merits of the case," the governor added, "before taking definite action in his extradition. Because of the importance of the matter I will move very carefully."

Something of a modern Jean Valjean, Burn's career has been sufficiently spectacular, involving so many ups and downs, to make him a nationally known character. He is 41 years old, stands 5 feet 3 inches, and weighs less than 125 pounds.

Burns was 25, an accountant, when the United States entered the war. He enlisted at Fort Slocum and went to France with the medical detachment of the 14th railway engineers. That was in 1917.

He saw practically continuous fighting until the end of the war, came home wounded, gassed, and disillusioned. His friends said he was nervous, embittered. His job was filled and he failed at first to get another and became a hobo.

Grocery Store Held Up.

In 1921 he found himself at Atlanta. Two men told him, he said, where he could get a job. He went with them, according to his story, and found himself involved in a grocery store holdup. The amount taken was $5.80.

The trio was captured and Burns was sentenced from six to ten years in the chain gang.

Within a year he managed to escape. He went to Chicago—it was 1922—saved money, borrowed some more, and founded the Greater Chicago magazine, which prospered so well as to afford him, as editor, a salary of $20,000 a year. He became, under an assumed name, a prominent citizen, a member of civic clubs, a civic booster. There was an affair with a woman, and Burns married her when she threatened to reveal to the police evidence regarding his escape which she had accidently found.

Woman Has Him Arrested.

But Burns eventually fell in love with another woman and asked his wife for a separation. She agreed. Later she asked for more alimony. When he refused, the story goes, she had him arrested. That was in 1929.

Burns' arrest and the revelation of his success while a fugitive from justice created a sensation. Prominent Chicagoans went to his assistance. He claimed it was doubtful if Illinois would have wanted extradition, but a hint that the governor of Georgia would give him a pardon, on the grounds of his exemplary conduct since his escape, caused him to surrender voluntarily. He was sent back to the chain gang.

The expected pardon was not forthcoming, and Burns began a legal fight for freedom. His brother, the minister, interviewed scores of prominent people in his behalf. The brothers were led to believe, they said, that if the prisoner's conduct was good for a year his pardon would be only a matter of routine. Burns couldn't wait a year.

Escapes Second Time.

There was a hearing of his case before the Georgia prison commission in July, 1930, but before any action was taken Burns had escaped a second time. He had managed his first escape by having a Negro convict bend the shackles on his slim ankles with a sledge hammer, so that he was able to slip out of them. The second time he had a confederate, who waited with an automobile near where the chain gang was working on a public road.

He alighted in Newark from a Pittsburgh bus on Sept. 7, 1930, within a few days of his escape.

For a time he was careful to conceal his identity. He worked on a Newark newspaper until the paper stopped publication. Then he found a variety of other jobs, among them that of a dynamiter at a copper refinery in Chrome, N. J.

Finally he wrote his now famous "I Am a Fugitive," which made him money as a book and more money as a motion picture.

Presence in State Known.

Gov. Moore knew of his presence in the state, for Burns early called on him in company with his brother at Sea Girt. He promised the governor not to embarrass the state authorities, and his brother promised for him that he would lead a model life.

All might have gone well, Burns presence in the state, though an open secret, might not have brought request for his extradition. But he began recently to make personal appearances at theaters in Trenton and Newark in connection with his picture.

The climax came when he granted an interview appearing Sunday in a Newark paper. Georgia heard about it and increased the reward for his apprehension to $450. Police who had winked at his presence in their midst apparently decided to do so no longer.

FORMER MRS. BURNS 'SORRY' TO HEAR OF ARREST OF FUGITIVE

Emilia Pino, 6444 Ingleside avenue, former wife of Robert E. Burns, who was captured in Newark, N. J., on Wednesday night as a fugitive from a Georgia chain gang, said yesterday that she was "sorry to hear of his arrest." Burns charged three years ago that she notified the authorities of his presence in Chicago where he was editing a magazine. Miss Pino said that Burns married her bigamously in 1926.

"I haven't heard from him in three years although I read his book and saw the picture filmed from it," Miss Pino said yesterday. "I hold nothing against him now. I want to lead my own life and he can lead his."

Miss Pino revealed that she is now operating a beauty parlor.

Miss Lillian Salo, 24 years old, 629 Deming place, whom Burns said he wanted to marry three years ago, was also "sorry" to hear of his recapture.

"I certainly am sorry to hear it," she said. "I hope it won't go too hard on him now."

POLICE SEIZE 80 IN BEER AND GAMBLING RAIDS

Mayor Orders Bond for New Licenses.

Police squads, carrying out Mayor Cermak's orders for a war on beer flats and gambling establishments, yesterday made a series of raids and arrested nearly eighty persons found in drinking and bookmaking dens.

Other important developments in the campaign were:

1. A discovery, according to investigators, that Policeman Albert J. Magoon, shot and killed in a north side speakeasy on Monday, had combined the bootlegging trade with his police work and was shot by rival alcohol peddlers.

2. An order by the mayor for the drafting of an amendment to the new malt license law to require license holders to furnish a large bond to guarantee financial responsibility and integrity.

Concentrate on Beer Flats.

Four of the night's raids were made on orders of Capt. James Fleming, in command of the Town Hall district. All the places visited by these raiders were beer flats. At 3555 North Halsted street, John Baer and eight customers were arrested. At 915 Wilson avenue, Max Stein, keeper, and eight patrons were taken into custody. George M. Smith and fourteen customers were arrested at 4053 Sheridan road, and Adam Protz and four men were taken at 3434 Southport avenue.

Five alleged bootleggers were seized by a detective bureau squad in room 1205 at 624 South Michigan avenue. Telephone orders for holiday liquid cheer, it was said, were being taken at the time. A handbook in a room at the New Southern hotel, 1250 South Michigan avenue, was visited by Capt. George O'Connor of the vice and moral squad. Thomas Sidler, keeper, and four patrons were arrested there.

Hoodlum Seized.

Albert Pietka, owner of a beer flat at 656 Fay street, and four customers were arrested. Tony Accardo, hoodlum, was seized in a barber shop at 942 West Harrison street.

The West North avenue police destroyed 2,000 bottles of beer found in the home of Emil Olson at 1523 North Talman avenue. In the same district three other flats were raided. Four were visited and the proprietors arrested in the Brighton Park area. Seven owners of alleged speakeasies were seized on the far south side and will be arraigned in the South Chicago court today.

Mrs. Frieda Williamson, 41 years old, 2548 North Halsted street, was found dead early today by policemen who had been summoned to the flat of Mrs. Bert Johnson at 2439 North Halsted street. Apparently death was due in part to liquor Mrs. Williamson had drunk, police said.

Mrs. Johnson was missing, but the police found a quantity of beer in the place. John Wilenius, a lodger, reported that there had been a number of men and women drinking there during the evening. He added that Mrs. Williamson lay down in a bedroom when she became ill.

Bare Magoon Evidence.

The Magoon disclosures came through Chief of Detectives Schoemaker. A small black notebook found on the policeman's body shortly after he had been slain in a speakeasy at 2908 North Halsted street contained the names of a number of bootleggers.

Magoon, according to the investigators, was a partner in the alcohol business of Howard Pope, alias Sawyer, and had been selling alcohol to Jerry Maas, owner of the flat in which the killing occurred. He is said to have forced Maas by threats of arrest to pay $22.50 for a five gallon can when he could have purchased the stuff at $18 from other wholesalers.

Members of a second alcohol syndicate, headed by Ted Nelson of 910 Dakin street, were arrested. The police say these men were innocent of the killing, but add that they have definite information that partisans of a third group of peddlers operating on the north side shot the policeman when he tried to drive them out of the Maas place.

POLICE WARN OF SWINDLERS WITH STOLEN PARCELS

Christmas swindlers are at work with an old racket in a new disguise, according to reports received yesterday at the detective bureau. Beware of the man who would sell you a package he claims to have stolen from his employer, Chief Schoemaker warns.

"We have reports that men wearing uniforms intended to make them look like employés of the big stores or regular delivery services are selling phoney packages," Chief Schoemaker said. "The sales talk is that the man was able to steal the package from the ware house, or from a consignment delivered to a home, and he is willing to sell it cheap.

"The package might have fancy wrapping and labels and a printed price mark of $10, or some such amount. If it is supposed to contain perfume, it really is only colored water. If it appears to contain some article that would make a good Christmas present, it doesn't. The seller never permits an examination. He will take a few dollars and hurry away.

UNDERWRITERS DEMAND CUT IN THEFTS OF AUTOS

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 48; recovered, 77; stripped, 24 [from police records for the twenty-four hour period ending at midnight Wednesday].

Automobile defendants: Elio Borsellini, sentenced to sixty days by Judge Harold P. O'Connell; Robert D. Leggett and Thomas Dickson, held to the federal grand jury for violation of the Dyer act.

Unless automobile thefts in Chicago are reduced immediately car owners may expect new and more drastic insurance restrictions, it was indicated yesterday by automobile underwriters who, within the last month, have started an aggressive campaign to change the loss record here from "the worst in the country" to the best.

The insurance men commenced Mayor Cermak and the police department for their recent increased activity against automobile thieves and car strippers, but charged that the general public has not awakened to the extent of the evil in Chicago, notwithstanding the fact that automobile insurance rates here are the highest in the country and policy restrictions more drastic.

One new measure under consideration by the companies is a provision for refusing to issue policies for automobiles not equipped with coincidental locks. This type of lock operates automatically when the motor is shut off.

At present the practice of the underwriters is to refuse to insure a car owner whose record shows three losses by theft. There is a possibility that in adopting new restrictions the companies may change the rule in Chicago to make two losses the limit for one individual.

The theft record here for November showed 928 new cars registered, 2,738 cars stolen, and 2,582 stolen cars recovered by the police. The average loss for every car stolen, whether recovered or not, according to Mr. Sanders, is $150.

This record is sharply reflected in increased rates for 1932 for all makes of cars. The rate for one popular make, for example, in 1931 was $3 per $100 of insurance. This year the rate is $5.95 per $100 of insurance.

Actor Convicted

DUNCAN RENALDO.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Duncan Renaldo, film star, was committed to jail today when a jury of twelve men in Federal District Judge George Cosgrave's court found him guilty of all three counts charged concerning his recent trip to Africa to play in the film version of "Trader Horn."

Renaldo, whose real name, it developed during the trial, is Vasile d'Coghienas, was adjudged guilty of false statements on an American passport; falsely claiming American citizenship, and of perjury. The perjury penalty may not be more than five years in prison or a fine of $2,000, or both, and on the citizenship count, two years or $1,000 or both. Judge Cosgrave will pass sentence next Monday.

Testimony of government witnesses, one of whom was a man from Rumania, pictured Renaldo as a Rumanian who came to this country as a coal passer on a French ship in 1921. Renaldo had stated at various times in connection with official papers that he was born in Camden, N. J.

Outlines Four Year Plan for Cutting Waste.

$15,000 a day. By a readjustment we were able to reduce this by $2,000 a day, and we are now preparing specifications for truck equipment, together with a classification of trucks suitable for certain activities of the city. The records now available indicate a saving of $500,000 a year.

On License Collections.

"Another complete reorganization will be the revamping of our license and revenue collecting department. This department has been neglected. We have upwards of 300 city laws governing the issuance of licenses and the collection of license fees. This means increased cost, public inconvenience and lack of standardization.

"I propose to abolish the license department and assign the investigation of licenses to the police department, facilitating the work by the use of proper window signs showing the public that the business has been authorized. Many of our licenses will be dispensed with, standard costs will be established, and small businesses no longer will be required to have three or four kinds of licenses."

Police Force Reorganized.

Mayor Cermak told of the reorganization of the police department already brought about, of his plan for saving money by the consolidation of next year's elections and the abolition of one registration, and he advocated the consolidation of taxing bodies within Chicago, particularly of the large park districts.

"Chicago is coming back," he said just before he closed. "She is regaining her former enviable position slowly but surely. We are gradually taking our rightful place in the niche of universal respect and admiration."

TEAGLE IS SPEAKER

Walter C. Teagle of New York, president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, addressed the Economic club dinner guests as chairman of the national committee promoting the "share-the work" movement to which he is now devoting his entire time.

"This a-a is Chicago's own problem," he said in urging a spread locally of the effort to increase the number of people at work by shortening hours. "Every other large center has its own unemployment problem and cannot help you. The foundling is on your own doorstep. You can't leave it there

Urges Fight Against Slump.

"Your private business is secondary to this because you will have no business worthy of the name if you do not defeat the depression.

"Of course, business is far from satisfactory. It is probably the worst any of us has ever seen. It is not likely to be any better tomorrow.

"Then let us see what we can do about the day after tomorrow, about next week, about next month, next year. We are going to get out of this depression some time. We have been in bad holes before and clambered back."

Mr. Teagle pleaded that the start in handling the problem be met by a fight against unemployment as the principal obstacle in the way. But he spoke against a permanent dole system as "contrary to the spirit of the United States."

He said it was unimportant whether the effort to increase the number of people employed were made by the shortening of hours, the inauguration of furloughs, or the alternating of working days or weeks.

"To the manufacturer, the merchant, the banker, to all employers, spreading the work means contributing to a wider range of spending power with the subsequent increase of consumption that will presently reflect itself in his business.

"The employer divides his pay roll among a greater number of workers, giving to all a sense of security upon which free spending is so largely dependent."

Tells Benefits of Work.

Mr. Teagle also spoke at a luncheon at the Union League club, telling the benefits of his committee's work.

"We estimate," he said in that address, "that there are three or four thousand companies, mostly industrial, giving some work to more than 3,000,000 employés who otherwise might be on charity."

George A. Ranney, vice president of the International Harvester company, is in charge of the movement in this federal reserve district, the Seventh. Thomas E. Wilson is chairman for Illinois.

Agents Begin Preparing Their Report Today.

The government virtually concluded its investigation of the Insull utilities crash yesterday with the questioning of Samuel Insull Jr. Agents of the United States bureau of investigation will begin preparation of their report for the attorney general today.

About 10 days will be required to complete the report, it was said, and the matter is expected to reach the federal grand jury early in January, when the United States district attorney's office will seek indictments charging the greatest mail fraud in history.

Sixteen others besides young Insull had previously appeared on the 19th floor of the Bankers' building for questioning by the federal agents about the Insull investment concerns.

Appears in Outer Office.

Insull, who had been requested to appear by Melvin Purvis, agent in charge of the Chicago bureau, asked the girl at the outer desk whether Purvis was in.

"Your name, please," said the girl.

"Insull."

"What?"

"Insull. I-N-S-U-L-L."

"Have a seat, please, and I'll see if Mr. Purvis will see you."

It developed that Purvis would. Insull was questioned for an hour by Purvis and James Egan, head of the accounting division of the bureau at Washington. He refused to make any comment when he emerged, nor would the interrogators disclose what they had learned.

Other Officials Questioned.

It was learned yesterday that the following officials of the Insull companies and others having information about them have been questioned:

A. P. Arsenault, bookkeeper for the Corporation Securities company; William R. Irwin, auditor for Corporation Securities; William H. Culver, publicity director for the Commonwealth Edison company; John F. O'Keefe, secretary of Insull Utility Investments, Inc.; P. J. McEnroe, vice president of Insull Utility Investments; Fred A. Scheel, executive vice president of Utilities Securities company; Charles R. Whitworth, resident partner of Touche, Niven & Co., auditors; F. W. Mead of Halsey, Stuart & Co.; William H. Horan, salesman for Insull Utility Investments and Corporation Securities company; John H. Gulick, vice president of the Commonwealth Edison company; B. J. Murnane, Arthur Young & Co., auditors; Paul Jenkins, salesman for Utilities Securities company; Edward J. Doyle, president of the Commonwealth Edison company; W. A. Pennington, assistant secretary of Utilities Securities company, and G. A. Kemp, assistant secretary of Utilities Securities company.

F. W. PARKER, 60, RAIL EMPLOYE, KILLED BY AUTO

Frederick W. Parker, 60 years old, assistant yardmaster for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, was fatally injured last night at Ashland avenue and Roosevelt road by a car driven by Charles Euchner, 9241 South Racine avenue. Mr. Parker lived at 6109 South Fairfield avenue.

Parker's death and three others raised the Cook county auto death toll for 1932 to 1,056. The other victims:

John Bothal, 44 years old, 3859 South Damen avenue. Died at the county hospital. He was struck by an automobile at 63d street and St. Lawrence avenue on Dec. 4.

Eugene Summers, 18 years old, 7620 Chappel avenue. Died in Jackson Park hospital of injuries received when struck by an automobile a few hours earlier when riding on a bicycle at Stony Island avenue and 73d street. Wilbur Cassey, 23, of 6919 Anthony avenue, driver of the car, was held for the inquest.

Unidentified man, about 65 years old. Killed by an auto driven by Albert Svoboda, 213 East 24th street, Chicago Heights, at 30th street and Cicero avenue. Svoboda took him to the Berwyn hospital.

Lake Home of Architect Is Looted by Burglars

Burglars yesterday entered the home of Walter Huenemoerder, Chicago architect, at Countryside lake, a mile west of Mundelein, and took jewelry, clothing, and traveling bags valued at $3,000. Mrs. Huenemoerder told Sheriff Lester Tiffany of Lake county that the burglars jimmied a door of the house while she was attending a bridge party at Mundelein in the afternoon.

HOLD UP EIGHT IN HOTEL LOBBY.

Eight persons were threatened last night by three gunmen who entered the Shore Crest hotel, 420 Wrightwood avenue, and obtained $35. A dozen others, playing cards in a room adjacent to the lobby, were unaware of the robbery.

GOOD FELLOWS TO TEACH MEANING OF CHRISTMAS

Children to Be Shown It Is Day for Giving.

You parents with children old enough to understand can teach them the true meaning of Christmas by being a Good Fellow a week from tomorrow. Not that adults themselves will fail to benefit from exercising unselfish sentiments—but because youngsters are so likely to look upon Dec. 25 as a day for receiving rather than a day for giving.

As an example, read the following letter received at the Good Fellow headquarters yesterday:

"Although I am an unpaid school teacher with two children to support, I want to do all I can toward making some family happy on Christmas. I really shouldn't take all the credit, for the children feel their Christmas would not be enjoyable unless they remembered some one else also.

Will Give Food and Clothing.

"We would like to have a family north of Belmont if possible, and there can be any number of children in the family, just so that the girls' ages are 8 or 9 and a boy about 12, so that we may include clothing with the food and toys. Thanking you, I am yours sincerely, L. T."

Mrs. L. T. will be assigned a family in a neighborhood near her home. Her boy and girl will know that their basket is being received by children who otherwise would have no visit from Santa Claus. All families whose names are issued by the Good Fellow headquarters are recommended by the United Charities, the Central Charity bureau, the Cook County Bureau of Public Welfare, the Juvenile court or some other affiliate of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies.

An Evanston girl, 5 years old, became a Good Fellow yesterday. Her father took sixty pennies to the Good Fellow headquarters. He said she had saved this money to be used in buying toys and candy for some child who otherwise would have an empty stocking on Christmas. Every penny will be used in buying a basket, THE TRIBUNE paying administration costs.

Call, Write or Telephone.

You, too, can be a Good Fellow and carry a basket to some destitute family worthy of your kindness. There's a coupon printed on this page for your convenience. Mail it to Good Fellows, THE TRIBUNE, Chicago, or call in person at the Good Fellow headquarters in THE TRIBUNE Public Service office at Dearborn and Madison streets. The telephone number is Superior 0100.

Mrs. Ora H. Snyder, proprietor of a string of candy stores, donated 500 boxes of hard candy for Christmas baskets yesterday. The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company contributed $200 worth of groceries.

MAYOR LIMITS VISITING HOURS AT HIS OFFICE

Mayor Cermak announced yesterday that, beginning Monday, visits of the public to his office will be limited to two hours on three days of the week. Personal callers and citizens with complaints to make will be received from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

"I am run to death every day of the week by visitors," Mayor Cermak explained. "I had to make the change to get time to transact city business."

NAMES OF GERMANS ON HARVARD CHURCH MEMORIAL PLAQUE

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 15.—(AP)—A temporary cardboard plaque hung on the west porch of the new Harvard Memorial church today, giving recognition at last, after long discussion and controversy, to three Harvard men who died in the German cause during the world war.

The church had been erected as a memorial to Harvard men who lost their lives in the service of the United States and the nations allied with it. Strenuous opposition developed when it was suggested that it be considered a memorial for all Harvard's dead in the war.

But today, with the approval of the Harvard corporation, the cardboard plaque graced the porch wall. Its Latin inscription, translated, read: "Harvard university does not forget her sons. They died for their country." The plaque bore the names of Fritz Daur, Kurt Peters, and Max Schneider.

2 BOMB BLASTS ROCK HAVANA IN TERRORIST PLOT

No casualties were reported in either case.

ALDERMEN BOW TO TAX CUTS OF SARGENT GROUP

Accept $51,600,000 Total Levy for 1933.

The brief aldermanic revolt against the economy proposals of the citizens' committee on public expenditures ended yesterday. The council finance committee, with only one dissenting vote, adopted a resolution declaring it the sense of the council that 1933 appropriations be kept within estimates of revenue based on tax levies totaling $51,600,000.

Fred W. Sargent, chairman of the citizens' committee, told the aldermen that this limit on tax levies, which is $1,600,000 above the original proposal of the Sargent committee, would be satisfactory to that body. The council will meet today to act on the finance committee resolution, and its adoption is considered assured.

Adoption of the resolution by the council will fulfill the condition upon which the Sargent committee promised to request banks to advance funds for two weeks' Christmas pay for city and school employés, and for payment of city employés who have been laid off. These latter payments, principally to street laborers, will aggregate nearly $1,000,000.

Proposed Tax Levies.

The city tax levies for all purposes other than bonds and interest will, under the finance committee's plan, be split up as follows:

Corporate fund	$40,000,000
Public library	1,900,000
Tuberculosis sanitarium	2,000,000
Judgment tax fund	1,000,000
Police pensions	2,800,000
Firemen's pensions	3,300,000
Civil service pensions	1,000,000
Total	$51,600,000

The working cash fund, on which city fiscal authorities place their hopes of some day placing the city on a cash basis, so that it will not have to finance its activities by the sale of interest bearing tax warrants, fell by the wayside. But while the committee left out of consideration this fund for which it has power to levy $3,285,000, Victor S. Petterson, deputy city controller, assured the aldermen that they need not abandon all hope for this levy.

The working cash fund levy need not be adopted at the first of the year with the other city levies, Mr. Petterson said. It may be passed as late as next September. If times improve, it may be possible to include it at that time, he said.

May Avert Further Pay Cut.

The committee was told that the corporate fund budget, on a levy of $40,000,000, can be made to pay out without economies so drastic as to impair essential public services, and probably without cutting city employés' pay more than the 21 per cent in force this year.

Deducting 10 per cent of the tax levy for loss and cost of collection, the city will have available for corporate fund expenditures $36,000,000 in taxes, plus $12,705,000 in miscellaneous revenue, a total of $48,705,000.

City Controller Szymczak, in his preliminary budget estimates, placed corporate fund expenditures at $48,219,000. He was figuring on the basis of a $43,032,000 tax levy, but expected to salvage $3,214,800 by not expending all of the anticipated revenue. All but about half a million of this estimated salvage will be wiped out under the revised estimates of yesterday.

Mr. Sargent told the aldermen, however, that his group, in estimating the budget requirements of the city, had figured on a basis of 15 per cent instead of 10 per cent loss and cost of tax collection. On this basis he fixed the corporate budget total at $46,820,834, about $1,600,000 below the controller's estimates.

Mr. Sargent, Ernest R. Graham, a member of the citizens' committee, and John O. Rees, statistical expert for the committee, appeared with Mayor Cermak before the council finance committee.

"It is necessary in considering these figures to take into account the economic conditions through which we are passing," said Mr. Sargent. "We haven't fully appreciated the enormity of this catastrophe."

"There is no mention of the working cash fund there," said Ald. John S. Clark (30th), chairman of the finance committee, who led the fight against the Sargent committee proposals on the city council floor on Wednesday.

Demands Saving of Credit.

"While we are in the midst of the worst economic depression in the history of this community," replied Mr. Sargent, "it is no time to contribute to build up a cash fund for the future. The most important thing to all the communities in Cook county today is to find some way to save their credit. If the credit is lost you would lose a large market for your securities for years, and the large sums that you would have to pay out to finance yourselves would require you to make economies not now thought of."

"Your basis for estimating is a guess," said Ald. Clark.

"Can you give us an estimate of revenue within a day or so?" asked Mr. Sargent.

"The controller can," replied Ald. Clark.

"A total tax levy of $51,571,000 for all purposes except bonds and interest," answered Mr. Petterson when he was asked for the estimate.

"We'll accept that figure," said Mr. Sargent. "We are not trying to run your government, as we have been accused. But if you want us to we can step in and show you how to run it on that figure."

At the close of the discussion, the committee approved the resolution recommending the limit on tax levies, on the motion of Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th].

Plan for Refunding Bonds.

After the adoption of the tax levy resolution, the finance committee received from Controller Szymczak an outline of the plan for preventing default on the city's and school board's bond and interest payments on Jan. 1 and Feb. 1.

Under the plan as communicated to him by bankers, the city will have to advance $8,920,000 from its aggregate of funds, which now contains about 12 millions. This, Mr. Szymczak said, will prevent any other expenditures out of the aggregate funds before the latter part of February.

The city's cash payment will take care of all interest payments which fall due, and of the payments of principal on $300,000 in city water certificates and $4,360,000 in school board bonds. The finance committee will meet before the council meeting today to authorize the investment of city funds in school board bonds.

To meet its own bond principal payments of $15,036,500, the city will issue 6 per cent five year noncallable refunding bonds, which the banks will try to exchange with holders of the maturing bonds. The banks, it is understood, will advance any cash needed to take up those bonds whose holders refuse the refunding offer.

GIANTS' PHYSICIAN, SHOT BY EX-CONVICT, DIES IN HOSPITAL

New York, Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Dr. William J. Walsh, physician to the New York Giants, died this afternoon at Lutheran hospital after being shot three times in the abdomen last night by an ex-convict who made an appointment at his office. His assailant fled and five minutes later was killed in a gun battle with two policemen and a friend of Dr. Walsh.

The physician had only the slightest chance of recovery. He was conscious for a few minutes last night before receiving a blood transfusion.

Dr. Walsh rallied under the effects of the blood transfusion, but this afternoon his temperature rose rapidly and his pulse rate quickened. His wife, Katherine Walsh, was with him.

He died without being able to clear up the mystery which seems to surround the shooting, although the police this afternoon professed to believe it was a simple attempt at robbery.

Early Mailing Is Urged Because of Double Holiday

Postmaster Lueder yesterday issued a reminder that there will be no regular mail deliveries on Christmas day or Monday following and urged that packages, letters, and holiday greetings be mailed early enough so as to be delivered on Saturday, Dec. 24. To facilitate the handling of out of town packages the parcel post section, at the Dearborn street side of the main postoffice, will be kept open extra hours next Sunday—from 8 a. m. until 11 p. m.

2 CORNER STONES LAID BY HOOVER AT SAME TIME

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—(AP)—In an unique ceremony in which two corner stones, a quarter mile apart, were laid simultaneously, President Hoover today dedicated the great buildings that 18 months hence will house the labor department and the interstate commerce commission.

On the platform with him were leaders of the labor movement of the country and Secretaries Doak, Wilbur and Adams. None of the members of the interstate commerce commission was present.

The absence of the interstate commerce commission was explained as due to most all of the commissioners having pressing engagements and to Chairman Claude R. Porter being ill. It also was stated at the commission that the members did not know anything about the corner stone laying.

The day was cold, and a stiff wind blew across the speakers' stand. But President Hoover stayed through the two-hour ceremony.

My means of electrical synchronization and loud speakers, the ceremony was repeated at both buildings.

ANNA CASE ARGUES WITH RECEIVER OF ROXY THEATERS CORP.

New York, Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Through her attorney Anna Case, concert singer and wife of Clarence H. Mackay, accused the Roxy Theaters corporation of breach of contract today. It was said the matter might yet find its way into the courts.

Miss Case, until a few days ago, had been anticipating a week's engagement at the Roxy theater, beginning tomorrow, with a fee of $4,000.

A short time later, however, Howard S. Cullman was appointed receiver of the theater corporation, succeeding Harry G. Kosch, who had arranged for Miss Case's engagement.

On Tuesday Mr. Cullman wrote a letter to Miss Case advising her that conditions did not permit him, as a receiver, to continue the negotiations "at the present time," but expressing the hope that "we may be in a position to avail ourselves of your most unusual services some time in the future."

TRANSFER RAPE CASE AGAINST EVANSTON YOUTH

Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter of Evanston announced yesterday that he would transfer the hearing of the rape charge against Eugene Schoos, 17 years old, to some other Evanston court today. Schoos, who lives at 1433 South boulevard, Evanston, is charged with assaulting Mrs. Helen Holzfeind, who was attacked Tuesday night in the Ridge avenue elevated station in Evanston.

Magistrate Porter gave as his reason for the transfer the fact that relatives of Mrs. Holzfeind were active for one of his opponents in the recent political campaign in which he was elected judge of the newly created Municipal court.

Walter Flannigan, brother of Mrs. Holzfeind, appeared yesterday before Magistrate Porter and protested against the bond on which Schoos was released. He argued that when the bond of $10,000 had been set it should have called for the pledging of real estate of double that value. Schoos was released, Flannigan said, on a bond backed by real estate worth $15,000 pledged by the boy's father.

Piles Go Quick

No Salves—No Cutting

Thousands who have itching, bleeding or protruding piles have not yet learned that quick and lasting relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor suppositories remove the cause.

Bad circulation of blood in th lower bowel causes piles. The hemorrhoidal veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To get rid of piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, drive out the thick, impure blood, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, after years of study, found a real internal pile remedy. He called his discovery HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients, with success in over 900 cases, and then decided every piles sufferer, no matter how stubborn their case, might try his prescription with a money back guarantee.

HEM-ROID tablets have such a wonderful record of success that Walgreen's invite you to try HEM-ROID and guarantee money refunded if it does not end your pile misery.

FIGHT TAX CUT GIVEN WOMEN'S ATHLETIC CLUB

Court Ends Waiving Half of Penalties.

County Judge Jarecki yesterday examined the record of a foreclosure suit brought by Special County Attorney Henry M. Winston against the Illinois Women's Athletic club at 820 Tower court, in which the delinquent taxes for the years 1928, 1929, and 1930 were reduced from $146,597 to $76,255 on the order of Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel.

A year ago Attorney Winston contracted with the county commissioners to collect delinquent taxes from properties forfeited in tax sales. His pay was to be a small percentage of the accrued penalties. He filed a number of suits in the Superior court asking the appointment of receivers for income bearing properties and among these suits was the one against the athletic club.

Objections Bar Forfeiture.

The case was tried in court by Ralph O. Butz, an associate counsel with Winston. Judge Gentzel referred the matter to Master in Chancery Louis J. Behan, the records show. After a number of hearings, during which Attorney V. R. Loucks, counsel for the club, produced evidence of alleged mistakes in the assessor's measurements of the property, the master recommended the reductions his report discloses. Judge Gentzel sustained the proposed reductions.

Recently it was discovered that the club property never had been forfeited in tax sales, since objections protecting the property from sale were pending in the County court. A week ago when the matter was called before Judge Jarecki Attorney Loucks announced the judge had no jurisdiction since the Superior court case already had been adjudicated. The judge continued the case until yesterday.

Winston Appeals Case.

Attorney James W. Cutshaw, representing Attorney Winston, informed Judge Jarecki yesterday that the latter "wished to express himself as against allowing the Superior court decision to stand." Attorney Winston, Cutshaw said, had not been aware that Judge Gentzel's ruling was a reduction of the taxes. The lawyer said that Winston was appealing the case through a writ of error to the state supreme court. He added that Attorney Butz no longer was employed by Winston.

County Attorney Hayden N. Bell asked that the County court retain jurisdiction pending the appeal and Judge Jarecki agreed. Attorney Bell said: "We are watching this case to see if this sort of thing is a tax racket. No court in the land has the power to reduce taxes except the County courts. Even in the County court taxes may be reduced on only one ground—fraud. Obviously in this case there was no fraud in the assessment."

Court to Exact Full Penalty.

Judge Jarecki announced yesterday that he no longer would waive half the accrued penalties against tax bills in those objections pending before him where no substantial payments "on account" have been made. Warning to this effect was given on Dec. 1, and since that time a total of $3,829,319 in delinquent taxes from the levies of the last three years has been paid.

Among those who appeared before Judge Jarecki yesterday were the Bills corporation, operators of 47 apartment buildings, to pay $82,000 in taxes; Chester Davis, receiver for several properties to pay $18,173; the Lambert Tree estate to pay $50,873; Emil and Karl Ettel to pay $11,562, and more than 400 smaller property owners.

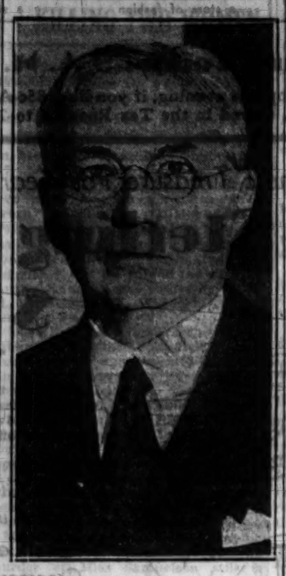
Judge Jarecki allowed the remittance of half the penalties on all the properties upon the promises of the owners and receivers to make their payments to County Treasurer McDonough today. The judge continued until Monday morning the hearing of the 1929, and 1930 objections filed by James E. Bistor for the 219 Lake Shore Drive Building corporation of which he is president.

Collects $758,050 in Day.

Treasurer McDonough yesterday collected $758,050 in taxes. Of this total 64 payments exceeded $1,000. The treasurer also disclosed that of $133,008,108 in 1930 taxes collected by his office to date, a total of $132,750,355 has been disbursed to the various taxing bodies, leaving only $257,752, or roughly 3 per cent, of the collections on hand. Another $12,000,000 collected by country town collectors has been completely disbursed.

On Nov. 10 the treasurer made a disbursement of delinquent 1928 and 1929 taxes collected during the preceding two months, amounting to slightly more than $1,000,000.

Named as Envoy



NATHAN W. MAC CHESNEY.
[Associated Press Photo.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Another Chicagoan was added to the list of Republican appointees destined to go unconfirmed by the senate when President Hoover today nominated Nathan William MacChesney, Chicago attorney, as minister to Canada.

Mr. MacChesney, recently assistant to Chairman Everet Sanders of the Republican national committee, was named to fill the vacancy created last summer by the resignation of Col. Hanford MacNider.

Despite the announcement of senate Democrats that they will block confirmation of appointees and their show of sufficient strength to carry out the threat, it was announced at the White House that the President would continue to send nominations to the senate.

Mr. MacChesney has practiced law in Chicago for many years. In 1911 he was made special assistant to the attorney general and later was special counsel for senatorial investigations. During the war he was judge advocate at the G. H. Q. of the American expeditionary forces and was decorated by the United States and allied governments. He is a personal friend of the President and has been a frequent visitor at the White House.

SCHOOL BOARD AWAITS REVISED BUDGET FIGURES

President Lewis E. Myers of the board of education said yesterday that the school trustees probably will not begin trimming the 1933 budget until after the first of the year. Department heads will not have their revised estimates of expenditures ready for the school board meeting on Wednesday.

The estimates of appropriations in the tentative budget of 80 millions are being surveyed by Howard P. Savage, business manager of the school system. The numbers of employes, textbooks, light and coal for each school are being worked out.

When the study is completed, Mr. Savage said, the school board will be furnished with figures "$8,000,000 or more" under the tentative budget. One of the largest items to be cut is an appropriation of $4,100,000 for new buildings.

Since the board has decided to adopt the recommendation of the citizens' committee on public expenditures to keep its 1933 levies within 48 million dollars, exclusive of the bond redemption levy, the budget trimmings will have to total somewhere near 19 millions. Several trustees are in favor of cutting salaries.

2,000 PROTESTING VENETIANS MARCH ON FRENCH ENVOY

VENICE, Italy, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Demonstrators rang bells in famous San Marco cathedral today and marched on the French consulate, shouting phrases of protest, as the Venetians joined the nation-wide series of manifestations against incidents in Dalmatia.

The demonstrators, numbering over 2,000, did not resort to violence. The bells of the cathedral, which fronts on picturesque San Marco square, noted for its pigeons, rang continually during the parade.

Resentment at the destruction of stone lions at Trau, Jugo-Slavia, is especially strong here as they are symbolic of the former Venetian domination of Dalmatia. A demonstration also occurred at Fiume today.

ONLY 2 JUDGES OUT OF 47 AGREE TO TAKE PAY CUT

Others Cluck Tongues and Rap County Board.

Only two of the forty-seven judges of the Circuit and Superior courts yesterday expressed themselves as willing to accept a salary cut to help the county live within its income for 1933. Not one flatly refused to take the reduction suggested in letters received from the finance committee of the county board.

The majority of judges clucked their tongues over "the ignorance of the law displayed by the county commissioners." They held that the judicial salary, under the state constitution, is wisely protected against "adjustment" to keep the courts clear of any influence. The request of the commissioners, they held, is utterly at variance with the spirit of jurisprudence.

Refused to Be Quoted.

Though these judges said they were opposed to the suggestion on principle and not on dollars, they refused to be quoted for publication. They preferred to be listed as having nothing to say. Others, who wished the same listing, denounced "an implied threat in the letters of the board." These said the letters threaten by implication to withdraw political support from Circuit judges who refuse to take the cut at the election next June and also to propose at the next session of the legislature a cut in judicial salaries.

The commissioners asked the judges, in the letters, to accept a reduction of 15 per cent on the $7,000 a year paid to them by the county. Each judge also receives $8,000 from the state. Thus, the commissioners point out, the actual reduction for the judges would be 7 per cent of their total salaries while other employes receive a full 15 per cent cut. This cut was taken without complaint by the majority of the judges in the fiscal year of 1931, which ended last June 15.

Reporter Canvasses Judges.

A reporter canvassed the judges in the county building on their attitude toward the proposal of the county board. Circuit Court Judges Daniel P. Trude and Joseph Burke were the only affirmative voices.

"I took the position a year ago at a meeting of the Circuit court judges that we should do this," Judge Trude said. "The other employes are being compelled to do so."

Judge Burke said: "I approve. I have not received pay for six months and have not drawn ahead. I am paid like the scrubwomen and other employes."

Other judges made the following comments:

JUDGE FRANKHAUSER — All I have to say is they owe me for six months.

JUDGE WALTER P. STEFFEN—Do the commissioners favor a moratorium of war debts?

JUDGE JOSEPH SABATH—I am taking the matter under advisement.

Asks About Board Economies.

JUDGE MICHAEL L. M'KINLEY—Is there any truth to the report the commissioners are proposing to reduce the membership of the board from 15 to 5 as an economy measure?

JUDGE JAMES J. KELLY—I will give the 15 per cent to charity, but I will not contribute the money to the county board, which is responsible for its present difficulties.

JUDGE HARRY FISHER—The matter of the money is immaterial. But I point out the courts are self-supporting, the courts fostered economies—on juries alone we save the county $400,000 a year, and the courts are in no way responsible for the present financial mess. Were it not for the courts matters might be worse.

Further, the board is attacking the foundation of our constitution.

Call Special Meeting.

As the reporter continued his survey he learned that the judges had been requested to say nothing until after a special meeting, which was hurriedly called for this afternoon. The call prompted other judges, who expressed themselves willing to take the cut, to delay their announcements until after the meeting.

Judges of the Criminal and Appellate courts were also requested to maintain silence.

AMY JOHNSON IS FORCED DOWN IN NORTHERN AFRICA

LONDON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—A cable message received here tonight said Amy Johnson, British aviatrix, who is seeking a new flight record from Cape Town to England, has been forced by bad weather to remain near Oran, Algeria, until tomorrow, when she will continue her flight. She is trying to lower the record now held by Victor Smith, 19 year old South African.

Smith took off today from Croydon field for Cape Town in an attempt to lower Miss Johnson's south bound record. Sometime later he crashed in a field near St. Malo, France. He was not seriously hurt and his plane was not seriously damaged. He said he would return to Croydon and try again.

Her mark for the flight southward is 4 days 6 hours and 55 minutes. His record for the Cape Town to London trip is 11 days and 15 hours.

BARE TANGLED FINANCES OF ILLINOIS LIFE

Cannot Be Reorganized, Receiver Reports.

in cash in both 1931 and 1932. This dividend amounted to approximately $1,000,000 each year. Asked if the company earned the dividends, Gen. Davis merely stated that "according to the books they did."

Many Assets Doubtful.

The report lists total assets of approximately $39,000,000. This, however, includes many doubtful items, including investments of $13,000,000 in the securities of the two hotels; $10,237,000 in mortgages of which $7,500,000 are described as "in trouble."

In summarizing his report Gen. Davis says, referring to the hotel investments: "If in place of these investments the company had marketable securities the receivership might have been avoided."

The Stevens hotel investments are divided as follows: $470,500 in the first mortgage bonds and $3,900,000 in the general mortgage bonds, and an unsecured note of $700,000 on the Stevens Hotel company.

No interest was ever paid on the note which was entirely unsecured, the report shows.

The investments in the La Salle hotel consist of $1,003,900 in the first mortgage bonds and $3,605,000 of gold notes which are secured by common and preferred stock of the Stevens hotel and the Hotel La Salle garage.

Liberties Traded for Note.

The company owned $3,500,000 in Liberty bonds in 1920, all of which have since been sold. The last sale was made to the Stevens hotel Dec. 2, 1931. The insurance company turned over $600,000 in Liberty bonds in return for which it received an unsecured note.

The report shows that members of the Stevens family were the principal stockholders in the company. J. W. Stevens, former chairman, holds 20,400 shares of a total of 40,000 shares outstanding. This block alone represented control of the company. In addition R. W. Stevens, president, owned 5,480 shares, and Ernest J. Stevens also held 5,480 shares.

E. J. Stevens in addition to being vice president of the insurance company was president of the Stevens and La Salle hotels, when the properties were placed in receivership several months. At that time he was named co-receiver for both properties.

R. W. Stevens, former president of the insurance company is said to have opposed the plans for financing the two hotels. In this he was overruled by his father J. W. Stevens and his brother, E. J. Stevens, who was head of the two hotel properties.

Removed from Both Jobs.

Under the court order issued last night he gives up his position with both of the hotel properties. Arthur G. Hall, who acted as co-receiver with Stevens for the Stevens hotel, will become sole receiver. Thurlow G. Essington will become sole receiver for the La Salle.

Among the collateral loans which the company made on securities of the two hotels was one for $1,160,000 to the Lincoln Securities company. J. W. Stevens, according to Gen. Davis' report, is chairman of the securities company and R. W. Stevens is president. There is another loan of $210,000 to George L. Douglas, who is not otherwise identified.

The company owes $1,112,750 to the Reconstruction Finance corporation for loans which it has obtained over the last several months. The Reconstruction corporation is holding $2,562,622 in securities as collateral for the loans.

Bring Back Army of Kaiser's Days, Von Schleicher's Plea

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—"I ask all my countrymen to look upon me not as a soldier but as the protector of the interests of the German people and one who has come not to bring the sword, but peace. My program centers on one main point—to create work for the idle."

These were the high spots in Gen. Kurt von Schleicher's maiden speech as chancellor tonight. He outlined a policy of conciliation and repeatedly emphasized the need of common sense in the solution of all vital problems.

He spoke of the old imperial army in which the rich and poor had 'to serve and learn the spirit of comradeship, discipline, and patriotism.

"I would like to see its return," the chancellor exclaimed.

He vigorously rejected the charge that Germany is seeking to increase her armaments.

Ready to Defend Nation.

"We are ready to equip our army with knives and cardboard shields if our neighbors do the same," he said. "But Germans are not ready to let their throats be cut without making an effort to defend themselves. Germany must have the same security as the others.

"The Geneva agreement represents a step forward," the general said, but in the same breath threatened that if the promise of granting Germany equality in armaments is not respected by the disarmament conference, the republic will withdraw from the league of nations.

Von Schleicher explained that he hesitated to accept the chancellorship "because a general as chancellor smacks of a military dictatorship."

"My views on this are well known," he said, "since I have repeatedly stated my belief that 'one sits uneasy on the points of bayonets' that is to say, one cannot run a government long against public feeling. My government must first win the public's approval through its actions. I will be satisfied if parliament gives my government a chance to carry out part of its program to prove what it can do."

Creation of Labor Chief Aim.

Declaring the creation of labor the pivot of his entire program, the chancellor said:

"It is correct to say that unemployment can be ended only through a genuine trade revival, but you cannot feed a people on the verge of despair on such theoretic considerations. We must erect a dam against the flood of unemployment until an economic revival takes place. I have asked President von Hindenberg to appoint a commission to procure work. He must work out a program of labor and then watch it like a police dog to prevent the bureaucrats and others from interfering.

"Almost $400,000,000 will be devoted to creating jobs. The settling of homesteaders in east Germany will be an important chapter in this connection. About 1,300,000 acres of land are ready for occupation in East Prussia along the eastern border of Pomerania and Mecklenburg. The land was taken from estates foreclosed by the government because the owners failed to prove they are able to run them profitably.

Confident of Success.

"The world's present misery was caused by the fact that too many people lost contact with the soil and massed in the cities where they were exposed to the blows of economic changes. It will mean work for a generation to bring the people back to the soil."

Von Schleicher said he was confident it could be done, pointing to the example set by Frederick the Great, who after the seven years' war brought back prosperity by settling city dwellers in the country.

He said he would follow the economic program begun by Franz von Papen, his predecessor. The program provides protection for the farmer through tariffs and, if necessary, embargoes, trade agreements with other nations to increase the sales of German manufactured goods, and an increase in internal consumption.

Opposes State Aid to Industry.

The chancellor announced his opposition to subventions to industry. He said he planned to compel companies, which have received financial aid from the state, to reduce salaries of their officials to the same level as those of state officials.

"I am not interested in changes in the constitution and other such furbelows because they will not feed anybody who is hungry," he concluded. "Our people want work."

Hitler Tightens Party Control.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNICH, Germany, Dec. 15.—Adolf Hitler, leader of the National Socialists, tightened his control over his followers today by appointing district "commissars" in order to "raise our movement's striking power." The commissars will act under Hitler's direct order, thus eliminating a number of sectional leaders, whose popularity had waned or who had failed to satisfy their leader.

GIRL ACCUSES STEPFATHER IN MURDER TRIAL

Bernice Meissner, 14 years old, took the witness stand yesterday in the court of Judge Thomas J. Lynch and testified for the state in the murder trial of her stepfather, Peter Meissner, 43 years old, of 5137 South Hermitage avenue. The state charges that Meissner shot and killed his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Meissner, 36 years old, on July 8.

Bernice told the jury, which is qualified to impose the death penalty, that Meissner was jealous of her mother and that they often quarreled. On the night of the killing, the girl said, she and her mother returned home from an automobile trip with relatives which had been sanctioned by Meissner. Meissner told his wife, according to the girl, that she could not go out again except with him. Later she was awakened by her parents' quarreling, the girl said, and the shooting followed.

LINKS INDIANA MAN TO POISON DEATH OF GIRL

Winchester, Ind., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Information incriminating a Tipton county resident, presumably a man, in connection with the fatal poisoning of Mary Kritch, 16, daughter of Mrs. May Dawson, 36, was revealed tonight by Nathan Mendenhall, Randolph county prosecutor.

The information was obtained while Mrs. Dawson was being questioned in connection with the death of her former husband, Walter Kritch, and another daughter, Betty Kritch, 5.

Mrs. Dawson was sentenced to life imprisonment last night when she pleaded guilty to killing Mary with strychnine.

BOY KILLS HIS FOSTER PARENTS WITH A HAMMER

'Mercy' Slayer Then Tries Suicide, but Fails.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—To end the suffering of his foster mother, dying of an incurable disease, an 18 year old Newtonville high school athlete today killed her with a hammer and razor in their home.

Then he murdered his foster father—"because father wouldn't want to live without her."

The crime of frenzied compassion was conceived and executed by Robert Bruce Jonah, who sacrificed a promising athletic career in high school to nurse for nearly two years the woman who had adopted him when he was a baby.

At 4 o'clock this morning Robert crept to the second floor bedroom of his foster parents and beat them to death and cut their throats.

Fails at Suicide.

He then tried to take his own life, first by gas, then by slashing his wrists, but failed. Barefooted and clad only in pajamas and a top coat, he wandered about in the snow near his home for five hours before staggering into a store and collapsing.

In an ambulance, en route to a hospital, he sobbed to the police, "I killed my mother to end her suffering. They told me she was dying slowly. I killed my father so he wouldn't be alone."

In junior high school the boy was an honor student and captain of football, baseball and basketball teams. Robert attended regular high school for a year, starring in athletics, but when his mother first began to suffer the ravages of disease in 1931 he left school to care for her.

Father Fights for Life.

For nearly two years he did all her housework. Two days ago he was told she was dying and that plans had been made for her to go today to a hospital. He told police that about 4 o'clock he took a heavy hammer and razor and went to his foster parents' bedroom.

While his stepmother slept, the boy rained blows upon her head. The foster father, who was 58, awakened and put up a struggle, but succumbed to the blows of the hammer. The boy then slashed their throats with the razor.

The body of Mrs. Jonah was found in bed, that of her husband in a crouching position on the floor beside the bed. Nearby, on the blood spattered floor, were the hammer and razor.

After he had killed his foster father, the boy said, he went to the kitchen and turned on the jets of a gas stove. The gas nauseated him and he turned it off. He then slashed both his wrists with a razor. The cuts were too high on the arm to be serious.

Real Mother Is Located.

He could not bear to remain in the house, he said, and threw his top coat over his pajamas and in his bare feet went out into the darkness and the snow.

Across the street from his home the boy scooped out a bed in the snow and lay down—as he hoped and thought, to die.

He said he was surprised that he did not die.

While the police were checking his story, the youth's real mother was found. So far police have concealed her identity.

She says she was betrayed by a man who is now married and has a family of three children and lives in New Jersey. She begged this man to marry her, she said, but he refused. Her mother died, broken hearted, she related, and she found a home for the baby with the Jonahs.

HUSBAND TALKS TO RUTH JUDD ABOUT KILLING TWO WOMEN

State Prison, Florence, Ariz., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Winnie Ruth Judd, conferred with her husband, Dr. W. C. Judd, and attorneys today, ostensibly regarding advisability of "telling all" in her battle to escape hanging Feb. 17.

Dr. Judd, who had not yet carried out hi threat to tell "the whole truth" to Sheriff J. R. McFadden in Phoenix, where the slayings of Agnes Anne Lerol and Hedvig Samuelson took place, and where Mrs. Judd was convicted, s et his wife in the women's ward. He was accompanied by Edwin H. Kara and O. V. Wilson of counsel for Mrs. Judd.

The attorneys intimated they would attempt to dissuade Mrs. Judd and her husband from any revelation at this time. Both repeatedly have hinted—Mrs. Judd in letters to her husband, and Dr. Judd in statements from Fort Whipple, where he went for hospitalization immediately after his wife was convicted—that another person was involved either in the actual slayings or in the dismemberment of the body of Miss Samuelson when it was packed into a trunk to be sent to Los Angeles, where both bodies were recovered.

Mrs. Judd was convicted of slaying Mrs. Lerol. An indictment charging murder of Miss Samuelson still is pending in Phoenix. Last Monday the Arizona Supreme court denied her appeal for a new trial.

BANK ROBBERS USE TEAR GAS IN NEW YORK

New York, Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Six robbers with tear gas and a machine gun, raided the branch of the Bank of Manhattan Trust company at 169th street and St. Nicholas avenue today, escaping with $11,000.

There was a brief chase through upper Manhattan, by two policemen, and later pistol fire in the Bronx. There a cruising police car picked up the thieves' automobile by the license number broadcast by radio from police headquarters. The robbers got away.

Police came running and the futile chases followed.

BRUTAL SLAYING OF WOMAN GIVES POLICE A PUZZLE

Lodging House a Shambles After Crime.

New York, Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. Kate Smith, known also as Kate Kinckle, reputedly wealthy landlady of a lodging house on State street, Brooklyn, was found dead in a room on the second floor today with her head and face beaten, probably with a hammer. The door and two windows of the room were locked.

Finding of the body followed the summoning of police to the house and resulted in the discovery by them of an unconscious Chinese in the basement with two fingers almost severed.

Soon after the discovery of Mrs. Smith's body a white man suffering from cuts and lacerations caused by blows on the head, arms and hands applied to the hospital for treatment. He gave his address as next door to Mrs. Smith's rooming house.

House a Shambles.

The rooming house when the police broke in was a shambles. There were pools of blood on the basement floor, stairs, and bathroom, and strands of long hair on the walls.

Mrs. Smith was last seen about 7 o'clock yesterday evening. At 10 a. m. today Mrs. Ruth Holland, living next door, heard a poodle barking and whining. She went down the area steps and looked through the barred window. In the dim light she saw the floor covered with blood.

Chinese Tells of Attack.

The police were called. Lighting the gas, they saw an unconscious Chinese seated in a chair. He revived sufficiently to make an incoherent statement. He said he had occupied a room in the house for nine months up to a few weeks ago, when he moved. He returned and reengaged the room, he said, on last Monday.

Yesterday afternoon, he said, the door bell rang. He answered and was confronted by a white man, who asked for Mrs. Smith. The Chinese said she was out.

Immediately, he said, the white man leaped into the hall, slammed the door, and attacked him with what he thought was a blackjack. He lost his senses and knew nothing more until the ambulance surgeon revived him.

FALL FATAL TO WOMAN.

SIX NATIONS PAY AND 5 DEFAULT; DEBATE COURSE

Hoover Drafting Proposed Plan of Action.

the market for French securities in this country. He also predicted that repudiation of a solemn agreement by France, the chief animating force in the league of nations, will operate to kill whatever chance there may have been of the senate voting to put the United States into the world court under the revised reservations.

Proposes Passport Fee.

Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] submitted, without comment, to the senate a resolution providing for a $5,000 fee for passport visas to American citizens desiring to travel to a country in default of its war debts.

Senator Johnson indicated that he will press for passage of the bill he introduced at the last session which provides:

"That hereafter it shall be unlawful for any person within the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction of the United States to loan to, or purchase or sell the bonds or other obligations of any foreign government, including any political subdivision thereof, while such government or political subdivision is in default in the payment of its obligations, or any part thereof, to the government or people of the United States. Any person violating the provisions of this act shall upon conviction thereof be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than five years, or both."

The suggestion made by Representative Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.] majority leader of the house, that the French bonds held by the treasury be commercialized and sold on the French market as a means of recovery from France of the amount due the United States was pronounced visionary by administration officials.

Sixty-Two Bonds Delivered.

France delivered to the United States 62 bonds, one for each year of its debt payment period, each bond in the amount fixed for principal payment that year. The agreement provides that France at the option of the United States shall exchange any or all of these bonds for "definite engraved bonds in form suitable for sale to the public, in such amounts and denominations as the secretary of the treasury of the United States may request, in bearer form with provision for registration as to principal, or in fully registered form, and otherwise on the same terms and conditions, as to dates of issue and maturity, rate or rates of interest, if any, exemption from taxation, payment in obligations of the United States issued after April 6, 1917, and the like, as the bonds surrendered on such exchange."

France also agreed to "facilitate the sale of the bonds in the United States, in France, or elsewhere, and that if requested by the secretary of the treasury of the United States it will use its good offices to secure the listing of the bonds on such stock exchanges as the secretary of the treasury of the United States may specify."

Interest 1 Per Cent.

Until 1941 the French debt bears 1 per cent interest. Consequently, any commercial bonds received in exchange would bear 1 per cent interest. They could not be sold at par at that rate of interest even if the debtor's credit were gilt edged and it would require an act of congress, the treasury pointed out, to offer them at less than par. With the debtor in default they probably could not be sold at 10 cents on the dollar even to Frenchmen, in the opinion of administration officials.

The question has arisen why the United States did not require the debtors to furnish collateral for their borrowings at the time the loans were made or at the time of the funding of the debts. According to treasury officials, it was inappropriate for the lender to ask security from an ally in the war. That the allies exacted certain security from Germany for the payment of reparations was attributed to the fact that Germany was on the other side of the fence.

French Cry for Default Based on Repudiation of Own Wealth

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 15.—Back of some of the inaccountable things said and written in this country in defense of France's default of solemnly undertaken obligations to the United States is a bit of psychology and a bit of history few Americans know about.

When the small French merchant or white collar office worker—a man noted for his conservatism in all questions relating to property, his formal honesty, his vociferous insistence on the sanctity of contracts—rises up and declares not only that he can't pay his share of the debt to his country's ally, but even becomes indignant when any one dares to suggest that he should pay, it sounds like sheer gibberish. Yet it is the truth.

Own Government Breaks Faith.

The argument he most usually advances is that France is no longer receiving any payments from Germany, therefore it is unfair to ask her to pay America. Yet any one the least bit familiar with French mentality knows that in private commercial dealings no one would admit such an argument, at least not so long as the debtor had any resources at all.

The real reason the average French man speaks so lightly of breaking faith with America is not because Germany has broken faith with him—which is not true anyway—but because his own government has repudiated its obligations towards him.

His own Supreme court has ruled that all sorts of obligations, public and private, assumed before the war in gold francs can be repaid in depreciated paper currency, worth one-fifth the value of the gold franc.

A Consequence of Inflation.

This sounds sensational, yet it was a simple and obvious consequence of the inflation. Before the war there was only one franc. It was the gold franc, even if represented by a paper note.

Theoretically, the treasury was obligated to pay gold for all paper notes submitted, but the time came when it couldn't any longer. There wasn't enough gold to go around. Reasons of expediency and common justice made it impossible to distinguish between different categories of citizens, between holders of one kind of government obligation and another.

Hence the decision that, in spite of the inflation and the stabilization of the franc at four cents, there was still only one franc—the same franc that had been invested in government obligations in 1913, even though its value in goods was only one-fifth that of the 1913 franc.

Foreigners Share Loss.

There were no exceptions to this rule. Every holder of stocks, bonds, mortgage, short or long term public or private paper of any sort had his wealth divided by five. Those who purchased obligations when the franc was already falling lost less than those who had invested before the war when it was secure. Foreign holders of pre-war securities suffered like domestic holders.

Foreign bankers and governments who loaned money to France after the exchange had started to fluctuate and holders of bonds floated specially abroad did not suffer because their contracts stated specifically that they were to be paid back in francs having a fixed gold value.

Only one controversy has arisen out of these foreign loans, but it is a very interesting one. It concerns the French war loan bonds floated in England in 1915 in pounds.

A few years ago the British bondholders fought in the French courts to obtain payment in pounds instead of paper francs. The Supreme court decided in principle against their claim. The basis of the decision rested on a technical question of the wording of the contracts, the French maintaining that under these contracts they had the option of paying back the bondholders in pounds or francs, but that the bondholders did not have the option of electing payment in pounds.

The British government tried to back up its investors and long, bitter negotiations with the French ensued. The French had the letter of the law—according to their courts—on their side. The British obviously had the moral claim. The diplomatic question was mainly one of expediency.

French Warn of Revolution.

The French negotiators declared that if they granted the British claim there would be a revolution in France. Domestic investors, it was argued, consented to seeing four-fifths of their fortunes annihilated by a stroke of the pen because every one was in the same boat. If foreign holders of the same securities were favored the domestic investors would rise up, it was declared. Eventually the negotiations broke off.

This case was extremely instructive because none of the confusing factors that apply in the American case existed. There was no question of the trick argument that France held back the Germans until the allied army was able to fight. There was no "Uncle Shylock" tradition against England. There was no dispute over the exact value of war stocks nor any possibility of a distinction between a political and a commercial debt. Neither was it an intergovernmental debt, but a direct obligation of the French government towards private British investors, mostly small.

Admit Deal was Shabby.

The French government, depending upon the sharp interpretation of a confused text, held that British friends of France who had given in the hour of need would be repaid only one-fifth of what they had given since French nationals, who gave to save their own country, could not be paid more than this. Many Frenchmen are ready to admit that, regardless of how those bond contracts were worded, the British holders were given pretty shabby treatment. The excuse given is that the suffering caused in France by the inflation was so intense, the ultimate sacrifice wrung from the French "rentier" so intense, that it was just politically and humanly impossible to do better.

An incidental but piquant feature of the story is that in numerous cases where foreign governments or companies have tried to pay French holders of their obligations in depreciated currency the French courts have decided payment must be made in gold. The contention of the French has been that in each of these cases the text of the debt contract has clearly specified payment in gold, whereas the text of the British contract did not.

FRANCE DICKERS FOR FORMULA TO SOLVE DEBT ROW

Seeks Compromise on Line of Herriot's Policy.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 16.—[Friday, 4 a. m.]—The possibility that France has not paid its last word on the default of the war debt owed the United States loomed this morning. Camille Chautemps, who was appointed by President Lebrun yesterday to try to form a new cabinet, declared that his principal objective is to find a compromise formula acceptable to the United States and to the French parliament.

Chautemps was minister of the interior in the late Herriot cabinet. He is a member of the same group of the radical Socialist party as Herriot.

Although the political difficulties seemed as formidable as ever up to 3 o'clock this morning, Chautemps had not given up hope. He even seemed optimistic.

Insists Herriot Join Cabinet.

He made it clear, however, that he will not attempt to form a government without Herriot remaining in the foreign ministry. It is not seen at the moment how Herriot can go back after the declaration which led to his overthrow Wednesday morning. Chautemps' idea is to pattern the policy of the government he will form on that of Herriot's.

There is a very noticeable reaction in political circles here against the default, and it is quite possible that many deputies who voted against Herriot Wednesday already have changed their minds. However, Leon Blum indicated last night, following an interview with Chautemps, that the Socialists remain intransigeant on the stand that the $19,261,432 interest payment which was due yesterday and which was defaulted after the chamber's vote, must not be paid until the United States agrees to attend an international conference on debts.

Berenger Sees Chautemps.

Henry Berenger, who negotiated the debt agreement with America, was prominent among the list of important political figures who saw Chautemps at the ministry of interior last night.

In his attempts to form a government of radical leaders, Chautemps first saw Herriot, whom he visited earlier in the day after Herriot had refused an invitation from President Lebrun to form a new government. Later Chautemps held formal discussions with the presidents of the senate and chamber, the heads of the important parliamentary committees and leaders of the various chamber groups. The conversations will be continued later this morning. Chautemps said he expected to be able to inform Lebrun whether he had succeeded in forming a ministry by this evening.

Franc Continues to Skid.

Meantime, continued weakness of the franc on the exchange today added to the purely political worries. Also, gold reserves of the Bank of France finally have stopped their steady upward climb. The weekly statement, issued today, showed a slight loss—less than a million dollars.

There is evidence that the steamers sailing in the next few days, notably the Europa on Saturday, will carry across the Atlantic almost as much gold as France would have had to shell out to meet the debt payment, although the exact amount scheduled for shipments is not yet known.

As yesterday, the exchange rate of all countries who honored their debt payments rose in relation to the franc, notably the pound, which won back all the ground lost since October. The dollar remained strong, at one time breaking the pegged figure of 25.625 to rise to 25.6275.

Reds Put on Demonstration.

Another disturbing factor was an attempt by communists to take advantage of the troubled situation to put on one of their most ambitious shows in recent years in the Place de l'Opera, in the heart of the shopping district, just at the evening rush hour.

The demonstration was quickly broken up by police, who arrested 1,320 of the demonstrators. Nearly all of them were released later. Chief interest in the demonstration is that it was put on by government and city employes in the various public services as a protest against wage cuts.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA PAYS $1,500,000 U. S. DEBT IN AMERICAN BONDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Dec. 15.—Czechoslovakia remitted $1,500,000 to the United States today. The sum represents a payment on the principal of a post-war loan of $123,854,000. This was scaled down to $91,994,000 by a funding agreement.

Acting Foreign Minister Krofta declared to parliament: "Our statesmen do not agree with the moral standard now followed by certain countries that are not paying. Treaties must be upheld. Nonpayment would be more expensive for us than the payment."

Czechoslovakia paid in American bonds instead of in cash and Czechoslovakia thereby saved $70,000. The minister in Washington was instructed to inform America that the payment is proof of Czechoslovakia's good will, and that it is hoped America will agree to a conference for a new final settlement.

"KISS OF DEATH" MARGARET FREED OF THEFT CHARGE

Margaret Mary Collins, 28 years old, known as the "Kiss of Death" in gangland circles, was freed yesterday on a charge of larceny by Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court. She was accused of stealing a fur coat valued at $600 from the fur shop of Miss Ethel Gittler at 2362 East 71st street.

Miss Gittler testified yesterday that she had been mistaken in her identification of Miss Collins as the thief. She stuck to her story that the identification had been made from a photograph despite police testimony that she had pointed out Miss Collins in person.

Miss Gittler denied that she had been intimidated or paid to repudiate the identification. Prosecutor Russell Root gained permission to question the witness in chambers, and returned with the announcement that he had failed to shake her story. Miss Collins ran to the corridor on her dismissal and provided a surprise when she and Miss Gittler embraced affectionately.

Miss Collins earned her title, "Kiss of Death," through bad luck she has had with gangland lovers.

JAILS EVANSTON DIVORCEE FOR SMASHING DOOR

Mrs. Michelline Morgan, 23 years old, of the North Shore hotel, Evanston, was sent to the bridewell yesterday to work out a fine of $25 for kicking the glass out of the front door of the home of her former mother-in-law, Mrs. F. W. Morgan, 1005 Chestnut street, Wilmette. She appeared before Police Magistrate E. A. Pettibone of Wilmette on a charge of disorderly conduct. The younger Mrs. Morgan was arrested last night after she had called at the home of her former mother-in-law and demanded the right to see her divorced husband, Ernest, an artist. The elder Mrs. Morgan refused and locked the door. Her former daughter-in-law then kicked the glass out of the front door and sat down to await the arrival of Wilmette police.

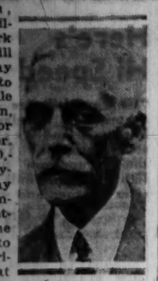
MELLON DELAYS RETURN HOME; TO HOLD DEBT TALKS

Report Envoy to Discuss Future Payments.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Andrew W. Mellon, United States ambassador to Great Britain, cancelled his sailing for New York tonight. He will stay over a day or two at least to talk with Neville Chamberlain, British chancellor of the exchequer. Britain's $95,500,000 war debt payment due today having been completed, the meeting is seen as the first approach to the future. Britain insists that there must be a new deal on debts or the next payment cannot be made.



ANDREW W. MELLON.
[Acme Photo.]

Mellon and Chamberlain will meet tomorrow morning and it is inevitable that revision of the 1923 debt funding agreement will be their subject. If their discussions extend through Saturday, Mellon will be unable to board the Europa, which is the last boat which will get him home in Pittsburgh in time for Christmas.

Eye Attack on Midwest.

The British public today mused over yesterday's debate in the house of commons. Many doubted the propriety of Chamberlain's statement that Britain would enter into new negotiations "with arguments which, indeed, might not appeal to the middle west, as one member has said, but would appeal to the more responsible and more informed section of opinion in the United States." This might prove a boomerang, some observers feared.

On the whole, the man in the street felt rather chesty because Britain paid instead of defaulting, and some of the previous bitterness was gone. The press, too, seemed soothed, but appended the ultimatum that there must be some adjustment or no more payments.

Publication of the secret minutes of the British cabinet of 1922 on discussions preceding the sending of the Balfour note to America, which was demanded by former Prime Minister Lloyd George in the debt debate last night, is deemed unlikely.

Lloyd George Repeats Demand.

Lloyd George repeated the demand today in the form of a question in the house of common. Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council and lord privy seal, answering for Prime Minister MacDonald, who is still confined to his house with a cold, said that responsibility for such publication rested with the king, acting on the advice of the prime minister, and that the prime minister was not prepared to advise the king that it would be to the public interest to publish the documents. Baldwin said it was up to Lloyd George, if he wented to pursue the subject, to approach the prime minister directly.

The transfer of the $95,550,000 in gold took place today with a note from the treasury to the Bank of England asking the latter to transfer the gold to the credit of the Federal Reserve bank of New York, which today made the payment in behalf of Britain to the United States treasury. The gold was moved from one vault to another and is at the disposal of the federal reserve. It is understood it will be shipped to the United States within a few weeks.

Finland Pays $186,235.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 15.—Finland paid its $186,235 war debt installment to the United States today. The payment was completed through the legation at Washington. The sum represents $128,235 interest and $58,000 principal on the loan of $9,190,000 which Finland obtained soon after the war. The loan later was funded at $7,413,000.

Estonia Announces Default.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TALLINN, Estonia, Dec. 15.—In a note to Washington Estonia announced default of its $356,370 war debt annuity due today. This sum represents $245,370 interest and $111,000 amortization. In September Estonia had taken advantage of the 90 day option postponing principal payment for two years. The original loan was $14,143,000, and it was scaled down 19½ per cent to $11,392,000.

Greece to Default Again.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 15.—A semi-official announcement today said Greece would default its Jan. 1 debt payment to the United States. The Greek minister in Washington will notify the government. Greec owes interest on a debt which was scaled down 67 per cent to $6,425,000.

LEAGUE ASKS U.S. TO TAKE A HAND IN MANCHURIA

Also Seeks Russian Help in Solving Row.

GENEVA, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The conciliation committee of nineteen of the league of nations assembly today unanimously approved the report of its drafting committee for settlement of the Sino-Japanese dispute, and communicated its terms to the Chinese and Japanese delegations. The draft resolution tonight was dispatched to the governments at Tokio and Nanking.

The moot question in Geneva was what reception Washington and the Kremlin would accord a suggestion for American and Russian participation in the pacifying process.

A Four Point Program.

The committee's resolution was understood to contain four points:

1. A reaffirmation of the assembly resolution of last March asserting the doctrine of nonrecognition of territorial gains brought about by force.
2. Restatement of the terms of the league covenant, the nine power treaty and the Briand-Kellogg pact.
3. Acceptance of those parts of the Lytton report on Manchuria which suggested an autonomous regime for Manchuria.
4. An invitation to the United States and soviet Russia to participate in conciliation.

Big Powers in Control.

The big powers seemed to be in control of the conciliation activities, but it was expected the smaller nations would be heard from in the committee of nineteen or later in the assembly.

In connection with the fourth point of the program, word from Tokio a few days ago said that the Japanese delegation here had been instructed to reject the proposal that an international commission be created to attempt a settlement.

The committee of nineteen probably will meet on Saturday and the full committee on Monday after the Chinese and Japanese members have received new instructions. It was understood that March 1 had been fixed as a tentative date for a report to the assembly by the conciliation body.

HUNT ROBBER OF TWO WOMEN.

The Chicago Lawn police yesterday sought a Negro who robbed two women of their fur coats and an automobile Wednesday night at 63d street and Crawford avenue. The victims are Mrs. Corinne Anderson, 32 years old, 5340 South California avenue, and Miss Emma Blazer, 23, of 6014 Harper avenue.

TRIAL OF COUPLE FOR BOGAN BOMB SET FOR JAN. 24

The trial of Mrs. Gussie Kallis, 40 years old, vice chairman of the Associated Retailers of Chicago, and her husband, Herman, 46 years old, on charges of conspiracy to bomb the home of Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan was continued yesterday until Jan. 24 by Judge Michael Feinberg. The continuance was granted on the plea of Defense Attorney Abraham Marovitz that illness had kept him from preparing the case.

Judge Feinberg announced that he would grant no more continuances and ordered the attorneys to be ready for trial on their next appearance. Supt. Bogan's home at 741 Gordon terrace was bombed on Oct. 22 after he and other principles had received notes warning them to change their policy on school lunchrooms. Some store owners in school neighborhoods had charged that the school lunchrooms furnished ruinous competition. Mrs. Kalis was arrested after handwriting experts said that she had written the notes.

RELIEF BOARD WILL SEEK NEW FUEL CONTRACTS

Takes Steps to Abrogate Present Agreements.

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission acted yesterday to effect large savings in the charity coal bill. A committee was appointed at a closed meeting of the commission to investigate complaints against the seven charity coal contractors and to cancel the contracts of those who have violated them. New contracts are to be made incorporating the savings.

"The Illinois Emergency Relief commission has received definite information that some of the contractors have not been furnishing Illinois coal from Franklin and Williamson counties, nor have they been carrying the coal to the bins of the clients," Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the commission, said after the meeting.

Violation of Contracts.

"This is a violation of the contracts and calls for their cancellation and action to recover damages from the contractors. The commission has acted to obtain all possible evidence of violation of contracts. This evidence will be presented to the state's attorney for criminal action."

The committee appointed to carry out this action is composed of Mr. Ryerson, Joseph M. Cudahy, vice chairman, and Victor A. Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, all members of the commission. The commission also appointed an advisory committee of non-members to assist in making the saving on charity coal. Its members are F. D. Reed, vice president of the Rock Island railroad; A. W. Ruf, purchasing agent of the Cudahy Packing company, and H. H. Brooker, purchasing agent of the International Harvester company.

Aid in Negotiations.

This latter committee will recommend a specification for the most economical fuel, and will assist in negotiations of contracts for the fuel, Mr. Ryerson said. The specifications of the present contracts, he said, were prepared by the Cook county board of commissioners, and the bids were advertised for by the County board.

"The commission is taking action as rapidly as possible and by every means available to the end that coal will be purchased in the most economical way," Mr. Ryerson said.

This morning Mr. Cudahy, Mr. Ryerson and Charles B. Goodspeed, Ryerson's assistant, will confer with Assistant State's Attorney William A. Rittenhouse, who is conducting an investigation into the charity coal situation. F. Bieschke and Sons, one of the commission's seven contractors, has been charged with delivering a cheaper grade of coal than the contract calls for. The Capitol Coal and Coke company has been charged with failing to deliver charity coal into the houses.

The commission was informed yesterday that an audit by its staff of the books of the Bieschke company, although not completed, shows the Bieschke company delivered only Indiana coal to its charity customers during November. This is a cheaper grade than the Illinois. Ferdinand Bieschke told the commission that his company had delivered only a small amount of the cheap fuel in an emergency.

Sell Relief Bonds.

The relief commission yesterday sold the 20 million dollars state relief bond issue, voted last February by the legislature, to a group of Chicago and New York banks. The banks bid $20,091,980 for the issue. The money will be used to retire $18,750,000 of tax anticipation warrants secured by the bonds. The bonds will bear interest at 4½ per cent and will mature in from ten to twenty years. They will be retired by the counties' shares of the state gasoline tax.

An unsuccessful bidder for the bonds was a syndicate composed of Halsey, Stuart & Co. and Chicago and New York banks and investment bankers. The Stuart syndicate submitted two bids, both higher than the bid accepted.

R. E. Simond of Halsey, Stuart & Co. said last night that the state will have to pay about $250,000 more in interest on the bonds because his groups' bids were not accepted by State Treasurer Edward J. Barrett at the designated time, 2 p. m. At about 2:40 p. m. yesterday the successful bid was altered, Simond said, and the interest rate on the bonds changed from 4¼ to 4½ per cent.

The public service committee of the county board voted yesterday to divert $500,000 from the counties' share of the state gasoline tax to be spent for relief of the idle. The committee suggested that $50,000 of that sum be loaned to destitute county employes.

KENT S. CLOW ELECTED UNITED CHARITIES HEAD

Kent S. Clow was elected president of the United Charities of Chicago yesterday at the annual meeting at the Harris Trust and Savings bank. Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, Sewell Avery, and Merle J. Trees were elected vice presidents; Robert A. Gardner, treasurer, and Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, secretary.

The treasurer's report revealed that expenditures of the United Charities for the first eleven months of 1932 were $3,879,625, as compared with $4,227,622 during the corresponding period in 1931. The report also showed that $3,146,621 of the first eleven months' expenditures was used for relief, and the balance for service work and administration, namely, $266,093 for the family service department, $41,840 for the legal aid bureau, and $18,716 for summer outing work.

The United Charities is more of a service organization now than ever before, Joel D. Hunter, superintendent, declared. With unemployment cases and relief for the aged, blind and chronically ill now being handled by the unemployment relief service and the family service of the Cook county bureau of public welfare, he said, the field of the United Charities is now that of family social problems and restoring them to a condition for self-support.

TAKES POISON; NEAR DEATH.

OLD TIME CIRCUS RETURNS TODAY TO AID CHARITY

Performances Mark 2d "Revival" of Week.

The Old Time Yankee Circus, a revival of popular entertainment as it used to be, opens this afternoon at the Chicago Stadium. Afternoon and evening performances will be given today and tomorrow.

It will be the second "revival" of the week for Chicago, as on Wednesday the old Auditorium theater, the home of opera for years, was aglow again as throngs thrilled to the music of concert and opera stars who gave their services to the Bohemians of Chicago for charity.

All Profits Go to Needy.

Today older generation Chicagoans will be on hand to hear the first strains of the calliope which will announce that a circus as it was put on in the days of P. T. Barnum has once more come to town. The entire profits will go to the Emergency Welfare fund of Cook county, and the affair is being sponsored by the women's division of the Salvation Army.

Pink and green handbills, reminiscent of the Barnum days, have been out for weeks announcing that the circus is "surely coming to the Chicago Stadium." Yesterday the elephants, advertised as "mighty marvels of expert education! Tons of performing pachyderms, exhibiting amazing intelligence and ridiculing the foibles of our day," arrived in moving vans, the last of the "20 big attractions" to reach the city.

The grand opening spectacle will be a "mammoth, mastodontic, magnificent pageant of transportation from the ox cart to the auto, from the covered wagon to the limousine." This is to be led by the drum and bugle corps of the Board of Trade post of the American Legion. Then there is to be the escore of honor both evenings of the Black Horse troop. Of course trained dogs, ponies, mules will go through their paces, and beautiful horses and the tight wire artists will perform.

Debutantes to Serve.

The venders of refreshments will be debutantes, the articles having been contributed by Chicago firms. The Kiwanis clubs of Cook county have reserved a block of 2,000 seats for tonight's performance and several boxes have been reserved for officers.

Among those who will occupy boxes tonight will be Mrs. C. S. Boothby, Mrs. Waller Borden, Mrs. A. A. Carpetner, Mrs. David Shields Cook, Mrs. E. R. Graham, Mrs. Walter Heller, Mrs. J. L. Houghteling, Mrs. Frances Johnson, Mrs. Morris Johnston, A. D. Lasker, Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, L. E. Myers, Mrs. B. J. Rosenthal, Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., and Mrs. Ralph Sargent.

NEUTRAL NATIONS PROPOSE PLAN TO END CHACO WAR

Ask Withdrawal of Both Armies.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—(AP)—World support of a new plan to stop the unofficial but bloody Chaco war between Bolivia and Paraguay was sought by the commission of neutrals today and a proposal for separation of troops and arbitration of the boundary dispute was cabled to the two governments.

Would Withdraw Armies.

The neutral plan called for withdrawal of both armies from the entire area in which fighting is now in progress.

Each side would be given an area to police with a "precaution zone" between the two areas into which these police could only venture after informing the other side of the necessity of doing so.

Even then, the plan provided, they could not cross a center line. A neutral commission would be sent to the Chaco to supervise the carrying out of the withdrawal.

Bolivia Recaptures Fort.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The army general staff announced today that Bolivian forces had recaptured Fort Loa, virtually restoring the army to its position on July 15 at the outbreak of the Chaco conflict.

Stanford Extends Leave of Wilbur Until March 4

Stanford University, Cal., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Trustees of Stanford university today tentatively extended the leave of absence of Dr. Ray Wilbur, president of the university and secretary of the interior, until March 4. Dr. Wilbur had not requested an extension of the leave, which expires Dec. 31. The trustees also reelected President Hoover to membership for a 10 year period.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

SENATOR FAVORS SEAWAY TREATY CLAUSE CHANGE

Vandenburg Makes Concession to Valley States.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] today asked the state department to study the advisability of adding reservations to the St. Lawrence seaway treaty which would more clearly define the emergency safeguarding clause of the Chicago diversion article of the pact.

As the treaty now reads, the diversion from Lake Michigan into the lakes to the gulf waterway is limited to 1,500 feet, plus domestic pumpage. An emergency clause provides that "in order to meet an emergency an increase in the permitted diversion," may be allowed providing an arbitral commission on which Canada was represented would consent.

The move was taken by Senator Vandenberg in an attempt to win sufficient support to the pact to secure its approval either at the short session or the special session expected to be called by President Elect Roosevelt. Although the senate foreign relations subcommittee which has conducted investigations of the treaty is expected to report it out favorably, senate leaders see no prospect of its ratification this winter.

Action of Valley States.

At the time the treaty was before the subcommittee representatives of the Mississippi valley states condemned the pact for radically limiting the flow of water at Chicago. It was asserted that the allowed flow was so low as to jeopardize the commercial usefulness of the gulf waterway. State department spokesmen as well as treaty advocates asserted the diversion was sufficient. They also said that the emergency clause would take care of any emergency that developed.

Cleveland Newton, general counsel for the Mississippi Valley association, as well as Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.], a member of the subcommittee, contended that the emergency clause was so indefinite as to be of no value. Mr. Newton asserted from the witness stand that it would not protect either Chicago or the lakes to gulf route if the treaty diversion proved too low.

"I have asked the state department to work up reservations to clarify the emergency clause," Senator Vandenberg said today. "I am hopeful that this can be done in a way that will satisfy the valley states. I am willing to agree to a reservation which would permit a larger temporary diversion in event Chicago's health was perilled in spite of a good faith effort on the city's part to complete her sewage treatment program.

Might Permit Increase.

"I would also agree to a reservation permitting an increase in the diversion for navigation purposes providing it was found at a later date that there was not enough water diversion to provide for a commercially successful waterway under the existing condition for the improvement of the Illinois end of the project."

In the absence of Senator Glenn, who left for Chicago, opponents of the St. Lawrence treaty had no comment on the proposed reservations. It was indicated no comment would be forthcoming pending the actual formation of the reservations. The Mississippi valley states have opposed any limitation on the diversion and have also fought the section which internationalizes Lake Michigan.

Senator Vandenberg, a member of the subcommittee, said he had not as yet discussed his proposed reservations with other senators or with representatives of the lakes states which have consistently fought all moves for an adequate diversion at Chicago.

Lectures in Chicago

Prof. Felix Frankfurter, professor of law at Harvard university, criticized recent decisions of the United States Supreme court last night in a lecture delivered at Mandel hall on the University of Chicago campus. His subject was "Problems of the New Era and the Law."

Prof. Frankfurter asserted that the highest court had frequently interpreted the constitution for the benefit of tax evaders and that it was overfriendly to the wealthy in considering legislation on inheritance taxes. Views of the court, he added, were swayed by the "economic cultures in which the individual justices were nurtured." He recommended a change in economic theories to fit the conditions of the present day.

DEFENDANT GETS A JAIL SENTENCE FOR CONTEMPT

George B. Kranz, 33 years old, 4845 Ravenswood avenue, was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail for contempt of court yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court after Kranz retracted his previous testimony that he was a physician. He was also held to the grand jury in bonds of $15,000 on the charge of operating a confidence game.

Kranz, who is married and has two children, was accused by Mrs. Stella Mann, a widow, of defrauding her of $4,700 by promises to marry her.

DRY CHRISTMAS FORECAST SEEMS OPEN TO DEBATE

announced yesterday that liquor for Christmas cheer would be scarcer this year than ever before in the history of prohibition. This is the annual statement of the office, just as it is announced after each New Year's eve celebration that a new record for sanity and sobriety was established, and there probably will be little consternation among those looking forward to "the festal inbringing of the wine."

Holiday circulars of the bottle goods men are out, and they modestly announce a bigger supply on hand, a better quality of liquor, and lower prices than ever before in the history of prohibition.

Hard times, it is said, have worked wonders with the bootlegging industry, softening the greed of the tradesmen and forcing upon them a code of ethics that may be relied upon in ordering such a rarity as old American bourbon. Slashing prices was not enough. They had to improve the quality of their wares, or there was no sale.

Mr. Hamilton said his sleuths were bringing in no fancy Christmas liquors from their raids. Unquestionably this is true, for a glance at the records proves that the agents are not bringing in much of anything.

There is said to be a bountiful supply of American bourbon on hand this year, for those who appreciate and can afford it. The price is $100 a case, $30 to $90 lower than it was last year. Old McBrayer, Kentucky Tavern, Paul Jones, Hill and Hill, Old Forester, and I. W. Harper's are some of the American leaders. Occasionally a half case or so of Old Cedar Brook (aged in the wood 17 summers), in the long necked quarts of blessed memory, is offered.

Far less rare are the Canadian bourbons, genuine and uncut, but they lack the age of the American product and consequently the brandylike bouquet of Cedar Brook. The price for such brands, as Old Colonel, Old Colonel De Luxe, De Luxe, Log Cabin, Pioneer and Old Dixie is $65 by the case, $3.50 by the pint.

Canadian rye is also $65, Golden Wedding, Hiram Walker's and William Penn being the current offerings. There is also a sufficiency of Scotch, ranging in price from $7.50 a fifth for the post-prohibition Canadian brands to $10 for Dewar's, Usher's and Old Vatted Highland.

Champagne—Charles Heidsieck's, Piper Heidsieck's or Mumm's extra dry—is $100 a case, a drop of $10, and there is a California bubble water (Golden State) for $65. Other wines, burgundies, clarets, ports, sauternes, muscatels and Rheins, all made in California, but potable, are $40 a case. See your neighborhood bootlegger for quotations on brandy and rum.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE FIGHT IN THE CITIES.

In spite of the stubborn inadequacy of economy measures in congress, and in spite of resistance to economy proposals appearing in our city council, there are signs that governments nearer the people are responding to the demand for relief which has been sweeping the country with increasing force during the year. We can offer only a partial list of cities and towns which thus far have made substantial reductions in expenditures, resulting in many cases in lowering of taxes, but the number is impressive.

In Illinois they are Lake Forest, Forest Park, River Forest, Streator, Danville, Jacksonville, Beardstown, Robinson, Moline, and especially East St. Louis, which has made a notable record. Probably there are and certainly there will be others.

In the country generally the list includes Portland, Ore.; Seattle and Spokane, Wash.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Gary, Ind.; Buffalo and Rochester, N. Y.; Arlington, Mass., where the budget was cut 25 per cent without resort to pay reduction; Louisville, Ky., which entered its fiscal year Sept. 1 with a surplus of $400,000, achieved by economies; Pittsburgh, Pa., which at least has made a beginning on a retrenchment program, and Omaha, Neb., and Iowa City.

Imperative as drastic reduction in federal expenditure is, the battle for fiscal solvency and relief from all-destroying taxation must be carried on from coast to coast. It must be carried on to victory by militant citizenship acting directly upon the money spending agencies in city, state, and nation. The battle has just begun, resistance is organized and ruthless, but the American people must win this fight if they are to be saved from the certain ruin of their prosperity and their institutions. They have never faced a greater danger to their welfare, in peace or war. It is in fact war, war against parasitism and chaos.

THE FRAGMENTED SCHEME OF GOVERNMENT.

Prof. Merriam of the University of Chicago, a student of political structure and action, is presenting pictures of the administrative confusion and cost resulting from divided authority. The ground has been covered also by the report of Griffenhagen & Associates. The Schnackenberg legislative subcommittee on local government has the subject under investigation. It has been discussed with sound intelligence by Prof. A. R. Hatton of Northwestern university. There is also a nation-wide consideration of it with the help of many scholars. There is progress toward the rebasing of political action as it deals with units within the state.

From the township to the state there is a multiplicity of big and little, overlapping, conflicting and confusing administrative units, costly to maintain and irrational in theory and operation. The case against this division of authority and responsibility and for the consolidation of functions into competent economic organization seems fairly clear, but it must be remembered that political action is not dealing with perfected or even perfectible elements.

Government studied in a vacuum becomes something different from government produced from human elements. The speculations aroused by Prof. Merriam's suggestions may be answerable and it may be demonstrable that in the end a scheme of government theoretically better will be found practically better. It is, however, true that the multiplicity of seemingly unnecessary governmental organizations comes out of the Anglo-Saxon instinct for local self-control, and against its disadvantages may be set some advantages which are not to be despised. Chicago has a number of park systems, three large ones, geographically recognizing the three major divisions of the city. One of these three is in terrible condition. It happens to be the park system of the area in which the people have been most careless as to the type of public official they would support. This area in politics has been most imposed upon by men to whom public office has always been a private snap. So far as the parks are concerned the consequences of such political action have been restricted to the area which has encouraged such politics. A different type of service has been given the Lincoln park district, for instance, because it has been known that people there would effectively resent a management which reproduced the west park conditions. Economically the park system might be a sounder one if it were consolidated under a single, honest management. The question which human nature asks is, Would it get that management?

This is only one instance, but it serves to illustrate why there is a defense of the fragmented political system. It must be conceded that there are indefensible instances. As an illustration, Oak Park may be taken. There is in reality a large and very good section of the real city of Chicago outside of it, dependent entirely upon the economic life of Chicago, lying much nearer to the business heart of the city than are many of the city's own wards, and yet completely out of political responsibility. The people there seek to protect themselves from what they fear in Chicago politics and at the same time continue to benefit by being part of the economic unit.

It's a mixed question and probably all that can be said is that when political decisions have reached a higher level it will be easier to bring about sweeping administrative changes. But under the punishment we are all taking at this time it should be clear that it is by the economies which can be made in this way, rather than by the passage of fanged tax laws to bleed the taxpayer still more disastrously, that this community is to be saved.

LLOYD GEORGE TELLS A LIE.

The responsibility for a mischievous statement in the discussion of international affairs is properly measured by the information which the maker of the statement may be assumed reasonably to have on the subject. The more precise the information is, the better informed the author is known to be, the greater his accountability for creating a false impression.

Lloyd George was cheered in the house of commons when he said the United States was largely responsible for world troubles of the present because it repudiated its signature to the Versailles treaty. Lloyd George knows, although a great many other Britishers may not be expected to know, that the United States could not repudiate what it had not undertaken. He knew that Mr. Wilson had no authority, explicit or implicit, to do more than negotiate a treaty for consideration of the final authority in America, the senate. He knew that Mr. Wilson had asked for a vote of confidence in the congressional election which preceded the conference and that it had been specifically denied him. He knew that the only reason Mr. Wilson could thereafter even appear in Europe as a negotiator was because the American government is different from the British parliamentary system. No one in Europe was better informed as to the precise limitations within which the Americans at Versailles acted. Lloyd George arouses a prejudice in the British house by saying what he knows to be untrue both in essence and form. It is a reflection upon his character as a statesman that he will add a falsehood of this character to a situation which is complex enough even if the controversy is kept within the truth.

IN THIS CORNER, MR. FARLEY.

Mr. Jim Farley must be regarded as a man who has deserved well of the American state if it is to be accepted as the general belief that the recent election had an outcome highly desirable, if not miraculously fortunate. For the politics of the day, both domestic and international, Mr. Farley had an invaluable training. He had a successful career in the arena and aroma of the prize ring, where the first rule is to see that the sucker never gets an even break. Now politics requires many illusions regarding the human race in one direction and no illusions whatever in another. Mr. Farley's natural temperament seems to contain all the required illusions and his experience gave him the necessary reserves.

Because of these qualifications Mr. Farley is fancied for secretary of state. He is liked for that job. He would know just when to say, "Excuse my glove," what kind of a glove it should be, and just where it should be landing at the moment of apology. Mr. Farley's sporting experience has taught him when it is better to be a drop of oil than a bone of contention. In organizing Gov. Roosevelt's training camp he proved himself to be a talented manager, able to get the support of many varieties of Jeffersonians whose first and healthiest instinct would have been to cut each other's throat. A man who can pacify the fight game might be able to pacify the Democracy. Mr. Farley proved it. Any one who could clear the ring to allow Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hoover to fight it out and keep Al Smith and Mr. McAdoo from taking the fight over to themselves is a genius whose star should lead him into wider fields.

As secretary of state Mr. Farley would face an international situation which would put him on his mettle. He would observe that a close application of the maxim that the world is always looking for a sucker was plainly required under the hat of the secretary of state. All that he had learned, in the prize fight game, of the squeeze, and the gyp, the double cross, and two-timing would give him an appetite for the meals diplomacy would be prepared to serve him. John W. Davis, who has been mentioned for this post, would have none of Mr. Farley's experience with gentlemen who would rather be a trifle shady as a policy, even if it cost them something to practice their art.

Mr. Farley would be something new for the United States to send into the diplomatic ring, and Americans might be confident that there was more chance than usual of the referee counting ten over the other fellow. If one of the two could not come up for the bell the chances are it would not be Mr. Farley.

Editorial of the Day

[Danville Commercial-News.]

Any one who thinks the American people are down and out, without a cent to spend for anything but absolute necessaries of life, must have been suffering from a nightmare or something. At least there are convincing signs of spending power in the mid-continent region which Chicago modestly calls "Chicagoland."

The president of the Chicago Motor club, which has several dozen branch offices in Illinois and Indiana, reports that last month the club handled 19,207 requests for road information from prospective tourists. This is an increase over the November record of 1921, and, as he interprets it, "a definite sign of returning prosperity." There was an increase particularly in requests for routes to Florida.

If touring in the country generally has been increasing as much as it has in the Chicago region, says this authority, expenditures for motor vacations for the present year will be more than 2 billion dollars. He thinks this figure is low, and there will be a "tremendous increase" next year. He split the two billions up into 400 million dollars for gasoline, oil, and other car operating costs; 400 million dollars for hotels and tourist rooms, 420 million dollars for restaurants, 500 million dollars for retail purchases, 150 million dollars for amusements, and 120 million dollars for confections, with a few millions left over, probably for picture postcards.

Maybe a lot of discouraged tourist camps will be opening up again next spring.

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"WELL, WHAT ARE YOU going to do about it?"—France to Uncle Sam. Now, what could we do about it? We might advise our tourists not to pour by the tens of thousands into Paris every summer, throwing money around right and left. But that wouldn't keep American tourists out of Paris. The American tourist can no more keep away from Paris than a moth can keep away from the flame of a candle. And, like the moth, they get their wings singed and their eyebrows burned off (if they're he-tourists and have eyebrows), but as soon as they can stand up they go back for more punishment.

JOHN BULL PAID like a man. Then our tourists (if any there be next summer) should go to England. The tourists don't know it, but England, Scotland, and Wales are a thousand times more beautiful than France, anyhow. ("And, besides," said the fox, as he whisked his tail and walked away, "the grapes are sour.") A day in Cornwall is worth four weeks on the Bois de Boulogne, and one walk across the heather on a Scottish moor is better than a year in the château country. But you can't make Americans believe it; they're Paris mad. So that's out; we're not going to keep our tourists, if any, away from France next summer.

OF COURSE, WE MIGHT have a nice little war with France. But France would have to borrow money if she went to war, and, naturally, she'd send right over to the United States to borrow it. And if you think France wouldn't have the nerve to do that very thing then you don't know France. And if you think, in the face of what's happened, that the U. S. A. wouldn't lend 'em the money then you don't know the U. S. A. So we oughtn't to go to war with France. If we had to fight 'em with one hand and loan 'em money with the other it would cramp our style something awful. We've got to think up something else.

CHRISTMAS, 1932.

Though faith has languished and the world's askew,
O Santa Claus, we still believe in you!
Still, in the heart of each of us, there dwells
A child who thrills to jingling Christmas bells.

Still, not quite disillusioned, we believe;
And, in the twilight of each Christmas eve,
Hang, near the hearthstones of our hearts, a pair
Of empty stockings, with a childish prayer.

But if you cannot bring to us this year
So many trinkets, bring us more of cheer,
And, from your gentle soul, pray kindly bless
Us with the will to be content with less.

There are so many Tiny Tims today,
And Scrooges with their riches swept away,
Haunted by ghosts of Christmas Past at night,—

Let them help one another. Tiny Tim
Shall find delight in trifles; as for him,
The Scrooge of broken fortunes, he shall see
The world made over in the child's rare glee.

And helping one another thus, afar,
Above the desert, they shall glimpse the Star
That pointed, and still points, to Bethlehem,
Whose peace and solace shall encompass them.

FROM SMALL TOWNS comes the report that the merchants are putting back the hitching posts they tore down with the dawn of the automobile age. Now the farmers have hitched old Dobbin to the shay and are driving to town again. Well, a horse doesn't get sand in his carburetor or blow out a front tire nor drink gasoline at twenty cents a gallon nor freeze in cold weather. But our old bus, on the other hand, doesn't have the heaves or the glanders or eat oats and hay and give us a swift kick in the pants if we happen to stroll carelessly around his south elevation. On thinking it over carefully, the storekeepers in the small town needn't put out any hitching posts for our nag. If we can't afford the bus, then, by gravy, we'll walk.

MIGRAINE.

W. B. S. gives his methods of preventing and relieving attacks of migraine, based on a long experience in taking care of himself. He has been migrainous throughout his adult life. The plan is his modification of the many plans given him by physicians, told him by other sufferers, read of in the literature, and worked out by "trial and error." In most instances the words are his.

Preventive expedients are many and varied and should include: A maximum allowance of sleep, a minimum of stress, mental or physical; a diet carefully regulated as to quantity, quality, and components; an active elimination. Even eleven hours of sleep daily, including an afternoon nap, is none too much in long standing cases if subjects can get it.

Quiet sleeping places are not easy to come at now. Emotion is the greatest proximate precipitant and the migrainous appear all to be of unstable equilibrium. Even the ordinary wear and tear of daily routine is trying to the typical migrainous subject. An outdoor, carefree life is the ideal, but few can arrange it. Excitement, especially sex, cards, social whirl, movies, overwork, tension, worry, all have their price. Most persons eat too much.

The migrainous should reduce their food intake to the minimum. A man not engaged in manual work should eat not to exceed 2,000 calories. Meats, including eggs and fish, should be eaten sparingly. When they are eaten they are best taken finely cut up as, for instance, in sausage and hamburger.

The purin producers, such as coffee, alcohol, tea, and chocolate, should not be consumed either with meals or between them. The evening meal should not be heavy, nor should it contain any rich foods. In cooking vegetables the liquor should be eaten. Pot liquor is an excellent food. Since many subject to this trouble also suffer from spastic constipation, it is often advisable to cook the vegetables in water and eat the liquor with bread and not eat the vegetable fiber. "Dunking" pot liquor has its merits.

Strained vegetable soups are better than thicker soups rich in coarse fibered vegetables for many migraine subjects. Stewed fruits are permissible, but they should not be unduly sour. The acids of unripe and sour fruits sometimes appear to harm people of this type. Stewed fruits and sweet or well ripened fruits are better for them.

Two quarts of water and other fluids should be consumed before 4 in the afternoon, but after that hour it is inadvisable to drink anything. Many of them are better off if they drink no milk and eat no milk products. Neither butter nor any other fats are well tolerated. Eating of sweets should be fairly restricted. Rough foods, spices, and condiments should be left entirely alone. Artificial preservatives, such as those used in curing some meats, and coal tar flavors and dyes should not be eaten. A varied diet is best. Starchy foods must be the mainstay and bread and butter, with fruit and vegetable juices, furnish very nearly a balanced ration. If a sufferer has a food idiosyncrasy he should never break over the inhibitions it imposes.

ENLARGED LIVER.

A reader writes:

1. What causes an enlarged gall bladder and liver?
2. What can cure this?
3. Is it serious?

REPLY:

1. The enlargement of either organ may be primary, that of the other being secondary. Among the causes of large gall bladder are cancer, gallstones, infected gall bladder. Among the causes of enlarged liver are cancer, one form of cirrhosis, abscess, yellow fever, malaria, syphilis, leucemia, excess fat, overeating, alcoholism, heart disease, gall bladder infection, and many others.
2. Depends on what it is. Many cases are not curable. Some can be cured by taking a purgative and not eating for a few days. There are many treatments where there may be any one of many causes.
3. It may be very serious.

ALIEN HEAD TAX.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—[Friend of the People.]—On entering this country [under quota] I had to pay $8 as alien head tax. I understand that this is refunded should I leave this country within six months from the date of entry. Is this correct? If so, how can I obtain this refund? J. S. M.

For the purpose of your reply I shall infer from the statement that the alien entered under the quota and that he was admitted for permanent residence. An alien admitted for permanent residence cannot obtain a refund of head tax, regardless of the length of time he remains here.

If the person about whom the writer inquires was admitted instead as a visitor or in transit to some other country, then he should communicate with the immigration officer in charge at the port of entry for information, as the matter of head tax refund would depend upon the conditions of admission. K. I. ZIMMERMAN.

ADMINISTRATOR'S FEE.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When a bank is made administrator of an estate to be settled at death [1] is the amount of the bank's fee determined by law, and if so, what is the amount? 2. Does this amount cover the attorney's fee when an attorney is employed by the bank? 3. If not, what does the law allow the attorney in addition to the administrator's fee? W. S. B.

1. The Illinois statute specifies a fee of not over 6 per cent of the personal property, but the court ordinarily does not allow this full figure, particularly on large estates. Four per cent would be nearer the average.
2. Yes.
3. See 1 and 2.

TRUST FUND.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a widower and have one son who is very shiftless. I therefore had a lawyer draw up my will and in it I appointed a trustee for said son. There is a clause in said will which I would like to know about; that is, whether it is legal. The clause reads: "I devise and bequeath all of my estate, whether real, personal, or mixed, to [1] John Doe as trustee for my son Emil J." I am under the impression that my son should be named as heir instead of John Doe as trustee. E. J. A.

1. If you mean that the words "John Doe" appear instead of the actual name of a trustee, this would be most unusual and we would consider it objectionable. If you are using these words as a substitute for the actual name, then this would be a common way to handle the matter.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 16, 1916.

LONDON.—A dispatch from Petrograd says: "The duma has unanimously passed a resolution against the acceptance of the German peace proposals after a spirited speech by the minister of foreign affairs."

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson will voice no peace appeal of his own when he transmits to Great Britain and her allies the peace overtures of the Teutonic powers. Conditions are deemed unpropitious for advancing an American plea for peace in conjunction with the German note suggesting a parley on the termination of the war. If it transpires later that the allies are not averse to receiving peace representations from the United States, the President will undertake to mediate.

LONDON.—The French delivered what London regards as their reply to the peace proposal from Berlin. It was a terrific smash against the German lines in the region of Verdun, which resulted in the greatest single advance on the western front for months. The drive was made between the Meuse and Woevre rivers to the north of Douaumont. When it ended the French were in possession of German trenches to a depth of two and one-half miles along a front of approximately seven miles. They captured five heavily fortified points, 7,500 prisoners, and several heavy guns. The onset is the first heavy blow struck at the German armies since Gen. Nivelle, "the man of action," took command of the French armies, succeeding Joffre.

ATHENS.—The demands of the entente allies presented to the Greek government today were in the nature of an ultimatum. All Greek troops are to be withdrawn from Thessaly, and only a certain number of soldiers are to be concentrated in Peloponnesus. The demands for reparation for the events of Dec. 1 and 2, when fighting took place between entente landing forces and Greek troops, are to be formulated later.

LONDON.—The British resumed the offensive in Mesopotamia and defeated the Turks near Kut-el-Amara, where the British suffered one of their greatest defeats of the war.

BERLIN.—The Austro-German forces pressed onward in Rumania, taking the city of Bazau and forcing the retirement of the Rumanians and Russians to the north and also in Dobrudja.

EL PASO, Tex.—A Mexican reached the border from Villa's camp at Creel, fifty miles west of Minaca, in the Guerrero district of Chihuahua, with proposals for the United States government that Villa would refrain from the further destruction of foreign life and property in Mexico on condition that the United States would not interfere in any way with his campaign against the Carranza government.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson has sent to the senate the nomination of Brig. Gen. John J. Pershing, commanding the American expeditionary forces in Mexico, to be a major general.

CHICAGO.—Clinging tenaciously to the zero mark, the cold wave cracked its whip over Chicago with a farewell snap, after twenty-four hours of chills that ranged from 2 below on Dec. 14 up to 14 above yesterday and then down again to 3 above. Today the cold wave ends, according to the forecaster.

FROM THE AUSTIN BAND.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—The pitiful efforts to manufacture a motive for the murder of Capt. Schildhauer deserve some comment from those who knew him best—his band boys.

Therefore we, as the Austin band, seek space in the columns of your periodical in which we may with every fiber of our being cry No! No! and again No! to any such vile and unfounded insinuations as are being offered the public.

We virtually lived with "Cap." We actually loved him. We will always revere his memory.

He was our instructor, our adviser, and our pal. He was clean. He was manly and he was big and fine.

He helped us, in wonderful sympathy and accord with our parents, to look with courage into the future which is beginning to unfold before our eyes as citizens.

Our minds and hearts have no room in which to harbor any thought that "Cap" ever dealt in alcohol or gave the improper thought or glance to women.

We publicly challenge and denounce those who would vilify him. We hold society and those who neglect her mandates directly responsible for the death of the finest man we ever knew.

We pledge ourselves to live on and on in the manner "Cap" would have wished us to. THE AUSTIN BAND.

AS IN 1776.

Evanston, Ill., Dec. 6.—Your article on the new bill on tax forfeiture interests me, especially when I compare it with utterances of an English king in 1776 against my forbears, who also fought for honor and justice in taxation.

Will you kindly either publish, or send me, the names of this "citizens' committee" who wish more easily to gain control of property of citizens who in the past had faith in Chicago and invested their money in property? Will you also let your public know the number of little homes lost by people who worked and saved that their children might have a home of their own? This is not a taxpayers' strike as you are pleased to call it. This is a revolution against dishonesty and injustice.

It is a curious thing how closely the names of those fighting this revolution compare with the names of the embattled farmers in 1776 and how the names of the politicians trying to force their ruin compare with those foreign armies sent by the English king to force his might and will in 1776. A. R. G.

THE SHORTER WEEK.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 9.—"The shorter work day and work week must be given in response to reason or we will secure it through force of some kind," said President Green of the A. F. of L.

Force will not be necessary, Mr. Green. The steel industry, which is not even unionized, has been on a two days a week basis now for over a year, instituted voluntarily by the management. In fact, nearly all industries are applying your remedy, Mr. Green, in somewhat larger doses than you propose. Some workers are beginning to suspect it is the wrong remedy. But then a president of labor ought to know.

H. W. NOREN.

THE BENEFITS OF A COLLEGE EDUCATION.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—I have a few solid facts which I hope will be driven home to some of the hopeless nearsighted wet readers. Only last week a great clergyman in Chicago made this wise statement: "No man has ever drunk himself to prosperity and no nation will ever do so either!"

Here is one for you scientific minded folks. If you heat a piece of copper wire red hot and dip it suddenly into some grain alcohol the alcohol will oxidize into ethyl-aldehyde, a form of embalming fluid. If alcoholic liquors are taken internally precisely the same reaction takes place in the stomach, and it becomes slowly embalmed and ulcers often result. The stomach tissues are coagulated in much the same manner as the white of an egg when you fry it. Is not the battle of life bitter and hard enough to win without deliberately deteriorating your body by taking this poison, which everybody wants legalized again?

The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment is made up largely of wealthy manufacturers, who know that repeal will relieve them of their large taxes and place the burden upon millions of common working people, who will drink themselves to death and put their families in poverty. These influential men also know that the majority of American citizens will swallow propaganda hook, line, and sinker, so they give it to them with both barrels.

Repeal of prohibition will not do away with gangsters! These "lauded heroes" have already sensed repeal many months ago and are turning their attention toward other industries. ILLINI '32.

DIVIDENDS AND RATES.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—I see that there is talk of the Commonwealth Edison company increasing the dividend on their stock. Perhaps it would be in order to inform Mr. James Simpson et al. that the long suffering public would rather see a reduction in the rates instead of increasing the rate of return to stockholders, which at present is ample. It might not be amiss for the Illinois commerce commission to take notice of this article. LEROY ESCHNER.

JABLONSKI.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—The readers of THE TRIBUNE sport pages were erroneously informed about the new 1933 captain of the Army football team. His name is not Harvey Jablonsky, but Harry J. Jablonski. The name with the letter "y" indicates Jewish or Russian origin, while a name ending in "i" almost always is Polish, and the new Army captain is of Polish descent. FRANK W. MLANOWSKI.

SUPERFLUOUS POSTMASTERS.

Racine, Wis., Dec. 3.—There is one extravagant waste of tax moneys I have never seen you attack and that is the positions of postmasters. In every small town that I have any knowledge of the postmastership has been a political position. I have always felt that if the assistant postmasters were raised to postmasters at their present salaries and all present postmasters were dismissed a just and great saving for the postal department would result. BANKERS SAVE NEW YORK CITY FROM DEFAULT

Advance 110 Millions to Meet Obligations.

New York, Dec. 15.—[Special.]—The 110 million dollars needed to meet the city's obligations due today was forthcoming in time to save the credit of the city as it came to the brink of default.

The Chase and National City banks advanced $36,000,000 to Controller Charles W. Berry, confident apparently that the board of estimate will make the slashes totaling $40,000,000 in the 1933 budget as it is empowered to do by the city relief bills adopted at the extraordinary session of the legislature, which ended after midnight.

At the same time, $74,000,000 became available in the revolving fund, bringing the total to the needed 110 millions.

Care for Day to Day Needs.

Arrangements have also been completed with the banking interests for caring for the day to day needs of the city for the next few weeks, it was learned.

Today's borrowing is for the purpose of covering advances made by the banks earlier in the month when part of the 151 million revolving credit was in danger of default.

One result of today's advance was that the department of finance at once began honoring checks and vouchers of the city's home relief and emergency work bureaus above the amount of ready money on hand with the department of public welfare, this action being predicated on the apparently definite assurance that the city's relief appropriations will be financed by the banking interests.

Of the authorized reductions $20,000,000 will be pared from the mandatory salaries under the city's new power. The other $20,000,000 will come out of the budget, which the board of estimate may now reopen for the purpose of reducing it.

Today's advance enabled the city to clear the second hurdle in its race against its obligations.

How Money Was Obtained.

The mechanics of today's transactions were these:

The city having repaid, through loans extended by the Chase National and the National City banks, the borrowings made during the second half of the year from a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., a fresh credit of $74,000,000 became available today from that group, in the revolving fund.

The members of the group were notified yesterday that the city would draw against the full amount of this credit on 5¾ per cent revenue bills which mature April 26.

The proceeds of the credit will be used to repay the loans made by the Chase and National City banks, leaving a balance of about $36,000,000 unpaid, which will be prorated among a new group of banks, including the National City, the Chase, Morgan & Co., the New York Trust, the Bankers' Trust, the Bank of Manhattan Trust company, and the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company.

The bankers agreed last week that if the necessary reductions in expenses are made, the remainder of the city's needs up to Jan. 1 also will be looked after.

The requirements for the week ending Dec. 24 are estimated at $7,000,000 and for the following week at $37,000,000. These will also be covered by loans maturing April 26, when the total maturities will amount to about 144 million.

ROOSEVELT TOLD STATE BUDGET CUT $10,300,000

Hope to Save Another 10 Million.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Surrounded by his cabinet of twenty-two members, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt received the cheering news today that the state budget had been reduced by $10,300,000 for the fiscal year ended July 1 and that a prospective saving of another 10 million dollars during the present fiscal year is in sight.

"This shows very excellent cooperation on the part of the cabinet," said Gov. Roosevelt, obviously pleased. "I wish also to express my gratification at which the state's 30 million dollar bond issue was disposed of yesterday. The rate was 3.02, the lowest on record."

Although New York state evidently is making an honest effort to lighten the taxpayers' burden, the whole picture is far less cheering than the reduction of expenditures might indicate.

The fact is that between 80 million dollars and 100 million dollars of additional taxes must be levied because of falling revenues, and the administration is more or less in a quandary to find new sources of income to tap. Some of the cabinet members are urging a state retail sales tax to balance the budget.

May Leave Task to Lehman.

The problem of balancing the budget, however, will be deferred until Gov. Roosevelt leaves office and he may leave the question of a state sales tax without recommendation for his successor, Lieut. Gov. Lehman, to solve.

The cabinet meeting today was virtually the last business meeting of his official family he will preside over as governor of New York. There will be a perfunctory meeting on Dec. 31, the last day of his administration, following which Mr. Lehman will take the oath as governor.

Mr. Roosevelt adhered closely to his policy of silence when asked for comment on the European debt situation, particularly the failure of France to meet its obligations.

Hold Up Office, Use Tear Gas Bomb to Delay Pursuit

Four bandits, armed with revolvers and a tear gas bomb, took $300 yesterday in a robbery of the Kedzie Coal company, 407 North Kedzie avenue. The victims were Edward Dunne, the owner; Gene Austin, his cashier, and two yard employés. The gas bomb was thrown into the office as the gang fled to delay pursuit.

BANDIT WOUNDED IN $350 ROBBERY OF CANDY FACTORY

One bandit was shot and his two companions fired a fusillade at a dozen employés of the Holloway Candy company during a holdup of its offices at 308 West Ontario street. The wounded robber was carried away by his companions, who obtained $350 in the holdup.

The three gunmen entered the office and forced M. J. Holloway, president, his brother, W. A. Holloway, and a dozen employés, most of them girls, to line up while one of the gang took the money from Miss Celia Gravis, the cashier.

One of the holdup victims drew a revolver and opened fire on the robbers as they were leaving. One of the gang dropped to the floor wounded. His companions carried him to their car. Their bullets smashed plate glass windows, but injured no one.

Holloway refused to tell police who shot the bandit, fearing this person might be the victim of reprisals if his name became known.

RAILROAD MEN ROBBED.

Alfred Shunt, foreman of the Pere Marquette freight house at Lumber and 13th streets, and Sam Lazer, a clerk, were held up outside the building yesterday and robbed of $602 belonging to other railroad employés whose pay checks Shunt had just cashed at a bank.

ALLOWS CLOSED BANK TO PLEDGE ASSETS FOR LOAN

Circuit Judge Joseph Burke entered the first order in Cook county yesterday under the recent amendment to the state banking act, which permits receivers of closed banks to post the banks' assets as collateral for loans.

He permitted Howard C. Holbrook, receiver of the Italian Trust and Savings bank, which closed June 10, 1931, to borrow $115,000 from the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, posting real estate and railroad bonds out of the assets of the closed bank as collateral. The loan is to be at the rate of 5 per cent for six months, with the proviso that the interest is to increase to 7 per cent if it is not paid at maturity. The loan will be used to retire a $70,000 debt of the closed bank to the First National bank, and to make a 10 per cent payment, totaling $45,000 to depositors.

Arthur D. Rehn, receiver of the Forest Park Trust and Savings bank, was authorized by Judge Burke to pay depositors 10 per cent, amounting to $135,568, out of $170,076 which the receiver has on hand. Mr. Rehn was also given permission to pay all claims of $2 or less in full.

Beware the Cough or Cold That Hangs On

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

END ARGUMENTS TODAY IN PHONE RATE HEARING

City Attacks Methods of Meeting Depreciation.

Methods of charging the public for depreciation of central offices and equipment furnished the main points of argument yesterday in the telephone case in which the Illinois Bell Telephone company is fighting a $2,000,000 a year rate reduction ordered by the Illinois commerce commission in 1923. Federal Judges Evan A. Evans, Will M. Sparks, and James H. Wilkerson are sitting en banc in the trial which will end after arguments are concluded today. The judges will take the case under advisement and later give their decision.

Attorney Benjamin F. Goldstein, special counsel for the city, which is opposing the telephone company's plea for a permanent injunction against the commerce commission's rate order, took a statement from the company's brief and gave an illustration of its methods in charging depreciation.

How the Method Works.

A 10 room building is erected, Attorney Goldstein said, at a cost of $50,000 and a 5 room addition to cost $25,000 is planned to be erected 40 years later. The life of the building and addition is estimated to be 50 years. The company proceeds at once to collect depreciation charges not only on the $50,000 but on the $25,000 expected to be invested 40 years hence. From the company's brief he showed that $364 would be set aside each year for 40 years to meet the contemplated investment.

"In this way," Attorney Goldstein explained, "the company collects in advance $14,560 of the money it is to invest. "But, by earning 8 per cent a year on each yearly installment of the depreciation reserve for the $25,000, the company actually collects an additional $79,681 in interest. No credit is given the subscribers for this interest which goes to the stockholders. If they didn't collect in advance for anticipated investments, but applied depreciation charges only after the investment was made, the depreciation expense on buildings and central office equipments would be cut by 52 per cent."

Change in Bookkeeping.

As the amount in litigation is only $2,000,000 a year, a change in the method of bookkeeping on depreciation would offset the loss to the company in accepting the rates fixed by the commerce commission, Goldstein asserted.

Attorney George L. Haight, also representing the city, said that for the last ten years the telephone company has been charging $2,000,000 a year more than the Illinois commerce commission permitted in depreciation charges. It was proceeding on a theory that the Illinois commission had no jurisdiction, Haight said, but last year the United States Supreme court said the Illinois commission did have the jurisdiction, and not the interstate commerce commission. If the company had complied with the legal requirements it would not have had a basis of complaint in the federal courts in the first place, Haight said.

Attorney Charles M. Bracelen, chief counsel for the American Telephone and Telegraph company, said he would reply to those arguments today. He said the Illinois Bell Telephone company was using the standard system of charging off depreciation, a system promulgated by the interstate commerce commission. Under this system, he said, if the life of a property is 10 years, the company is allowed to charge off 10 per cent of its value each year.

Under what is known as the straight line method, depreciation must be charged off at the end of the life of the property instead of dividing it during the years.

The rates involved in the litigation are for two and four party line coin box service for which, under the commerce commission's ruling, a rate of four cents per call was fixed after the guaranteed number of calls per month had been made.

EMERGENCY WELFARE FUND NEAR HALF WAY MARK IN CAMPAIGN

Hope that the half way mark might be reached today in the drive of the Emergency Welfare fund of Cook county to raise $7,500,000 for the city's private charities, was expressed yesterday in the headquarters at 10 South La Salle street.

With the audit showing a total of $3,458,240, almost $300,000 short of the half way mark, division and group leaders awaited the biweekly report meeting in the La Salle hotel today.

"The severe weather of the last few days has been a decided spur to the campaign," said Robert A. Gardner, chairman. "Increased reports of suffering and special want have brought to the public a deeper feeling for the distressed homes throughout the city."

F. O. Hale, president of the Illinois Bell Telephone company and chairman of one of the campaign sections, will speak at today's meeting.

Mayor Lays Corner Stone for World's Fair Inn

Braving the zero weather, Mayor Cermak yesterday laid the cornerstone for the World's Fair Old Heidelberg inn at 23d street and the lake front. Among those at the ceremony were Robert, Max and Emil Eitel, who will operate the inn; Rufus Dawes, president of the exposition; Dr. H. F. Simon, consul general for Germany, and Michael F. Girten, consul general for Austria. The inn will accommodate 1,500 persons. The first floor will contain two dining rooms and a lunch room with a "rathskeller" in the basement.

BENEFITS BOOST DAY'S GIFTS FOR HUNGRY PUPILS

New Donations for Fund Total $229.

One of the best days the Hungry School Children's fund has experienced in recent weeks was yesterday, when the total of gifts was boosted by checks from various benefits. A total of $229 was reached for the day.

Baroness Flora van Westen, contralto, who has been heard on the radio, forwarded $36 received from a benefit musical she gave a few days ago to help out the fund. A check for $2, received in advance and acknowledged separately, brings the proceeds of the entertainment to $38.

Raise Money at Party.

At the Christmas party given by the South Side Business and Professional Women's club Tuesday evening a collection was taken up for the fund, which netted $8, enough to purchase lunches for eighty children. Gamma chapter of Rho Delta Phi sent the proceeds of its work in behalf of the hungry youngsters, and "Mary P.," who writes that she has been an invalid and a shut-in for many years, added $1 which she earned by taking subscriptions.

COUNTY BOARD IN UPROAR OVER HIGHWAY CLAIM

Debaters at Hearing Are Near to Blows.

In an uproarious session the roads and bridges committee of the county board yesterday tried to discover the origin of a $15,019 claim against the highway department for property which was believed to have been donated to the county in return for the opening and paving of Wolf road near Des Plaines. The session adjourned after two clashes between the debaters that came near to blows.

The claim was advanced last summer by D. C. Cleary, electrical union official and former city hall employé. The committee placed the claim on file in order to make an investigation into the dedication of property by owners. The investigation was set for yesterday.

Basis of Claim Explained.

Ray Smith, head of the county highway right of way department, who was called for questioning, said the highway department paved the road in 1928 without requiring property owners to sign papers dedicating ground to the county for the road project. Cleary contended that inasmuch as he did not so dedicate a plot of ground he was entitled to $15,019 in payments for the land taken by the county. The commissioners were unable to fix the blame for the failure to obtain the necessary dedications.

Commissioners Dan Ryan and George A. Miller came near to blows when Miller charged corruption. Ryan replied that the present board was in no way responsible and that Miller should exert himself to find the guilty party rather than to make speeches. Other commissioners quieted them.

The second flare-up came as Otto H. Grosse, a real estate promoter, testified concerning his efforts to induce property owners to sign a petition donating the right of way in return for the paving of the road. Grosse said Former Mayor Harry Pearsons of Evanston, one of the owners, had refused to sign on receiving advice "there was money in it if he didn't." Pearsons was subsequently paid for swamp land on the right of way, Grosse said.

Grosse was asked who told Pearsons not to sign.

"I don't want to get personal," he replied.

Names Commissioner.

At the insistence of the commissioners Grosse said, "It was Commissioner William Busse."

"That's a lie," Busse shouted, rising from his chair and reaching across the table at Grosse. "My reputation has been better through the years than yours."

Commissioner Homer Byrd, chairman of the committee, then announced adjournment of the meeting. The investigation is to be continued, Byrd said, because the county may be subjected to claims for damages from all property owners on the right of way.

VARECHA TO HEAR HIS FATE TODAY; DEATH OR PRISON

CRIMINAL COURT.

James Kokias, Thomas Koulahanes, Christy Dattalo, Michael Greco, and Rocco Spizziri, larceny, sentenced to 2 years each in Pontiac reformatory; Martin Klukas and John Klukas, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Francis E. Allegretti.

James (Iggy) Varecha, 17 years old, will be sentenced at 2 o'clock this afternoon for the murder of Frank F. Jordan in a robbery on Nov. 16. Varecha pleaded guilty. Chief Justice John Prystalski, who heard the case, in which the state demanded the death penalty, spent yesterday afternoon studying exhibits and testimony in preparation for the verdict.

In his cell in the behavior clinic section of the jail Varecha appeared unworried by the prospect of his court appearance. He swaggered about his cell and maintained the air of bravado that has marked his recent appearances. Varecha, termed the most callous prisoner in the history of the Criminal court by Prosecutor Walker Butler, confessed the murder of Jordan shortly after his arrest. He also admitted 25 robberies, 6 shootings, and several attacks on women.

Lily Lake Man Convicted of Murder; Gets 14 Years

Arthur Dreesbach, 45 years old, of Lily Lake, was found guilty of murder yesterday and his sentence was fixed at 14 years in the penitentiary by a jury in the Circuit court of Judge Edward D. Shurtleff at Woodstock. The state charged that Dreesbach shot and killed Nicholas N. Weber, 60 years old, of Spring Grove, on Aug. 6 in the Dreesbach home. Dreesbach said that he had been drinking and remembered nothing that happened on the day of the shooting. Hearing on a motion for a new trial was set for Dec. 27.

PASTOR CARRIES RADIO FIGHT TO SUPREME COURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Claiming abridgment of the constitutional right of free speech, counsel for the Rev. Robert P. (Fighting Bob) Shuler of Los Angeles today filed in Supreme court a petition seeking review of the federal radio commission's decision deleting station KGEF over which the pastor broadcaster had delivered his vitriolic utterances, and of the opinion of the Court of Appeals here sustaining the commission.

The petition alluded to the right of free speech over the radio as being closely analogous to that of the press. The Supreme court's opinion last year in the Minnesota gag law case in which it upheld the right of newspapers to indulge in criticisms of individuals and issues was cited as one which applied directly to the radio issue.

Chicagoans Among Counsel.

The petition was filed by Louis G. Caldwell, former general counsel of the radio commission, of the Chicago law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin. Associated with him were Thomas S. Bunn of Los Angeles, Edward C. Caldwell of Chicago, and Arthur W. Scharfeld of Washington.

Attorney Caldwell contended that freedom of speech over the radio would be destroyed if the commission's ruling is upheld, and that the commission would be given an autocratic power. He said it would be authorized to search ancient records of all stations, and upon finding speeches smacking of defamation, could snuff those stations out of existence.

"No broadcaster will dare permit the use of his microphone for speeches which he has not previously censored and found to be innocuous," he said.

Ruled Off Year Ago.

Shuler's station, licensed in the name of Trinity Methodist church, south, of which he is pastor, was ruled off the air by the commission on Nov. 13 of last year. The local court sustained the commission's action in an opinion which condemned Shuler and brushed aside the free speech issue as having no merit.

Shuler was charged with inciting religious and civic strife with his inflammatory utterances over the station, and twice was found guilty of contempt of court for commenting on criminal cases pending in the California courts. Following the commission's action he became an independent candidate for the United States senate and in the primaries polled more votes than either of his opponents. He lost, however, in the November elections.

Claim Statements Proved.

Today's petition claimed that both the commission and the lower court erred in interpretation of the evidence in the case, aside from the alleged violation of the constitutional guaranty of free speech. The truth of Shuler's utterances, it was contended, "was overwhelmingly proved in most of the cases where it was put to issue." Further, it was charged that the proceedings before the commission were conducted in violation of the commission's own regulations and of the law.

On freedom of speech, Mr. Caldwell argued that the Court of Appeals did not give proper effect to the Supreme court ruling in the Minnesota gag law case by failing to extend the principles enunciated in that case to broadcasting. He contended also that aside from the free speech guaranty in the constitution congress incorporated in the radio act of 1927, under section 29, a clause prohibiting censorship not merely of speech but of all broadcasting programs.

WEST POINT GRAD OF 1883 DIES IN BRITISH PRISON

Sam Adair, 73, Once Led Indian Scouts.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Samuel Effinger Adair, 73, an American, who is said to have been graduated from West Point and who had a distinguished, romantic career, died today in Wormwood Scrubbs prison.

He was serving a sentence of three months for obtaining credit by false pretenses and had been recommended for deportation. Adair is understood to have been connected with a New York business house, but he had lived here since 1924. He said he had relatives in Topeka, Kas.

Colonel of Cavalry.

Adair, it was stated in court, was a graduate of West Point in the class of 1883 and a colonel of United States cavalry. At one time he commanded the Indian scouts. During the gold rush he took a sledge expedition 1,000 miles into the Klondike.

He was a man of education and charming manners. He appeared to have been affluent and lived exceedingly well. In 1926 he married an English woman and had two small children, a boy and a girl.

Failed to Pay Hotel Bills.

It was understood the charge against him was based on failure to pay hotel bills. He told Judge Whitely he owned many shares in companies in Brazil where he was a colonel in the national forces. He said the companies owned a concession which had been bought from the late Jay Gould for $600,000.

The widow wishes to have the body cremated and the ashes buried in West Point cemetery.

Clayton Smith Appoints C. W. Kubacki as Aid

Kubacki succeeds Adam Bloch, who was elected clerk of the Illinois Supreme court at the recent election. NINE ON TRIAL AS SWINDLERS IN MOVIE DEAL

New York, Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Accused of swindling Roman Catholic clergy and parishioners through a project promising "clean motion pictures," nine persons went on trial in the federal court here today. Three others pleaded guilty to complicity in the activity of the National Diversified corporation which is said to have obtained $3,000,000.

In presenting his case Assistant United States Attorney Jacob R. Rosenblum charged the swindlers, when selling stock to priests and laymen, falsely represented that the project had the financial and moral support of Cardinal Hayes, Cardinal Mundelein, Cardinal O'Connell, Alfred E. Smith, John J. Raskob, and Michael Meehan.

Rosenblum intimated that some of those persons will be called as witnesses to testify that their names had been falsely used. The late Condé B. Pallen, editor of the Catholic Encyclopedia, was pictured as an innocent dupe who lost his $90,000.

Rosenblum named Otto Goebel, Hollywood producer, as the brains of the swindlers.

Those who pleaded guilty were Thomas A. Lynn, secretary of the corporation; Joseph F. Weel and J. Raymond Kear, both salesmen. In addition to Goebel and Jerome B. Klein, those on trial are Goebel's two sisters-in-law, Misses Irene and Elizabeth Flautt; James M. Cassidy, promoter; Franklin Johnson, R. J. Patterson, James F. Gallagher, and Bernard J. Flynn.

THREE ARE KILLED IN KENTUCKY FEUD; ONE VICTIM WOMAN

Manchester, Ky., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Three persons, one a woman, were killed yesterday in a feud flareup on Double creek, about fifteen miles south of here, Clay county authorities reported today.

Those killed were Ford Litts, 23; Winnie Wagers, about 30, and Mrs. John Wagers. The first two, authorities said, were shot from ambush as they were on their way to the John Wagers home after Mrs. Wagers had been killed.

Warrants charging murder in connection with Litts' death were issued today for Jim Myers and Albert Myers, and John Harris and Henry Harris, brothers, authorities said. Deputies were sent out to search for the men.

Reports brought in today from the Double creek section, an insolated part of the county, were that Mrs. Wagers was slain when unidentified men fired on the Wagers home from ambush.

2 STORE ROBBERS SEIZED IN GUN BATTLE, 2 ESCAPE

Two robbers were captured and two others escaped with $400 late yesterday when a band of four held up the C. F. Woolley & Sons' department store, 2937 Archer avenue, terrorizing thirty clerks and customers when they fought a gun battle with police.

The gang entered the store about closing time and ordered Miss Martha Hagen, 6123 South Laflin street, the cashier, to open the safe. One remained with her and the other three drove the customers to the back of the store. When the manager, H. C. Woolley, 1635 South Fairfield avenue, entered, Thomas Confare, 4439 South Sacramento avenue, a clerk, called his name. The bandits turned and Confare slipped out of a back door and called police.

A squad under Sergt. John Trinka arrived just as the bandits were leaving with the money. Revolver fire followed and one of the robbers slipped to the flour as though wounded. The police captured two of the men, but the one who fell and his companion, who had the money, escaped. The prisoners gave their names as George Brooks and Frank Ciszek, 5531 South Washtenaw avenue.

Miss Roberts Proves Genius in Short Story

'The Haunted Mirror' Wins High Praise.

"A Bowl of Cherries," by John Held Jr. [Vanguard.]

ELIZABETH MADOX ROBERTS' name has become a part of the literary tradition of America in a very short time. With "The Time of Man," "My Heart and My Flesh," and "The Great Meadow" the talent of Miss Roberts became assured and recognized. It is not often that a genius that has found such perfect flowering in the wide scope of the novel can adapt itself so perfectly to the limitations of the short story while maintaining the same quality of depth and intensity. In Miss Roberts' stories there are the same deep sense of rhythm, the curious, subtle, poetic intuition of the unknown, that appear in less concentrated form in her novels.

ELIZABETH ROBERTS.

The stories themselves are simple enough in theme and plot. Most of them are laid in the Kentucky mountains which Miss Roberts has made so vivid, interpreted with so much originality. There is the story of a young boy whose primitive mountaineer consciousness is aroused and awakened by a school teacher whom he loves and who suggests to him the mystery and fascination of provinces of the mind and spirit unexplored. Another describes the breaking in of death upon a child's consciousness, his dark fears and strange uncomprehending awe.

"The Sacrifice of Maidens" delicately portrays a brother's feelings as he watches his sister take the vows of a nun, his slow waking realization of his sister's friend, her beauty and youth and eagerness. With brilliant symbolism [in the ritual of the priest's chanting] Miss Roberts expresses the sensual death of the maidens, their denial of life's fruitfulness. This story, without any particular setting, creates a mood of extreme beauty and poignancy.

"The Scarecrow" successfully characterizes a young girl who cannot endure the desecration of human touch. Another story concerns the thoughts of an ageing woman who has lived through wild and unforgettable crises. "The Shepherd's Interval" gives the thoughts of a convict about to be released, his anticipation of his return to the farm and his sweetheart.

In each story there is the sure mastery of technical form, more implicative than obvious. From the perfect dreamlike creation of mood, dedicated to the mystery of the unknown in life, that scorns the artifices of realism, yet is the essence of a higher reality, emerge characterizations, penetrating, subtle, lasting. Miss Roberts is saying something to the listening world and saying it in a style that is vital and original, unmistakable in its individuality, and prose poetry of the highest order.

Of an entirely different mood is "Men Are Like Street Cars," by Graeme and Sarah Lorimer (Little Brown), a series of episodes describing the new youth, the generation that will be going to college in a few years. And what a different order they are from their immediate predecessors. Disillusionment and cynicism have vanished into thin air. They are a bunch of young people, wise cracking, wholesome, sophisticated in a hard boiled but engaging fashion, who have relegated sex in all its darker Freudian aspects to the dust heap. They dance and drink a bit, wear few clothes, get each other's beaux, and hang on like grim death to their ideals and scruples. The exploits of these new bloods are entertaining to an extreme and make everybody else seem in some horrible jaded fashion very near indeed to the brink of useless old age.

John Held Jr., the able cartoonist and the witty commentator on the flapper phenomenon, writes 'em up in "A Bowl of Cherries" (Vanguard). And only when you have read "Men Are Like Street Cars" can you know why it is that he seems a little outmoded, a little stale, and not very funny. The best story is of a college youth who wants, with an ardor terrible to contemplate, to grow a mustache. The animal stories also bear authenticity and charm.

The stories of Booth Tarkington, Hamlin Garland, and William Allen White, among others, are collected in "Golden Tales of the Prairie States," selected by May Lamberton Becker (Dodd Mead). The intention is to choose the best stories whose locales are in the middle west and whose themes and plots reveal the customs and characteristics of that part of the country.

Henry van Dyke edits a book called "A Creelful of Fishing Stories" (Scribners), whose delightful contents should please all fishermen as well as those interested in swift, colorful dramatic tales.

Finest Toys in Years Make This a Children's Christmas

BY RHEA SEEGER.

THE kids certainly are getting all the breaks this year. This Christmas probably will be most vividly remembered by your excited offspring because the toys and dolls and trains and nursery doodads are thrilling every one from anxious dads, uneasy uncles and addled aunts and frenzied mothers, all shopping rather tepidly for the youngsters but enjoying themselves.

Real old fashioned Christmas excitement can be found in any of the toy departments . . . where grownups suddenly shed the gloom, acidulous ancients cackle over simple strutting clowns and donkeys. Even sophisticated females are discovered hovering over a collection of dolls and toys with all the childlike fervor of the days when they didn't know a Chanel frock from a chunk of cannel coal.

Hesitantly and advisedly, we proffer a pertinent fact—if you would recapture a certain Christmas thrilled suspense that you have nearly forgotten about, collect a crowd of small shoppers, bundle them into their zippered reefers, leggings, caps and mittens, borrow a few extras from your next door neighbor, start early and spend half a day in any of the toy departments.

It's more fun than a five ring circus; it takes positive genius and a flair for dictatorship to chart the wanderings and detours of six or seven active, excited children. You'll struggle wearily homeward after you have delivered them at home base, but you will have completely forgotten all the dismal, deadly-dull things that formerly bothered you and kept you awake at nights.

Watch the boys as they clamor about a real Indian wigwam, with terrifying, blood-curdling Indian signs painted on the canvas, a miniature edition of what an Indian brave would spend the night in . . . then listen to the shrieks of undiluted joy over the wool wire-haired pup of unimpeachable fabric ancestry that stands in the doorway of a snooty doghouse with a picket fence surrounding both house and dog yard . . . or the racing enthusiast of six who clambers a bit hastily and clumsily into a swanky roadster equipped with balloon tires, threefold windshield, tail lamps that work, headlights that will glare, and a traveling trunk bringing up the rear, padded seat and a man size driving wheel . . . and the whole affair painted a nice vivid green that will make the eyes pop out.

You will see small male eyes widen saucer-size where the trains are whirling around electrical terminals . . . where yard lights throw a piercing beam 'way across an eight foot railroad yard . . . where huge mountain climbing locomotives are chugging and waiting for interested engineers . . . where build-your-own engines at least four feet long can be bought for some appreciative mechanician . . . where an entire chemistry laboratory can be found filled with bottles of fizzing magic that will make a good basement uproar, test tubes, litmus paper, Bunsen burners and all the rest of the interesting stuff that fills the shelves of a grownup laboratory!

But the best things of all are the toys and dolls made expressly for quantity distribution—the sturdy, colorful things, made as expertly as the most expensive larger toys, the dolls with real eyelashes and dressed for instant approval, that can be bought in generous assortments. These are the toys for both girl and boy, the heart warming Christmas cheer that generous givers will be glad to know about, the toys with extremely low price tags. Imagine strong, small automobiles that sell for less than a quarter! The best dolls you can possibly want or need, quite tall young ladies, for less than a dollar. They will make you decide to deprive some of your grownups of a lot of their annual loot to take the extra shekels and invest in a grand old fashioned Christmas where and when the greatly thrilled children of orphanage and institution have all the fun!

Silver Screen Ball Promises a Happy Time

Every Guest Will Become a Movie Star.

BY JUDITH CASS.

HOLLYWOOD has nothing on us when it comes to premières attended by all the notables of the silver screen, for tonight at the Silver Screen ball the Association of Arts and Industries is giving at the Drake hotel there will be not one Greta Garbo and one Charlie Chaplin and one Marlene Dietrich, but hundreds of them!

And hundreds of James Durantes, Tom Mixes, Adolphe Menjous, Anna May Wongs, unnamed movie stars, directors, mystery men, jazz players, Mickey Mouses—mice won't do in this case—Minnie Mouses—nor here—and movie fans.

The accessories that the committee is furnishing along with the price of admission and supper are the smartest, most delightful things of the sort imaginable. No party in which the guests are dressed up in the humorous and gay masques and headdresses that I saw yesterday being wrapped up in cellophane, could be anything but a riot of fun.

When you enter the ball—it is to be given in the ballroom, the tower room, the Avenue of Palms and the Gold Coast room—you will be allowed to choose what character you want to impersonate for the evening, and if you choose to be the glamorous Garbo, you'll be given just a masque [but such a clever one], but if you want to be Chaplin with the funny feet, you'll be given a hat, mustache, walking cane and domino [you will have to supply the feet, however].

Many Characters to Choose From

If your soul craves the excitement of the wild west, you can have a wide sombrero, a bandanna and a domino; or if you want to be the sophisticated Menjou your costume will consist of a masque and a top hat; if it's the lovely Dietrich you wish to be, you'll wear a masque as pretty as she is; if you're feeling as if you'd want to be a comedian to-

Good Morning!

"They Call It Sin" is just one of those time killers. Like tatting. They make 'em round the studios when they haven't anything else to do.

Plot's the one—with variations—about the small town girl who goes to the big city and, in the face of all temptation, DOESN'T sin. True, she DOES permit a certain producer to go ra-ther far, but she spurns him in plenty of time. And that is that. A certain noble Dr. Tracy marries her and a Mr. Decker, who has a wife, wishes he could.

The piece abounds in good players—look at the cast! Direction's not bad. But dialogue and situations are so obvious and trite that not much can be done about them. Una Merkel manages a couple of laughs out of the hat.

HOWEVER, said Pollyana, if you merely want to look at something purty—Loretta Young, George Brent, and David Manners are here, there, and everywhere in "They Call It Sin."

See you tomorrow.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Copyright, 1932, By News Syndicate Co., Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

THE DEATH LEAP.

Loud shrieks rent the air, women fainted, and men rushed to the spot! What a sight! The broken body of a man lay squashed on the sidewalk, the result of a fall from the top of the tall, midtown, hotel building.

The afternoon was hot and humid, but Prof. Fordney's saunter was quickened as he pushed his way through the crowd just as the body was being removed. A porter hurriedly washed away the blood from the spot and where it had spattered against the front of the building. In a few minutes all evidence of the tragedy had been removed.

Several onlookers remained while Fordney talked with Leo, the elevator boy, who had taken the dead man up. With a nod Leo indicated a bystander. "He was up there at the time."

Without hesitancy the man acknowledged the fact and readily answered the professor's questions.

"Barton's my name; the dead man is Stan Masters. I thought he was just another sufferer, seeking relief from the heat, when he came up on the roof. He did act queerly, though—worried like. Then suddenly he ran over, climbed the railing, and just before he gave a mighty leap tossed me his billfold, saying he wouldn't need it any more. There's $300 in it."

Later as they stood on the roof Barton said, "Here's where he climbed up."

Fordney looked down the sheer drop of eighteen floors and shuddered.

"As I thought," he said cryptically. "Come on, Barton, Inspector Kelley is waiting for you downstairs!"

WHY DID HE WANT BARTON?

CUT OUT THE PIE AND SOME CHILD MAY HAVE BREAD

Economy Menus Help Swell Lunch Fund.

BY JEAN GUTHRIE.

Did you ever try to "work figures" all day on nothing but a cup of coffee and a bit of bread? Or did you ever send your son off in the morning without food because "it wasn't his day to eat?"

Many in Chicago are experiencing these misfortunes. It is in these that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Hungry School Children Fund is vitally interested. This fund is maintained by public subscription and much of the money is donated during the holiday season when more fortunate families are substituting rational, constructive menus for the more elaborate Christmas feasts.

Many Receive Lunches.

Many a hungry school child now is being provided with properly balanced lunches through the economy of families with a steady income, no matter how small. Money that is usually spent unnecessarily for dainties, appetizing but not particularly nourishing side dishes, and rich desserts is saved for a small contribution to the Hungry School Children fund that some unfortunate might enjoy the advantages of wholesome food and the pleasures of the Yuletide.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE cooking department has arranged a series of menus, especially designed to supply adequately, but at low costs, the needs of the average American family of five. These menus can be prepared for $8.50 a week. Housewives throughout the city are using them and contributing the differences between their customary expenditures and $8.50 to the Hungry School Children fund.

Same Will Save.

For many families these economy meals will mean considerable savings. Others, who are in need of help, will find them luxury menus. But they may still act as a guide in which less expensive food equivalents may be substituted. The menus, as arranged by THE TRIBUNE cooking department, are:

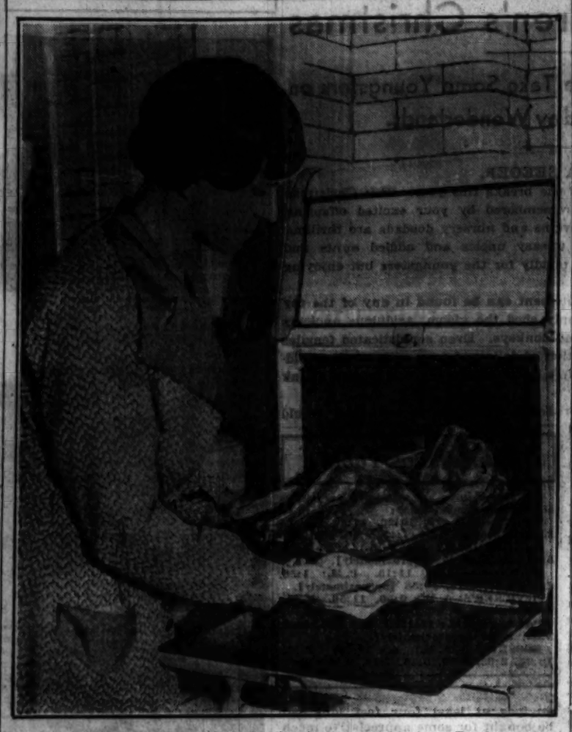
Half Turkey Fits Purse, Oven



Clara Gebhard Snyder of the Institute of American Poultry industries exhibits a half turkey in the midst of roasting. This 1932 style for this king of fowl provides a variety of cuts and yet is not too large for the average family to consume in two or three holiday meals. Butchers divide the turkey exactly in two, even cutting the heart, gizzard, and liver in half. The half turkey is stuffed as usual and roasted.

Woods Are Full of Meat Nuts at Prices to Fit Your Purse

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

If your appetite calls for nutmeats, the woods are full of them. Trees in the United States have produced a plentiful crop of walnuts, almonds, pecans and some chestnuts, hickory and butternuts, the southern vines have yielded another immense crop of peanuts and foreign countries offer additional supplies of Brazils, cashews, almonds, chestnuts, walnuts, filberts and pistachio nutmeats.

Millions of pounds of these offer a variety to fit purse, taste or use. They are shelled or in the shell, salted or unsalted, roasted or raw, blanched or natural, large or small, and you can buy them now or at any other time of the year. Just before Christmas, however, the greatest variety and supply is available.

They Tell Different Story.

Importers, processors, and dealers who have been in the nut business for two decades or so have a different story to tell about the American nut appetite at the beginning of the century. Ninety per cent of the nut business about 1910 was done in the last three months of the year.

The ball park peanut may be much in evidence in summer months and sold in the shell, but estimates on the entire commercial crop of domestic production and importations are that now 90 per cent of all nutmeats are sold shelled in the United States.

Shelled and Unshelled Nuts.

If the consumer cares to compare prices on nuts in the shell and out of the shell, a conversion table considered reliable offers this help:

"Almonds, three and one-third pounds in the shell equals one pound of shelled.

In the peanut crop, Americans have evinced an aptitude for production and consumption that is applicable to few other foods. In some years the total crop of the southern and southeastern states has been more than a billion pounds and yet many million more pounds have been imported in the same years to fill the demand for roasted, salted and candied peanuts and for the use of peanut oils and by-products.

Almost the one nut crop in which American growers have been able to keep up with the pace set by American appetites is the pecan. Southern nut farmers have guarded seedling plantings and in addition have nursed along the cultivated or so-called improved varieties until imports have decreased 54 per cent from pre-war, but with consumption increasing.

China is the source of our largest supply of imported peanuts. China and Italy as well send us large quantities of both shelled and unshelled walnuts, while our largest stocks of shelled walnuts come from France, the home of the "English" walnut.

Spain, Italy, and Turkey furnish us with filberts. Brazil nuts are produced year after year by Dame Nature down on the fringe of the wilds along the Amazon.

"SO HAPPY THAT I TRIED ALL-BRAN"

Delicious Cereal Brought Relief from Constipation

If you have headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness or any other of the frequent effects of constipation, read Mrs. Schneider's letter:

"Since I have been eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, I don't have to take anything else for constipation. How good it is, and how much better it is for constipation than pills or any other medicine.

"I would never go back to what I used to take, because Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is wholesome and healthful."

—Mrs. John Schneider, 950 Tenth Street, Oshkosh, Wisconsin.

Constipation is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN has both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the wastes.

Try ALL-BRAN in place of pills and drugs — so often habit-forming. Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

HOMEMADE XMAS SWEETS CARRY CHEERY MESSAGE

Are Small Ambassadors of Personal Planning.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Fortunate indeed are those persons who will be the recipients of Christmas gifts of homemade sweets. Small ambassadors of personal planning and effort are these brightly decked candy baskets and boxes that convey a message of cheery friendliness.

Her friends' preferences, of course, will be the candy maker's first guide in determining the varieties of Christmas sweets to be prepared. Among the old-fashioned homemade confections chocolate fudge is the favorite. To insure a product of creamy smoothness many successful cooks recommend evaporated milk for fudge making. Remember that fudge must not be beaten until it has cooled.

A Faithful Recipe.

The following recipe has served us faithfully since boarding school days:

CHOCOLATE FUDGE.

2 cups confectioners' sugar.
2 squares bitter chocolate.
Butter, size of walnut.
¾ cup evaporated milk.
Pinch of salt.
1 tablespoon corn sirup.
Vanilla extract, little less than a teaspoon.
1 cup walnut meats [if desired].

Melt the chocolate in the candy kettle, which has been placed over a saucepan containing hot water. When the chocolate is thoroughly melted blend in the sugar, salt, butter, sirup, and milk, stirring until the sugar is dissolved. Fudge should boil to the soft ball stage. This is not a difficult test to make, even for the inexperienced candy maker. Remove the fudge from the fire and from the mixing spoon allow a few small drops to drip into a cup of cold water. When these feel gummy and hold their shape the correct cooking stage has been reached. Place the kettle in a pan of cold water. When cooled the mixture will be thick. Beat it until the color changes, add flavoring and nuts [if used], and beat until the candy suddenly softens. Pour immediately into a buttered tin.

Recipe for Divinity.

For divinity pour corn sirup into a measuring cup to within a half inch of the rim, filling to the top with water. Mix with two cups of confectioners' sugar and boil briskly until the sirup spins a brittle thread in cold water. In a large mixing bowl have ready three egg whites beaten stiffly. Add a third of a teaspoon of vanilla extract and continue beating until the divinity is very thick. Stir in a cup of walnut meats or half a cup of nut meats and a half cup of dates cut into small pieces.

When dates are used they should be stirred in a few at a time in order that they may be evenly distributed through the candy. When the mixture can no longer be beaten spread thickly in a buttered tin.

Cream Caramels.

The following is a trustworthy recipe:

CREAM CARAMELS.

2 cups confectioners' sugar.
Few grains salt.
2 cups corn sirup.
¼ cup butter.
2 cups evaporated milk or thin cream.
1 teaspoon vanilla or 2 tablespoons rum flavoring.

Stirring occasionally, boil sugar, salt and corn sirup rapidly to 245 degrees Fahrenheit. Add butter and milk or cream gradually so that the mixture does not stop boiling at any time. Cook rapidly to firm ball stage. Stir constantly. The mixture sticks easily in the last cooking stage. Add flavoring and pour into a buttered pan. Cool thoroughly before cutting. Cut with a heavy sharp knife, using a saw-like motion. About 25 minutes is required for cooking.

HOUSEHOLD HINT.

For the dull finish which is most effective on copper, brass, and pewter, clean the piece with a paste of rottenstone and linseed oil. A bright finish may be obtained by applying a cream of fine whiting and denatured alcohol. Polish it when dry with a soft cloth.

CALL RHODE ISLAND GREENING PIONEER OF U. S. APPLE FAMILY

Americans are beginning to collect bits of history concerning this country's food supply. The latest study has been applied to apples and the result is a decision that probably the oldest of known varieties growing in the United States is the Rhode Island greening.

This apple didn't get its name because it was green, but rather because a tavern keeper by the name of Greene at Newport, R. I., owned the tree and distributed its fruit among his friends. Quantities of wood were taken from the tree in the yard of the tavern, about 1700, and the wood was used for grafting on other tree stock.

The well known Baldwin apple is classified as a chance seedling first noticed at Lowell, Mass., about 1740. First it was known as the woodpecker variety, but was later called the Baldwin after the owner of the tree, a Col. Baldwin.

HERE ARE DOZEN POINTERS ON ART OF BUYING FOODS

Nutrition Specialist Gives Advice.

Miss Aneta Beadle, nutrition specialist of Purdue university, gives the following twelve pointers on buying and preparing food:

1. To safeguard the family buy first milk, fruits, vegetables, breads, and cereals.
2. Use the water in which vegetables are cooked for soups, sauces, etc.
3. A whole dinner in one dish makes an inexpensive time saving meal.
4. Skim milk, cottage cheese, and buttermilk are good inexpensive foods.
5. Use as many as possible of the low priced vegetables that are good to eat raw, such as carrots, cabbage, turnips, tomatoes, onions, and lettuce. This saves time and fuel.
6. Watch for sales of oranges, ripe bananas, and apples. Shop for the less perfect fruits and vegetables for immediate use. Small sized fruits and vegetables are also cheaper.
7. Day old bread is often bought at a reduced price.
8. Plan your menu for several days rather than for each separate meal.
9. Dried fruits, such as apples, apricots, peaches, prunes, raisins, and the like, are usually less expensive than fresh fruits out of season.
10. Staple foods that keep well can be purchased more economically in as large quantities as can be stored.
11. The label on all canned or package goods tells something the purchaser needs to know, especially about the weight of the contents.
12. Some of the cheapest cuts of meat, such as neck, flank, rump, chuck, heart, kidney, liver, tripes, can be made attractive by good cooking. The food value is just as high as in the more expensive cuts.

BY MARY MEADE.

"We want salads!" is the gist of what a great many hundreds of Chicago women wrote to this department after I had asked for cookery suggestions at the various sessions of THE TRIBUNE School of Cookery.

Why? You answered it yourself, many of you. It's the crispness, the piquancy, and the gay sprightliness of these inimitable accompaniments to a prosaic little dinner that puts adventure into eating. They are the beautifiers of the meal, bringing tonic and pep in vitamins and minerals from crisp green foods, cool juice filled fruits, and a riotous assortment of glorified vegetables. A picturesque salad "makes" a meal.

MOLDED WALDORF SALAD.

1 package lemon gelatin.
1 cup chopped apples.
2 cups boiling water.
¾ cup chopped celery.
1-2 cup chopped walnut meats.
¼ teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon paprika.
Mayonnaise.

Dissolve the gelatin in the boiling water and let cool. Combine the apples, celery, nut meats, and seasoning and when the gelatin mixture is just ready to set, stir in the salad ingredients. Pour into cold, wet molds and chill till firm. When ready to serve, turn the molds into crisp lettuce cups and top with a spoonful of mayonnaise which has been thinned a little with cream and slightly sweetened with powdered sugar.

PEAR SALAD WITH CHEESE NUT HEARTS.

For each of these salads, take one-half of a neatly peeled fresh pear—or a canned one if you wish—and nest in a bed of lettuce with the center up. In the center place a ball of cream or cottage cheese mixed with finely chopped nuts and chopped maraschino cherry. Garnish with creamy mayonnaise and dash with paprika.

Soup and salad suppers are having quite a run in good society just now. Cream of beet root soup, for instance, backed up by the following salad makes a red letter luncheon or supper.

FESTIVE EGG SALAD.

1 pimiento, shredded.
¾ cup shredded lettuce.
¾ cup chopped celery.
French dressing.

Chop the eggs and toss together with the other ingredients and just enough French dressing to marinate. Let stand an hour, then serve with mayonnaise or thousand island dressing.

PINEAPPLE CABBAGE COCOANUT SPECIAL.

Is that a new combination to you? But wait till you taste it! You will need 1 cup grated cocoanut, 1 cup crushed, drained pineapple, 2 cups finely shredded cabbage, and salt. Let the cabbage chill in cold water till very crisp, then toss together with the other ingredients and blend with mayonnaise. Serve on crisp lettuce and top with a spiral of pimiento.

CARROT NUT SALAD.

2 cups ground raw carrots.
1½ cups chopped celery.
1 cup chopped peanuts.
¼ teaspoon salt.
Cream salad dressing.
Lettuce.

Combine the first five ingredients and serve in beds of lettuce.

Household Hints for Christmas

Children enjoy Christmas most when they have a hand in its preparation.

Dates, prunes, and figs stuffed with marshmallow and rolled in granulated sugar make delicious and wholesome sweets for children. Prunes and figs should be soaked before they are stuffed.

Apples and oranges, well polished, make colorful Christmas tree ornaments which are also useful and healthful. Green or red string may be run through the end of the fruit with a large darning needle and tied in a loop to hang on the tree.

THE BEST BREAD BAKED IS WONDER BREAD

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Hiram White sails his four-masted ship, the Abigail White, in search of a ship filled with pearl oysters, sunk by a French captain before the world war in a lagoon in a South Sea island. Arlette Mordecai, the French captain's granddaughter, has brought him complete instructions for finding the ship. Arlette is accompanied by an English woman of title known as Ladybird. In his crew are Adam Eden, an unemployed engineer; Roberta Millbank, and Peter Cavan. Roberta's father died after his bank failed and Peter was his trusted employé. Benny, a cook, hires up for his keep. Henery Shepard, backer of the venture, fills the boat with a cargo of his own choosing, including a lot of used cars and launches and plans to stop at certain ports to trade cargoes. One owner of an unused car sends his French chauffeur, Raoul, along. Ladybird, who is a naval officer's daughter, is made mate. The ship is seized by four stowaways on the high seas. A warning comes in over the radio about four bank robbers being at large and the captain realizes he and his crew are in their hands. After several days the bandits are overpowered and set adrift. The ship reaches Cape Town, where Henery's cargo is traded, through Peter Muller, a banker friend of Roberta's father, at a large profit. Their next destination is Sydney, Australia.

INSTALLMENT XXIII.

HIDDEN LOOT.

The entente cordiale aboard and the peaceful majesty all about had kept spirits high as soaring gulls in good weather. They were brought down suddenly by that heaviest of ballast both for the body and the soul—gold.

The heavy launch that had slewed its stern to crash through the corner of the forward deck house had been swung back into place and repaired by Henery. Not having the right material to make a ship-shape job of the deck house itself, he had merely nailed strips of OO sailcloth over the part stove in.

This particular corner had its unpleasant souvenirs because it was there the bandits off duty as guards took their brief rest. They had brought up from their first hiding place below some bags of clothes and a few bottles of bootleg in which they had been careful not to overindulge.

All of this Capt. Hiram had quickly examined and flung overboard. The corner had been avoided as if infected. Perhaps it was the erosion on the minds of all by days and nights of waiting for their massacre to begin.

They stood solidly agreed on one point, that these thieves and murderers, whatever their first intentions, had reached a final decision to destroy all aboard the vessel when the time came for them to leave her. It was the horror of the long continued strain that led to the subsequent tacit avoidance of the affair. They did not know what might have happened to the four men set adrift, nor did they care. They had made no inquiry at Capetown.

It had not seemed worth while to repair the deck house at this port. All were busy and their call had been brief. They could not afford to pay carpenters. The heavy canvas was good enough. Too good, in fact, because it was all they had aboard for piecing or reinforcing the corners of the sails that took the hauling strains, such as the throat or peak or tack. The jib needed repair and there was no other stuff for it.

"I should ha' used a piece a tarpaulin in the first place," Henery grumbled to Peter, who was helping him pry off the cleats by which the canvas was stretched over the big hole.

They ripped off the stuff, to make a cleaner job of what had been a hurried one. Henery told Peter to remove the lengths of splintered planks, then fit in a strut or two.

Peter was working alone at this when Roberta, who had finished peeling her potatoes, joined them. She had formed a habit of joining him as opportunity offered.

"Why the house wrecking, Peter?"

He smiled up at her. "Need some material, Miss Bobbs."

"O. I thought maybe you couldn't bear the sight of the place where those filthy beasts holed in."

"It looks as if Henery couldn't, since hes' wished the job on me." Peter struck at a butt of inner sheathing plank close to the deck. To his surprise, he found the end unattached. He pried it back and jammed it with his ax.

"Look—O, Peter, look," Roberta cried breathlessly. "What's that? O, Peter."

In the space between the outer wall and the light inner sheathing the end of what seemed to be a brief case slipped down in sight. Roberta snatched at it and hauled it out. They both stared at its bulging shape. The case was latched but not locked. Peter raised the flap. Roberta whispered in his ear, "Crammed full of banknotes. Big ones. They were the bank robbers, after all."

"Yes, and they brought their loot aboard and left it below until the night they sneaked up and seized the schooner. Then later on they made this hiding place."

"Let's see how much there is."

"No." He sprang up with the brief case and started aft. Capt. Hiram had just taken in his late afternoon time sight and was at his chart working out the ship's position in the old fashioned way. He looked around frowning at the interruption.

"Here it is, Captain," Peter said.

"So they did have it with them, after all. When we cleaned out the hold in Capetown without finding anything I decided they must have planted it ashore rather than risk getting collared with the goods."

Peter told how he had happened on it. "That boat paid for the damage she did."

"Yes. Wherever that bank was, they ought to be glad to stand the repair job. Overhauled it?"

"No, sir. All I did was to open the flaps and look inside. Bank notes."

There came a sound of pattering feet outside and a panting as if a little girl had been running hard along the deck. Roberta burst in. She was flushed and breathless and she carried another big bulging brief case.

"Hi, what's this?" Capt. Hiram cried.

"Here's another. But that's all. I pawed all around inside. They must have made a haul."

Capt. Hiram asked sharply, "Have you touched anything inside it?"

"No, sir." A month before Roberta had not learned to favor any man, whatever his age and dignity, with this title. Ladybird had quickly taught her sea-going manners.

Ladybird came in. She did not need to be told what this was all about. Peter glanced at her face, then looked away as quickly as if he had intruded on her when she was taking a shower. He had seen that expression of naked avarice before and hated it.

Capt. Hiram must have seen it, also. His straight, clean cut, weathered features set in the grim lines they assumed at moments of quick final decision. He said curtly:

"Send Benny to relieve Adam at the wheel, Mr. Mate. Tell Raoul to spell Benny in the galley. Call the rest in here."

"Aye, sir." Ladybird went out.

Capt. Hiram remained silent. Peter did not interrupt his train of thought. He knew that this would be expressed as soon as the active partners in the enterprise were mustered.

Silver Screen Ball Promises a Happy Time

Every Guest Will Become a Movie Star.

night like "Schnozzle" Durante you'll wear a masque. If it's exotic Anna May Wong you'd like to be, you'll wear a red Chinese mandarin hat and a red cape; to be those favorite movie stars, Mickey and Minnie of the rodent family, you'll wear masques just alike except that Mickey has a necktie and Minnie a hair ribbon; the movie stars will shine in silver, blue or white star headdresses and capes with dominos hiding their eyes; the movie fans' faces will be covered with fan shaped masques, lovely things they are, too; the jazz players will have masques, little saxophones and red and white neckties; the mystery men will wear black and red capes with silver marks on them and queer, mysterious looking faces; and if you'd a director be, you will be given a wide visored cap, to be worn backwards, of course, and a megaphone.

Decorations Are Silver and Black

The decorations are to be all silver and black with colored lights to supply the nuances in color and it looked yesterday in the embryonic state as if it would be highly successful by tonight. Andrew Rebori is responsible for the decorations and Lucille Knoche for the costumes. There is to be a cabaret going on all evening in the ballroom and at twenty minutes past midnight in the Gold Coast room the "big show" will be staged with all professional talent except clever little Ethel Dixon, a debutante of this season, who made such a hit in the Service Club revue that she has been deluged with professional stage offers ever since.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer L. Dixon, have discouraged that, however, so she still is an amateur and apt to remain one, she and her mother assure us. The side shows are to be in the tower room and of course there will be dancing in both the ball and Gold Coast rooms.

Some of those who have reserved boxes or tables are the William N. Pelouzes—he is president of the association; Mrs. Walter Borden, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin A. Traylor, the George Senseneys, the Charles H. Chadwicks, the Benjamin H. Marshalls, Mrs. Jacob Baur, the Harold Pynchons, the Hayden B. Harrises, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Owings, Vincent Bendix, the John F. Jelkes, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed and her sister, Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, the Philip Wrigleys, the Frank G. Logans, A. Watson Armour III., the Frederick H. Rawsons, the Henry Bartholomays, Mrs. Clyde M. Carr, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings and Miss Emeline Bush. The invitations read "from nine-thirty p. m. onward" and if the ball is as gay and joyous an affair as it gives promise of being, that word onward will be an elastic term that may mean 6 a. m.

Betty Brawley to Bow Today

Miss Betty Brawley will be presented to society this afternoon by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Frank E. Brawley at a tea and reception at their residence at 1448 Lake Shore drive.

The debutante's older sister, Mrs. Harold Walker Lewis, will receive with the bud and her parents and the following young girls will assist at the tea table: Misses Nancy Traylor, Jane Boyce, Helen Marie Castle, Ethel Dixon, Martha Lee, Eleanor Page, Honore White, Susan Badgerow, Dorothy Marshall, Eleanor Litsinger, Caryl Bloomingston, and Julia Kramer. Miss Brawley plans to give a party for her assistants some time during the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Alfred Wolfe [Vera Stock] has been appointed chairman of a newly formed junior committee of the Chicago Friends of Music. The group includes Miss Janet Fairbank, Mrs. Thomas L. Marshall, Mrs. Arthur Bissell Jr., Miss Mary Bacon, Miss Dorothy Schmidt, Mrs. Catharine Bartholomay Osborne, Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, Mrs. Albert F. Madiener Jr., Mrs. Thomas Underwood, Mrs. William M. Spencer, Miss Beatrice Norton, Miss Peggy Hambleton, Mrs. Robert S. Pirie, and Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson.

The Friends of Music are to hold a meeting at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the foyer of Orchestra hall.

Society Will Attend Circus

Society of all ages will be present at the old time Yankee circus today and tomorrow at the Stadium. The women's division of the Salvation Army is staging the circus for the benefit of the Emergency Welfare fund of Cook county. The Stadium is such a huge place that those whose names make social news will be merged with the whole and it will be just one big audience of circus lovers there on both afternoons and nights.

There will be dozens of young society women selling flowers in the booths of which Mrs. Benjamin J. Rosenthal is in charge, some of them being Miss Janet Bard, Miss Susanne Morris, Miss Susan Badgerow, Miss Martha Lee, Miss Jean McVoy, Miss Peggy Glidden, Miss Kathryn Evans, Miss Eleanor Page, Miss Ethel Dixon, Miss Julia Kramer, Miss Marion Gordon, and Miss Letitia Channon.

Three audiences are to see the puppet show, "Winnie-the-Pooh," which the Junior league is sponsoring at the Playhouse this week-end, for there are to be shows this morning at 11, tomorrow morning at the same hour, and Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. I'll wager this morning's collection of youngsters will be the most appreciative and enthusiastic of all those who enjoy it, for they are crippled children of the city who are to be the guests of Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed.

She has bought out the house for this morning and through Miss Foley of the Visiting Nurse association she has invited as many little cripples as the theater will hold. Tickets for the other two shows are on sale at the box office of the theater or may be obtained from Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr.

Janet Fairbank to Sing Tonight

The University of Chicago Symphony orchestra will give its first concert of the season this evening with Miss Janet Fairbank as the soloist. Miss Fairbank's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, are to give a dinner party before the concert for Dr. and Mrs. Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin, who are coming from Madison to hear Miss Fairbank sing.

Roller skaters along the north shore are polishing up their skates for the opening skating party this evening in the drill hall of the Great Lakes Naval Training station. The parties, which have been immensely popular during the last few winters, will be given every Friday evening until March 17. Proceeds benefits the Navy Relief fund.

Another "at home" on New Year's day for which cards are out is one at which Mrs. William S. Ennis and her daughter, Miss Margaret Ennis, will be hostesses at their residence, 2600 Lake View avenue, from 4 to 7 o'clock.

Sale to Benefit Junior School

A group of young women on the north side who are very much interested in raising money for scholarships to the Chicago Junior school, which is an institution in Elgin for half-orphans, are holding a food sale tomorrow at 519 Diversey parkway. Mrs. Frank Taber, Mrs. John Cornell, and Mrs. Jacob Bischof are trustees of the school who are working hard for the sale's success, and some of the young women who have been cooking and baking this "food fit for a king" are Mrs. B. Botsford Young, Mrs. Robert Hunter, Mrs. Downer McCord, and Mrs. Warren Conn.

It looks as if every member of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations will put forth every effort to attend the luncheon meeting at the Palmer house next Tuesday, for Silas H. Strawn will speak on "The World Economic Situation."

Mr. Strawn, who as vice president of the International Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the chamber's American section, headed this country's delegation and played a leading part in the negotiations at the annual sessions in Paris, is just returning to the United States.

Return from New York

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams of Lake Forest returned yesterday from a few days' stay in New York.

Mrs. Charles Andrews of 1209 Astor street has received word that her new granddaughter, born last month in Kansas City to Mr. and Mrs. John Madden (Ann Andrews), is to be named Elizabeth Ann for the baby's mother and her maternal grandmother.

Miss Dorothy Bard, daughter of the Francis Norwood Bards of Highland Park, will arrive today from Connecticut college to spend the holidays with her parents. Miss Bard made her debut in September at a garden tea.

John Marshall II. will return on Monday from Cornell to spend the Christmas holidays with his mother, Mrs. John Irwin Marshall, in Highland Park. As his house guest during the holidays he will have Walter H. Lemley, a member of the faculty of the Hill school at Pottstown, Pa.

Patou's Frock of Plaid Given Low Waistline

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris is looking frantically for a patterned material to succeed to the place that stripes formerly occupied in the mode. In this category checks are doing very well, and Jean Patou, as well as one or two others of the great Paris dressmakers, proposes plaids for this position.

The plaid patterns that Paris couturiers are using are in the genuine patterns of the clans of Scotland, but they have lost the brilliant colors of the originals. Tone on tone of one color like brown, gray, or blue makes the plaid material more discreet, and gives it a greater chance for universal acceptance.

Patou's dress, shown today, is in tones of brown plaid, and is called "leaves of autumn," a pretty name that suits the pretty dress. The wool is smooth and closely woven, and, of course extremely light weight. The Patou waistline, on the hips, is marked by a band of brown astrakhan and the bertha at the shoulders is also bordered with this fur.

Two tabs close the fitted bodice of this dress in front, one rises diagonally on to the bertha and buttons on two brown buttons, the other descends diagonally to the belt and also buttons. Three-quarters length cuffs of plaid on the sleeves, button on the outside.

Give Reception at White House for Diplomats

Hold Second Function of Social Season.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover have as house guests Mr. and Mrs. Howard Heinz of Pittsburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Will Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Rickard of New Canaan, Conn., and their daughter, Mrs. Rex Mohun of New York, and Miss Gwen Martin of Philadelphia. They all arrived this afternon to attend the diplomatic reception tonight, the second state reception in the White House this season. This has always previously been the first reception of a season, but this year President and Mrs. Hoover gave the second one of the series, the judiciary, as the first one, on Oct. 13, so that delegates to the annual bar association meeting could be present.

Tonight's function was brilliant and interesting and larger than usual. The new dean of the corps, the French ambassador, Paul Claudel, headed the corps for the first time officially, and he and Mme. Claudel were the first to be received by the hosts. Many dinner parties preceded the reception and many supper parties followed in official and diplomatic circles.

Among interesting representatives of former administrations seen at the reception tonight were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stanley Brown, the latter formerly Miss Mollie Garfield, daughter of the martyred President, whose husband was President Garfield's secretary, and their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Feis; Mrs. Russell B. Harrison, daughter-in-law of President Benjamin Harrison, with her daughter, Mrs. Marthena Harrison Williams, and the latter's daughters, Miss Sally Ann Williams and Miss Mary Virginia Williams, and Mrs. Charles Isham, granddaughter of President Abraham Lincoln, and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Isham. Mrs. Isham, who was Miss Mary Lincoln, is a cousin of Mrs. Russell Harrison. She now makes her home in Georgetown with her mother, Mrs. Robert Todd Lincoln.

The secretary of the treasury and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills were hosts at dinner before the reception and had a company of out of town guests who went on to the reception with them. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. H. Rogers Winthrop, Mr. and Mrs. William Goadsby Loew, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Stevenson, Mrs. Harold Pratt and daughter, Miss Barbara Pratt, and Wadsworth Lewis.

The secretary of the navy and Mrs. Adams entertained at dinner for their house guests, who are Mrs. Adams' sister, Mrs. Henry Brinton Coxe of Philadelphia; the secretary's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morgan of New York, and Mr. Morgan's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pennoyer of New York, and Miss Helen Homans of Boston, niece of the secretary.

Faithful Few Are Rewarded by Symphony

BY HAZEL MOORE.

A fair share of the regular Thursday night symphony patrons showed their reaction to the gala concert of the Bohemians of the night before by remaining at home last evening, comfortably ensconced from icy blasts. Two novelties and a popular soloist offered lure enough for the faithful few. These had opportunity to hear the orchestra's first cellist, Daniel Saidenberg, in the American premiere of a "Concerto-Ballata" by the Russian composer Glazounow, and a first performance of three Spanish dances written in Chicago by the South American Eustasio M. Rosales.

Mr. Saidenberg has become deservedly popular during his tenure of the first cello chair, and was greeted with warming applause last night as he mounted the higher chair of soloist. His choice of the new Glazounow concerto, written just a year ago and dedicated to Pablo Casals, was interesting in disclosing a new vehicle for cello display. It is frankly a display piece, with difficulties galore, and a modicum of pleasant melody. Aside from that it is definitely of a past generation musically, and offers little orchestral background of interest. Mr. Saidenberg played it beautifully, with fine tone and easy mastery of the technical difficulties.

The Rosales Spanish dances came as rather a relief after the weighty Scandinavian opuses of Sinding and Alfven, namely the Rondo Infinito and the Symphony No. 3, neither of which inspired a chilly audience to any warm applause.

The Spanish dances, however, struck a responsive chord, partly due to the works themselves, which were tuneful, truthfully Spanish, and well orchestrated, and perhaps in a greater part to the brilliant performance given them by Mr. Stock and the orchestra. Mr. Rosales was obliged to bow a number of times to the plaudits of both audience and orchestra. The program will be repeated at Orchestra hall this afternoon.

Here's Easy Formula for Slimness

First, lie face down on the floor. Shove your hands forward and your toes back and stretch so you can feel the pull from tip to toe. Relax. Then, raise shoulders and arms off the floor, as illustrated, and stretch. Relax. Stretch! Relax!

Supple Muscles Result from This Exercise

Lie Flat on the Floor, Then Stretch!

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The new dresses are ruthless, to put it mildly! And the spring forecast isn't going to make it any easier for the woman whose "lines" aren't good. Lines, lines—this is the word you're hearing applied to figures today. You see, we've gone past that stage where all that was asked of a figure was that it subscribe to certain weight regulations.

It has to be kept within weight control today, of course. But, in addition there must be a waistline, a hipline, a bustline, and a slim ankle line. The lines not only have to be lines, but they have to be flexible, movable, agile lines. This is what marks the advance in today's silhouettes over yesterday's. It is why dieting alone is not sufficient for today's needs. And why I'm urging you to do your full quota of stretching daily.

Here's a little test for you women who feel you've done enough for your silhouette when you took off that extra weight by diet. Sit down for a few minutes in an easy chair. Just loaf there. Relax. Now, how do you get up? Do the muscles of your trunk lift you, or do your arms and hands get you up out of the chair?

It's motions like this that test the real youth of your body—not the latest weight record on your scales. If you can't hop up and out of the chair like a young person your muscles are out of gear, maybe a bit rusty. And this just won't do at all in the new figure demands! What passed for a good figure a year or so ago needs a lot of polishing off today. Your greyhound silhouette has to act the greyhound agility.

Now in this series to date I've been letting you stretch on the bed, and stretch walking around the house, and stretch as you sit in your chair. Today I want you to get down on the floor. Get right down to business, as it were. And stretch! We must get you limbered up for better and better lines.

First lie face down on the floor. Shove your hands forward and your toes back and stretch so you can feel the pull from tip to toe. Have an imaginary mark you're aiming finger tips and toes for. Relax. Then raise shoulders and arms off the floor, as illustrated—and stretch. Relax! Stretch! Relax!

Why Not Allow Woman to Do the Proposing?

It Might Reduce the Ratio of Divorces.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What do you think of the idea of women striking for the right to pop the question?

Could they do more with this right and get more happiness out of it than the vote has given them? More happiness than their fight for a place in the business world has earned them?

A funny twist in feminine psychology, when you come to think of it, that they don't make war on the old chains that bind the female to waiting until she's asked. It's been suggested that there wouldn't be half the divorces did woman usurp the right to pop the question to the young man she wants to marry. If only to reduce the divorce ratio, the experiment might be worth trying.

Heaven only knows how many woman marry because they're asked, not by the man they want above all others to ask them. But rather than remain single they respond to a second best. Or how many girls don't marry at all because convention forbids they make known the state of their hearts to the one and only man they desire.

We're no rampant feminist, but since women haven't shown any backwardness about promoting causes and demanding rights that mean far less to them than this one, we wonder why they bow so meekly to Dame Grundy in this one respect. The men might not like it, of course. But they didn't like the vote until they were trained to liking it. They were not open armed, either, about woman's entrance into business.

They might eventually be trained to see woman's side of the proposing game. Of the two she is the more married, isn't she? It's vitally important to the success of her marriage that she get the one she loves. Important to the welfare of the children, too.

Cynics and humorists insist that the woman practically does the proposing as it is. Nevertheless, convention does hold back many a fine woman from exposing her true heart's wish. Though we never expect to see it come to pass that a woman popping the question is not a subject of ridicule or criticism—still, it's strange that the attempt at emancipation isn't made.

Mass Marks Anniversary of Service by Marquette

Services in commemoration of the first mass offered on the site of Chicago in 1674 were held yesterday at St. Mary's Catholic church, Wabash avenue and 9th street. The Rev. John H. Sullivan was the celebrant of the mass which recalled a similar service offered in the bleak wilderness here just 258 years ago by Father Marquette. Representatives of the French consulate were present at yesterday's services. Thomas A. O'Shaughnessy represented Mayor Cermak.

Let Youngsters Share in Joy of Gift Giving

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Last Christmas I remember one mother writing me that her children finished their Christmas shopping three weeks before Christmas and that they spent the remaining time wrapping and unwrapping the presents for their uncles, aunts, parents, and friends! She mentioned, as I remember, that the fancy wrapping papers were sadly wrinkled and the ribbons, too, having been tied in a different place each time. They were worn out with anticipation!

Well, all that was part of Christmas. Not to "have heart failure" because some one comes suddenly into the room when you're doing up your presents, not to have to squeak out, "Wait, don't come in!", not to have to cower over your cherished gifts to hide them from an unexpected entrance—not to have had these thrills is for a child not to have had a real Christmas.

What has gone before all this exciting wrapping up is a long story. First, there's the children's saving, going without things they really want so that they can give presents. Then comes the making out of lists, usually followed by consultations with mother over each item, with lots of arithmetic thrown in. After that comes a special shopping expedition. And sometimes hours of work, rowing, or carpentry, or drawing, or painting will follow.

Then there's the finding of a place to store these treasures which won't be uncovered by accident. And, last, before the great day of giving comes, there's the wrapping.

Let the children have the fun, the thrill of all this. Let them save, if ever so little. Or, if they're too small and you give them a sum to spend, do it ahead of time, so that by keeping it they can feel it's theirs.

Give her something she wouldn't buy herself

WHITE SOX TRADE 4 TO BOSTON FOR RHYNE, DURHAM

FOTHERGILL AND SEEDS, 2 MORE ARE SENT AWAY

Benge Obtained by Brooklyn.

New York, Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Baseball's trading mart continued its wholesale juggling of players today with seven clubs—two in the National league and five in the American league—announcing trades involving 12 players.

One of the first deals was between the White Sox and the Red Sox, four members of the Chicago team going to the Red Sox for two. The Chicago club got Hal Rhyne, shortstop, and Eddie Durham, righthand pitcher, for Bob Seeds and Bob Fothergill, outfielders, and Johnny Hodapp and Gregory Mulleavy, infielders. This transaction is expected to add some strength to the cellar champions of the American league and plug up the shortstop gap on the Chicago club.

What Red Sox Wanted.

The Red Sox management said the trade gave Boston two good infielders who were needed badly and two hard hitting outfielders. Hodapp may be used at second base and Mulleavy at shortstop.

This six-player deal came as a surprise, as officials of both clubs had taken little part in the David Harum marathon now in progress at the winter meetings of the major leagues which closed today with a joint session. The White Sox, having bought Al Simmons and Mule Haas, outfielders, and Jimmy Dykes, veteran infielder, from the Athletics at the world series, had little use for Fothergill and Seeds.

Mulleavy was recalled last year from the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast league where he batted for .321 in 132 games. Fothergill hit .294 in 115 games. Seeds batted .288 in 118 games and Hodapp's average was .220 in 75 games. Rhyne's record was .226 in 71 games. Pitcher Durham won 6 games and lot 13 with the Red Sox last year.

Dodgers Get Benge.

Brooklyn took its place at the swapping post and acquired Ray Benge, right handed pitcher, from Philadelphia in exchange for Neal [Mickey] Finn and Jesse Warner, infield substitutes; Cy Moore, relief pitcher, and a cash consideration. The deal, announced this morning by Dave Driscoll, Brooklyn business manager, leaves only Johnny Frederick and Gordon Slade as prospective material with which to barter with the Giants for Sam Leslie, substitute first baseman.

Benge was one of the Phillies leading pitchers last year, appearing in 41 games, winning 13 and losing 10. He had an earned run average of 4.05. He has been with Philadelphia for the last five years.

Finn Utility Player.

Finn has been general utility man with the Dodgers for two years, playing at second and third. Warner and Moore started the season with Brooklyn last year, Moore appearing in twenty games, but spent most of the season with Jersey City of the International league. Finn appeared in 65 games with the Dodgers and batted only .238. Moore won five and lost four with Jersey City and Warner batted .249.

On the heels of this deal another three cornered barter was made public by Detroit, St. Louis, and Washington in the American league. Washington obtained Charles Fischer, a left handed pitcher, from the Browns for Dick Coffman, right hander, and sent Fischer on to Detroit to complete the deal which sent Earl Whitehill, star Tiger southpaw, to the Senators. Detroit also got Fred Marberry, big right handed relief pitcher, as announced last night.

Just a Reverse Swap.

The St. Louis-Washington swap of Fischer and Coffman was merely a reversal of a trade of last summer in which the two pitchers were exchanged.

Fischer, pitching 12 games for the Washington Senators and 14 for the Browns last year, won 6 and lost 9 and had an earned run average of 5.36. Coffman appeared in 9 contests with St. Louis and 22 with Washington. He also won 6 and lost 9, but had a better earned run mark, 4.08.

The New York Giants meanwhile were trying to procure some needed pitchers and an outfielder to replace Joe Moore in left. Shanty Hogan, the big catcher, was mentioned as an even swap for Ben Cantwell or Socks Sei-

THE GUMPS—BUSINESS BEFORE PLEASURE

POOR BIMBO—WHEN MILLIE'S MOTHER TOLD HIM THAT SHE AND HER DAUGHTER HAD TO LEAVE AT ONCE—IT ALMOST BROKE HIS HEART—
BUT SHE FORGOT TO TELL HIM THAT THE REASON THEY WERE LEAVING WAS ON ACCOUNT OF FINANCIAL DIFFICULTIES—THAT HER FUNDS WERE GETTING LOW—
OH, MRS. DE STROSS—WHY DO YOU HAVE TO LEAVE JUST AS WE WERE HAVING SUCH A SPLENDID TIME? YOU WOULDN'T LEAVE A POOR OLD BACHELOR OUT HERE ALONE TO PINE AWAY ALL BY HIMSELF—WOULD YOU?
IT'S BUSINESS MR. GUMP—AND YOU KNOW WHAT THAT MEANS—

IT IS QUITE IMPOSSIBLE—I APPRECIATE YOUR KIND THOUGHT BUT I HAVE SOME VERY IMPORTANT FINANCIAL PROBLEMS THAT MUST BE ATTENDED TO AT ONCE—
IT'S NO USE TO TRY—THAT BANK ACCOUNT OF MAMA'S IS GETTING LOW—AND SHE KNOWS WHAT IS BEST—

PROMISE THAT YOU'LL SEE ME REAL SOON—

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Joe Voegele, playing center and forward, led Notre Dame to a 24 to 12 basketball victory over Illinois Wesleyan tonight. It was Notre Dame's 18th consecutive victory and heralded the return of Ed Krause, center, and Al McGuff, forward, who joined the squad today after returning from Los Angeles with the football team yesterday.

The lead see-sawed during the first part of the game, but Notre Dame held a 13 to 8 advantage at the half. Voegele sank a field goal and free throw to increase the lead in the second half, while Illinois Wesleyan failed to score from the field.

McGuff and Krause each got baskets in a rally midway in the last period. Butch O'Neil, reserve guard and a football man, added another.

EX-N. U. PITCHER SUFFERS SERIOUS INJURY IN CRASH

Valparaiso, Ind., Dec. 15.—[Special.]—Malcolm Fyfe, former member of the Northwestern university baseball team, was seriously injured today when his automobile crashed into a pole near here. Fyfe, who pitched for Scranton, New York Yankee farm, last season, suffered skull fracture, and hopes for his recovery are slight.

GANGWAY FOR GRID ACE

BEARS' BATTLE WITH SPARTANS MOVED INDOORS

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Chicago Bears and the Portsmouth Spartans yesterday decided to move their game for the national professional football championship indoors. They will play Sunday evening at the Chicago Stadium instead of at Wrigley field because of the extreme cold.

A crowd of 15,200 can be accommodated for football at the west side arena. The playing field will not be as large as a regulation gridiron, but the teams believe they will have enough room with a field 80 yards long and 45 yards wide. The ceiling is high enough for regulation punts. The Bears and Cardinals played a charity game at the Stadium in 1930.

Tickets purchased for the game at Wrigley field may be exchanged at the Stadium box office.

Spartans Hold Outdoor Drill.

Sixteen players are on the Spartan squad. They are Presnell, Gutowsky, Alford, Wilson, Cavosie and Lumpkin, backs; Ebding, Christiansen, Mitchell, Emerson, Randolph, Davis, Bodenger, Weger, Rasher and McKalip, linemen. Every one is in perfect condition, according to Trainer Doc Neff.

Bears Have Best Ends.

The Bears will go into the championship game knowing that they have two of the best ends in the professional league guarding the extremities of the scrimmage line. These men, Luke Johnsos, who is the team captain when Red Grange is off the field, and Bill Hewitt, not only are strong defensively, but they excel at blocking and in catching passes.

Johnsos and Hewitt have a record of halting almost all runs directed at the ends. Their defensive play is along the same order in that they crash through the interference to tackle the runner. Both are well versed in football tactics and drop back of the scrimmage line to protect on plunges or to cover pass receivers.

Hewitt Makes Great Tackle.

Associated Order of Hero Worshipers Is No More

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 15. — The total eclipse of Jack Sharkey since he won the heavyweight championship may be due in part to his own domesticity and his aversion to backslappers, armpinchers and crowds. It is also due in part, however, to the fact that the customers nowadays have other interests than the adulation of heroes who are not really heroic, but merely famous.

The day of the athletic celebrity is drawing to a close and I much doubt that if another Jack Dempsey or another Babe Ruth were to come along this year the popular response would be anything like the acclaim which made life so joyous for those two giants of the sport page when they were in their prime.

Of course, they would not make as much money, but then neither do the plasterers who got $16 a day nor the office boys who pooled their spare money to buy stocks on margin, selecting them by the meeny-miney-mo system in the gorgeous, goofy era when Tex Rickard made a small down payment on a seagoing yacht and sailed the raging ripples as far as Staten Island in a commodore's cap.

Not just once, but four times, Dempsey fought briefly before crowds which had paid in excess of a million dollars for the privilege of being present. They couldn't pay that much now.

If ever a people went crazy it was the people of the U. S. A. during the boom, and their madness was apparent not only in their wild squandering of money but in their exaggeration. A prize fighter up from the beet fields and brake beams, with a genial manner and reckless style in the ring, was the greatest man on earth.

A ball player out of an orphanage who could belt the baseball over the walls for sixty home runs in a season was the greatest man on earth, too, even though it was known that the ball which he belted over the walls was loaded with home runs at the factory. Tilden was the greatest man on earth; Red Grange was the greatest man on earth. Hooray for the greatest man in the world and give me six tickets for the show at $50 each.

I believe that nowadays people are a little more choosey and that the tendency to allow Jack Sharkey the privacy which seems to be his desire comes from a realization that he isn't a great man and wouldn't be great even if he wer a genuine champion.

The baseball magnates are in a great worry because the customers have not been going to the ball yards in great numbers, and, of course, they know that poverty, panic, or whatever their favorite word for the economic condition may be, is partly responsible.

What they do not seem to believe, however, is that they have been debunking their hired heroes before the customers for several years, and have finally convinced the patrons that their idols are only employés. After all, if I had been a major league proprietor with such an employé as Rogers Hornsby was a few years ago, I would have done everything in my power to heighten the illusion of importance, even though I did not like the fellow personally, or even thought him to be a grubby, greedy, unworthy boor. I would have hired fiddlers to play for him when he went to bat and sprinkled him over with fresh mown orchids at every public opportunity. He would have had a private car with an 18 carat tailboard from which to make little condescending speeches to his idolators at Wheeling and Terre Haute, and he would have ridden the public streets in a red automobile as long as a hook and ladder truck, with flunkeys along to light his cigarets for him, or, if he didn't smoke, to stuff his face with sucking tobacco.

Then he quarreled with some executive on the Giants and was sent to Boston and, without tracing the rest of his career in all it's familiar details, I may say that in every instance the magnates have taken pains to demonstrate that the fellow was no hero, but merely a man employed to do a certain job.

Hornsby is only one. There were all those world series managers whose paths were strewn with torn telephone books and ticker tape in the autumn and who found themselves in Minneapolis or just nowhere at all a little while later. There was Casey Stengel, whose two home runs won two ball games for the Giants in their last world series with the Yankees, and went to the Eastern league next spring.

There was Bill Terry, Giants' first baseman, a great ball player in the fall but just an over-rated mediocrity when he held out for more money the next year.

The moving picture magnates built them up this year and silenced them the next, and so now, when a hero is offered to a public with nothing much to do but brood and suspect, there is a tendency to look the hero over and inquire, "You wouldn't fool us, would you?"

HUNTER'S VANITY BRINGS ARREST FOR QUAIL BAG

Begs for Publicity; Gets Call from Warden.

BY BOB BECKER.

When a hunter brings home 127 quail, although the law says 36 is his legal limit, and then invites newspaper publicity on his success, he is inviting arrest.

That is what happened to William M. Jones, 4920 Montana avenue. He displayed 127 quail killed downstate. Ralph Bradford, director of conservation, reported yesterday that a warden had confiscated the quail and arrested Jones for violation of Illinois game laws.

The Illinois game code says it is unlawful for "any person to kill in any one day in excess of twelve quails." Moreover, it is unlawful "for any person to have in his or her possession, at any one time, in excess of 36 quails."

Prison Sentence Prescribed.

Section 62 of the Illinois game code prescribes the following punishment for violations of the bag limit: "Any person who shall be found guilty of violating any of the provisions of sections 8, 9, 13, etc. . . . shall be fined not less than $25 nor more than $100 for each offense, or imprisoned in the county jail not less than 15 days nor more than 30 days, or both fined and imprisoned, in the discretion of the court."

Each hunting season results in accidents, many of which prove fatal or very serious, a long list of peculiar and often extremely humorous experiences and the usual number of violations of game laws. But this Chicago incident involving 127 quail is unique in that the hunter, instead of following a hush policy, deliberately asked the public to take a look at what he had done.

By far the most unusual deer hunting experience recorded so far concerns the chap who was stalking deer and poked his head through some brush to survey the landscape. When he came to 30 minutes later he was back in camp with his partners working over him. A deer had kicked him in the forehead.

Hunter Is Shot.

Another deer hunting accident this season brought trouble to a Michigan hunter who shot a young buck and hoisted it on his back to carry it into camp. Another hunter saw the deer, took a shot at it and hit the poor fellow back-packing the carcass.

Although this deer must have been in anything but a natural position as it was being carried, to the quick trigger hunter a deer is a deer, no matter if the animal seems to be standing on its head.

FIRST SETBACK ON HOME RINK FOR CHICAGOANS

Rookie Heximer Is Lone Scorer.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks last night took their first licking on home ice and their first shutout on any rink when they fell before their greatest enemies, the Boston Bruins, 1 to 0, at the Stadium.

For two periods the Hawks skated rings around every Bruin except Tiny Thompson and Mr. Tiny, being the goal tender, was just the man to stop them. The reputedly tough Bruins weren't tough in any clash up to the game deciding marker, which came, sudden like, in the seventh minute of the final period.

Rookie Turns the Trick.

Until that fateful juncture the Hawks were the fighters and there were times when the Bruins, excepting Mr. Tiny, semed well back on the heels of their skates. And when the ferocious lads did open up to bring home the bacon they relied on a rookie, Obs Heximer who, being a rookie on a great team, was willing to work hard. On a pass from Chapman, the young man skated like everything and dropped the puck into Mr. Gardiner's net quicker than you could tell about it.

To make it all the more provoking, the Bruins were shy a man at the time. Hitchman was in the penalty box when Heximer did his stuff.

After that the Hawks, playing all forwards in the last half of the period, used every device at their command in an effort to tie the score, but the Bruins just golfed the puck and laughed at the frenzied efforts to bring the game back to an even status.

8,000 Sit It Out.

The contest was witnessed by 8,000, really a lot of folks when you consider that it was near zero outside the hall. Many of the customers had come to see Eddie Shore get into one of his series of fist fights, but Eddie crossed them up by playing 60 minutes at right defense, not absorbing even so much as a 2 minute minor expulsion.

The only casualty of the game came within two minutes of the end when Capt. Hitchman caught Doc Romnes' stick in his left eye and had to be assisted from the rink. Later he was taken to a specialist for treatment.

Johnny Gottselig, star Hawk forward, who had been out of the game since Nov. 22 with an injured leg, played two minutes at the start of the third period and two minutes at the finish. He will make the impending trip with the Hawks, which includes four games, the first against the New York Americans Sunday night.

Although there was no scoring and no especially brilliant hockey in the first period, there was plenty of fast playing. Strangely enough, the Bruins got no penalties during the session, while the Hawks suffered two—one administered to Jenkins after eight minutes of play and the other to March after 11 minutes.

Hawks Keep Goalie Busy.

Tiny Thompson was obliged to make 13 stops, as compared to 8 negotiated by Gardiner. Tiny's first two stops were on Brother-Paul, who whanged a hot one against his skates 30 seconds after the opening face-off and followed with another one a minute later.

There were no closeup tries and no pileups in front of the cages. The closest thing to a score came when Cook almost rang up one after taking a pass from McFadyen.

The Hawks again were the aggressors in the second period but got no reward for their zeal. During the session the Bruins made only two sallies that came near looking like threats. On the other hand each of the three lines, aided on the offensive materially by the defensive players, who moved up repeatedly, made things miserable for Goalie Thompson, eight of his 12 saves being decidedly skilled and urgent.

Thompson, Couture Threaten.

In the first three minutes of the period Paul Thompson and Couture made two attacks that necessitated perfect goal tending to keep the zero on the scoreboard. From the fifth to the eighth minute mark, Ripley and Romnes put on a whirlwind campaign, in which they were ably abetted by Abel and Graham in skating roles as well as on the defensive, but the big counter never quite materialized.

When Gottselig started the third period he got a big hand and then

CRANE TECH AND MARSHALL PLAY BASKETBALL TIE

Overtime Period Ends, 23-23; Order Replay.

Crane Tech and Marshall played an overtime tie in their west section lightweight basketball game in the Chicago Public High School league at Marshall's gymnasium yesterday. The regulation game ended with the score 22 to 22, and each team scored a free throw in the extra session to tie, 23 to 23. The game will be replayed after the teams have concluded their sectional schedules.

Braverman, Marshall right guard, staved off defeat twice by making good on free throw attempts. Crane Tech led, 12 to 9, at the half. With five seconds to play, Crane was in front, 22 to 21, and a second later Braverman was fouled. He sank the free throw.

Braverman Is Star.

In the overtime period Forkin, left forward, scored a free throw to put Crane Tech ahead, 23 to 22, but Braverman sank his second free throw just as the final whistle sounded.

Wendell Phillips, defending league champion, led by Bingley, center, and Brooks, left forward, started its central section schedule by defeating Tilden Tech, 30 to 23, on the latter's court. Bingley collected six baskets and two free throws, while Brooks contributed six points.

Harrison Tech Wins.

Harrison Tech and McKinley were the victors in another pair of west division lightweight contests. Harrison Tech triumphed, 21 to 20, over Tuley on the Harrison floor, while McKinley, with Delarbe scoring seven baskets and four free throws, won from Austin, 37 to 32, at McKinley.

Kaffka scored 12 points as Fenger defeated Calumet's lightweights, 31 to 15, at Fenger's gymnasium. Roskowski led Calumet scorers with three baskets and one free throw. Waller triumphed over Schurz, 20 to 15, in the opening north section heavyweight game at Schurz.

More Players Named in Prep Investigation

The names of several more Chicago Public High School league basketball players were mentioned yesterday as athletic directors and league officials continued their investigation of reports that many players had violated league rules by participating in Catholic Youth organization games. Three Englewood players were suspended Wednesday.

Flash Avelis, veteran on the Tilden Tech heavyweight squad, one of the players mentioned in the reports, was said to have withdrawn from the contest, thus avoiding a suspension and remaining eligible to compete in other sports. Avelis was one of the outstanding players on the Tilden basketball team last year.

Corbett Is Benched.

Another Tilden player, Lee Corbett, member of the lightweight team, probably will be suspended today. He was reported as having played with a Catholic Youth organization team and did not appear in the Tilden-Phillips game yesterday. There was no explanation for keeping Corbett on the bench.

However, Capt. Frank Szmanski of the Tilden lightweight squad, another alleged to have broken the rule, played against Phillips. Capt. Szmanski denied he played with another squad. He probably will be questioned again today.

Check on Phillips.

Ben Mosby, Phillips athletic director, was asked by league officials to attempt to determine if any members of the Phillips squads had played with another quintet. It was reported that several players, wearing Phillips jerseys, were seen in the locker room after a C. Y. O. game last Sunday.

Violation of the league rule, which prohibits playing with a team other than a Chicago Public High school league squad after a player's name appears on an eligibility list, carries a suspension of one year.

Roguish Eye Is In Already—Ask the Bath

BY FRENCH LANE.

Roguish Eye is ready to take his place among the great race horses of America. He will win the $50,000 Cuban Grand National handicap next March 12 at Oriental Park, and later on he will beat every horse that dares face him.

Ald. John [The Bath] Coughlin, who owns the steed, says so. You should see the alderman rub his hands in anxious anticipation when a $50,000 stake race is mentioned, particularly the race that is to be run in Cuba in just a little less than three months from now.

Has Had Tough Luck.

Maybe the alderman is right and perhaps he is wrong. Few horses have turned out to be greater disappointments than Roguish Eye. There was the eyelash defeat he suffered in the great Futurity at Belmont Park, won by Marshall Field's High Strung. It happened away back in 1928. The short nose [the alderman calls it a dirty nose] Roguish Eye lost by cost Coughlin right around $100,000, for the purse amounted to almost that much and the owner had wagered a few bobs at 40 to 1 on his horse to win.

Then came one training mishap after another. Roguish Eye's legs and feet failed him one at a time. He's been officially retired from racing more often than any other horse the oldest old timer can recall.

Time and again the alderman and his trainers had him honed and primed for a spectacular comeback, then on the eve of the struggle the horse showed up with a limp. This happened so many times that the alderman's First ward cronies were ready to come to the conclusion, that "The Eye" has mastered the art of limping.

They expected to see Roguish Eye limping around State and Harrison streets down in the First ward carrying a tin cup selling pencils or shoe strings almost any day.

Too Good to Fade.

Roguish Eye didn't drift down the ladder so far. There was too much royal blood in his veins for that. He would rather try another comeback. So after four years of idleness as far as racing was concerned and at the ripe old horse age of six he started out the other day at New Orleans to make a fresh comeback.

Did he come back? Ask some of the bookmakers who took the alderman's wagers on the outcome of the race. The report is heard that the alderman still is cashing winning tickets for Roguish Eye. The price wasn't much, less than 5 to 1, but that made no difference, for Roguish Eye had come back. At least that's the way Coughlin figured it.

The purse was worth only a few hundred dollars. But it was oats money and carfare to Cuba to shoot for the $50,000 prize later on in the season. "This will be the greatest comeback an American horse ever made," the alderman tells any one willing to listen to him talk about Roguish Eye.

"I'm sorry we couldn't get him ready just a year earlier. He would have lost Phar Lap, Equipoise, and all the others," the alderman says.

One thing about Roguish Eye. Once upon a time he could run very fast. To beat him in the Futurity of four years ago High Strung had to shatter a world's record and run 7 furlongs over a straightaway course in 1:19.

GABBY HARTNETT TALKS ON SPEED AND CUB CHANCES

Catcher Charles (Gabby) Hartnett of the Cubs appeared in the Traffic court yesterday to prosecute a charge of reckless driving. He informed Judge Justin F. McCarthy the damages had been paid and the case was dismissed.

Asked by the judge how the pennant chances of the Cubs were next year, he said, "Great. Babe Herman is going to make a big difference. He is just what we need."

Bears' Title Game Moved to Stadium

tacular tackles of the season when he met Roger Grove head on and threw him high in the air. Johnsos has caught more forward passes than Hewitt only because he has been made the target more frequently. It was Johnsos who caught a pass for the winning touchdown against New York and who scored on a 60 yard pass from John (Bull) Doehring to tie the Spartans at Portsmouth, 7 to 7.

The real value of Johnsos and Hewitt to the Bears rests on the fact that they have strengthened the tackles, who have needed help frequently to stop line smashes. Burdick has been a regular at right tackle all season. He is a heavy duty type of lineman who, when he cares to, can outcharge any opponent. But Burdick has been given invaluable help by Hewitt at end and by Kopcha at right guard.

Miller Makes Good First Year.

Engebretsen has held the left tackle position most of the season, although until released Ely stepped into that position occasionally. Last Sunday against the Packers Bill Buckler started and played most of the game at tackle. He and Engebretsen probably will share left tackle Sunday.

Ookie Miller, who played center on the 1931 championship Purdue eleven, is the regular Bear center. He is one of the few college men to make good in his first professional season, and Miller's value has been doubled in the last half of the campaign. George Trafton, who is the oldest veteran in the league in point of service, still can give a good account of himself for a quarter or a half.

Pearson Goes to Guard.

Miller's success at center has made it possible for Coach Jones to shift Bert Pearson, last year's pivot man, to guard, where he and Bergerson replace Kopcha and Carlson when necessary. Franklin and Tackwell are the utility ends on the squad. Franklin also can fill in at full back for Nagurski. Needless to say, there isn't much opportunity for him at that position.

This array of line talent is superior in numbers and weight to the Portsmouth forward wall. Several possess more ability than their respective Spartan opponents. Portsmouth's attack centers on its alertness and its backs, who are very difficult to stop in the open field. McKalip and Ebding are fair ends and Davis and Christenson are only average tackles. The center trio shapes up much better with Emmerson and Bodenger at guards and Randolph or Davis at center.

Spartans Play for Breaks.

Portsmouth plays for and takes advantage of the breaks. This never was better demonstrated than against the Packers when Green Bay was defeated by three touchdowns although the Packers gained more yards than Portsmouth.

The Bears and Spartans will play a nonleague game in Cincinnati a week from Sunday, which, however, will not affect the final league standings. Cincinnati made a bid for the championship game, but Harry Snyder, president of the Portsmouth football corporation, agreed to play the title game in Chicago.

ST. CLARA PLAYS TONIGHT.

White Sox Get Two Players in Boston Deal

McKechnie asked for another player in addition to Hogan. He was offered Hughey Critz, but refused him. Critz also was offered to the Phillies earlier in the week. The Giants had hoped to get Benge for Critz and then trade Benge to Brooklyn for Johnny Frederick.

The Cubs, with Babe Herman in the fold, are expecting no more major trades, but announced that John Schulte, former Chicago catcher, had been signed as a coach. He replaces Charlie O'Leary.

Hit at Landis' Power.

Club owners of the National and American leagues, meeting in joint session, effected their first concerted encroachment of the powers which they originally invested in Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis. They adopted legislation which openly placed their combined approval upon the so-called "chain store" system.

This method of baseball farming, whereby major league clubs take over minor league club franchises for developing young players, became exploited on a large scale by the St. Louis Cardinals and subsequently was taken up by other powerful clubs such as the Yankees and Cubs. Commissioner Landis has been unalterably opposed to the chain store idea.

Notwithstanding this attitude, the magnates, with Commissioner Landis presiding, adopted an amendment to the major league rules which stipulates that henceforth all player transactions between major and minor league clubs must be regarded in the same light regardless of what the relation of stock ownership may be between the clubs involved.

Heretofore it has been Commissioner Landis' attitude in all rulings on such cases to regard a player shipped by a major league club to its farm as still the property, though out on option, of the major league club.

The only curb on chain store baseball now remaining for Landis to enforce is a rule which prohibits any major league club from owning or controlling more than one franchise in the same minor league.

No action was taken on radio, thereby leaving this perplexing problem in the same position it has held right along, namely that each club must decide for itself whether it shall have broadcasting. There seemed to have been quite a spirited debate on the subject with William Veeck of the Cubs and Judge Emil Fuchs of the Braves leading the fight for radio while Sam Breadon of the Cardinals headed the opposition forces.

New Series Ticket Plan.

On the matter of world's series ticket distribution it was decided that in the future this would be a matter for the contesting teams to decide. This means that the system of forcing the public to purchase reserved tickets in blocks of three is no longer mandatory and that the fans may buy tickets for single games if the clubs in the series so desire it.

CERMAK URGES 3 PER CENT CITY TAX ON SPORTS

New Levy Is Aimed at Baseball Gates.

An ordinance providing for a 3 per cent tax on gross receipts for all amateur and professional sports events in Chicago was submitted to the city council yesterday by Mayor Cermak, who asked that a "more equitable manner of licensing" sports activities be placed in effect.

The finance committee referred the proposed ordinance to a joint committee on revenue and athletics with directions to report its findings not later than Jan. 1. The joint committee plans to hold public hearings.

More Grief for the Sox.

The city's two professional baseball clubs, the White Sox and the Cubs, would bear the greater part of the new tax burden. Under present arrangements they are required to turn over an annual license fee of $4,000. Thus, the Cubs, who played to approximately 1,000,000 paying patrons last season and collected an estimated $1,000,000 at the gate, would be compelled to pay the city $30,000, an increase of about 750 per cent.

The White Sox operated at a loss last season and the increased tax would result in a greater hardship.

The University of Chicago pays the city $1,000 annually to operate Stagg field. The Maroons in the season just closed took in about $100,000 on football games and with a similar situation next year would hand over $3,000 to the city treasury

N. U. Escapes Fee.

Northwestern university, which is outside the city limits, would not be affected by the ordinance and neither would the six horse racing tracks in the metropolitan area.

The Chicago Blackhawks, the city's only professional hockey team, already is licensed on a basis of 3 per cent of the gross receipts.

There is some doubt as to the status of professional boxing and wrestling as promoters of these sports already are taxed a total of 20 per cent by the federal and state governments.

OSTAPAVICH TO MEET O'SHOCKER ON FRONTON CARD

Pat O'Shocker, the Irishman from Salt Lake City, will wrestle Dorna Ostapavich at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue, next Tuesday night.

They were signed yesterday for one of the supporting matches to the Ray Steele-Jim McMillen bout. Joe Stecher will face Joe De Vito in the semi-windup.

RECORD ENTRY SEEN IN TRIBUNE BOYS' SKI MEET

Early Snow Offers Plenty of Time to Practice.

Skiing, which in the last few years has become one of the leading sports in Chicago, received a setback last winter when a lack of snow kept the jumpers and runners indoors most of the time. This year should be different.

Already the skiiers have had nearly two weeks of excellent weather with temperatures well below the freezing mark and with plenty of snow covering the hills and valleys. The early start promises to produce a record list of entries for THE TRIBUNE'S third annual ski tournament for boys which will be held at Riis park, Fullerton and Meade avenues, on New Year's afternoon.

Knack Is Easy to Learn.

A pair of skiis probably offers more thrills than a pair of skates and there's less work involved in their use. The knack of keeping one's balance on a pair of the polished staves isn't difficult to learn, although at first the novice may find that one foot is inclined to run away from the other, or to shoot off at an angle until it causes a tumble. But a fall is no worse than doing a spread eagle on the ice. Sliding down a moderate slope is not at all dangerous.

Any hill with a gradual slope will do for practice. The slides in the forest preserves and the one at Riis park where THE TRIBUNE meet will be held may be attempted soon after the novice buys his skiis. The Riis park slide is built to permit a start halfway up the wooden structure. The drop from the trough to the ground is only a few feet, so at first the skiers may merely slide off, making no attempt to jump for distance.

Now Comes Hard Part.

After the ability to maintain balance has been acquired the jumpers then may practice the leap upward and outward as he reaches the end of the slide. This is the knack which determines championships. The more effort one puts into jumping the more difficult it is to keep balanced, but the jump also determines the distance the skiier will travel through the air.

Jumps from 150 feet to more than 200 feet are possible on the mammoth ski slides. The distances depend on the weather conditions. Soft snow naturally creates more friction and reduces the speed of the rider.

The slide at Riis park, of course, is not high enough to make possible any such distances. However, the best mark there in the last two tournaments was over 40 feet. This record should be broken this year in the event of cold weather and hard packed snow.

Entries Close Dec. 27.

Entries will be accepted for THE TRIBUNE meet until midnight Dec. 27. There are four age classes for boys so that all will have an opportunity to win a gold medal for proficiency. Silver and bronze medals are the second and third awards in each class.

In the event that the tournament cannot be held on New Year's day the meet will be postponed to Monday, Jan. 2, which is a legal holiday, or to a subsequent Sunday.

TONIGHT'S CARD

Charley Belanger vs. Billy Jones [10].
Eddie Shea vs. Harry Blitman [10].
Paul Dazzo vs. Young Geno [8].
Young Terry vs. Jack Moran [8].
Danny Neenan vs. Leo Ranieri [4].

Charley Belanger, Winnipeg, Canada, heavyweight, and Billy Jones of Philadelphia will meet in the 10 round windup of a boxing show tonight at the Coliseum, 15th street and Wabash avenue. Four other contests, one at 10 rounds, two at 8, and one at 4 rounds, will comprise the supporting card.

It is the first show offered by the Coliseum Athletic club, of which U. J. [Sport] Herrmann is president, Charles R. Hall is secretary and treasurer, and Tom Ford is matchmaker. Mayor Cermak is sponsoring the card, of which 50 per cent of the proceeds will go to Chicago's general fund for the needy.

The card, as originally planned, called for four ten round bouts but the Dazzo-Geno and Terry-Moran matches were reduced to eight because of the state commission's ruling against shows of more than 40 rounds.

Shea Battles Blitman.

Eddie Shea, south side featherweight, and Harry Blitman of Philadelphia meet in the 10 round semi-final. The 8 round matches will bring together Paul Dazzo, Chicago 126 pounder, and Young Geno of La Salle, Ill., and Young Terry, Trenton, N. J., middleweight, and Jack Moran, Chicago. Danny Neenan, 1931 Catholic Youth organization lightweight champion, and Leo Ranieri meet in the opening bout at 4 rounds.

Jones and Belanger are meeting for the second time. Several weeks ago at Detroit they fought a 10 round draw. Jones hasn't added anything to his record since then, but Belanger has. The Canadian knocked out Jimmy Slattery and beat Lou Scozza. Both Jones and Charley appeared in the light heavyweight tournament at the Chicago Stadium a year ago.

Belanger was eliminated due to inability to make the weight and since then he has been fighting as a heavyweight. Jones was favored to win the tournament, but lost to Dave Maier in the semi-final round.

Shea will make his first appearance since he met Kid Chocolate in Chicago last Aug. 4. He has displayed his old punching ability in his workouts and may stop Blitman, who is making his local debut.

When Geno faces Dazzo tonight he will find that Paul is an improved fighter since their two previous bouts, in which Dazzo scored a knockout and Geno won in 10 rounds. Since their last match, Dazzo has knocked out Frankie Wallace and whipped Jackie Sharkey and held Sid Lampe to a draw. Geno stopped Roger Bernard and lost to Tommy Paul, featherweight champion, recently.

Moran may be replaced in his match with Terry. Jack yesterday refused to fight, announcing that he was out of condition. His manager, Sig Hart, signed for the contest and said that Moran will fight or face suspension by the Illinois Athletic commission.

Buck Everett, Gary, Ind., heavyweight, and Jack Roper of Chicago will meet in the 10 round windup of a boxing card tonight at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. It will be the last professional fight show at the Fronton this year.

Everett won in 10 rounds from Roper at White City a year ago, after Jack had scored four knockdowns. Since that match Roper has improved and he is confident that he will gain revenge tonight. Since early last summer, when Roper met Tuffy Griffith, Jack has won all his bouts, with the exception of the one with Charley Retziaff. In that contest he was winning until he received a cut over his eye.

Four matches at four rounds and a wrestling exhibition will complete the program.

George Blake, manager of Fidel La Barba, will leave New York today for Chicago to sign for a bout at the Chicago Stadium Dec. 29. Nate Lewis, matchmaker, is attempting to obtain Tommy Paul, featherweight champion, for La Barba. Georgie Nichols, light heavyweight titleholder, probably will meet Martin Levandowski in a second 10 round contest. Ben Jeby, middleweight champion of New York, and Izzy Gastanaga, Spanish heavyweight, may appear in other matches.

Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., boxer, sparred six rounds yesterday at the Arcade gymnasium, four with Dick Sisk and two with Max Marek. He will go to Terre Haute, Ind., tomorrow to meet Sammy [Kid] Slaughter Monday. Johnny Hughes, Clinton, Ind., junior welterweight, and Ginger Gordon of Vincennes, meet in the semi-final.

Influenza May Put Von Elm Out of Pasadena Meet

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Influenza menaced the field for the annual Pasadena $4,000 open golf tournament today, placing three of the leading contenders on the doubtful starting list.

George von Elm, who made a special trip from the east to play, was taken sick and may be forced out of the tournament.

Olin Dutra of Santa Monica, Cal., P. G. A. champion, suffered influenza as a result of exposure in the San Francisco open and is not sure whether he will be able to play. The same is true of his brother, Mortie, who also contracted influenza during the tourney there.

With 150 starters expected tomorrow morning, there was indication the winner would be forced to crack par a good share of the 72 hole route. Wiffy Cox of Brooklyn rounded the 18 holes in 68 today, while Abe Espinosa of Chicago, shot a 69 and Tony Manero of New York a 71. The tournament ends Sunday.

another ovation a few seconds later when he carried the puck down for a pass to Couture. To many in the hall it appears that Lolo's shot was a goal but the puck was tangled in the net outside the cage.

Hexmer Scores for Bruins.

During the first six minutes the Hawks set the pace but immediately thereafter the Bruins became bosses of the situation. Chapman took the rubber into the Hawks' defense zone, then slipped it to Hexmer, who came dashing along the left boards. Without abating his speed, Obs slashed home the puck as he skated in front of Gardiner.

At the half way point the Hawks put in an entire cast of forwards but when March got bounced for tripping Bostrom and Coulter were put in the lineup.

With five minutes to go, the Bruins resorted to golfing the puck, which was quite exasperating to the Hawks, of course, but quite the proper technique.

RANGERS WIN, 3-2

New York, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The New York Rangers took their second decision of the National Hockey league season from their local rivals, the Americans, 3 to 2, tonight.

The game was packed with action, including a brief but strenuous fistic exchange between Red Dutton of the Americans and Doug Brennan of the Rangers. Only great goal tending by Roy Worters and Andy Aitkenhead kept the teams from getting a dozen goals apiece.

Artie Somers decided the struggle in the third period, breaking away for a solo score after he had put the Rangers ahead in the second. Bun Cook of the Rangers and Johnny Sheppard and Rabbit McVeigh of the Americans were the other scorers. Lineups:

HELPER WILLIAM N. OZINGA of Seattle, Wash., calls our attention to the fact that three members of Jimmy Phelan's University of Washington eleven which held Southern California to its closest score of the season, 9-6, are former Chicago high school players.

These boys are Matt Mucynski, Lindblom, half back; Joe Wiatrak, tackle, and Benny Sohn, Austin, back. Mucynski and Wiatrak played the full time for Washington against the Trojans. Sohn was injured early in the season and while much had been expected of him he never really had a chance.

"Mucynski was a triple threat," says our Helper, "and on defense several times knocked down or intercepted passes to thwart Southern California, then kicked out of danger. Wiatrak, opposite Tay Brown, was a rock. These Chicagoans were Huskie stars in that encounter.

"The Oldham boys, linemen from Crane, I think, are freshmen, and probably will be regulars next season. Pozevic, Lane pitcher, also is out here."

"Just a word about that Bobby Gaylor verse recently," writes Helper J. T. L. "Don't think we old timers ever will forget Bobby. I can see him as if yesterday at the old Olympic pleading with the orchestra to play a short snappy piece, saying, 'Just enough to bring me out.' Then he'd do it all over again.

"He was, in my opinion, a real Irish comedian somewhat different from what is seen on our stage today, at all times a gentleman on the stage—no smut, no offense to the audience. He was always a drawing card for his employers."

William H. Kidston, veteran Chicago grain operator, is wintering in California. Recently playing golf with Mr. Harry Hines of Portland, Ore., their talk veered to the business depression of the last three years. The Oregonian finally complained between shots that he'd received only one extra dividend this year, whereupon Mr. Kidston retorted, "My Gawd, most of us have not had any REGULAR dividends this year."

Crane College Beats Armour Quintet, 38-30

Crane College's basketball team remained undefeated yesterday when it achieved its fifth straight victory by whipping Armour Tech, 38 to 30, at the Armour gym. Crane led, 20 to 14, at the half, but was forced to rally in the closing minutes when Armour tied the score. Beemsterboer, Armour center, tied Reckzeh of Crane, for high scoring honors, each collecting 13 points. Crane's margin of victory was largely in a difference of free throws, the victors scoring ten of their points from the foul line. Lineup:

STUEBECKE AND CROSSLEY LEAD MILWAUKEE RACE

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 15.—Al Crossley Jr., the New England sprint champion, and Bernhard Stuebecke, Germany, forged to the front tonight in Milwaukee's second international six day bicycle race. This fleet combination, which is a favorite one with the fans here, held a one lap lead over three other teams at 11 o'clock—the 50th hour—having covered 802 miles and nine laps.

Just behind these lads were Tom Saetta and Tino Rebolt, the Italians; Bobby Thomas of Kenosha and his partner, Reggie Fielding, and Tony Schaller, the Milwaukee born rider, and his teammate, Freddie Zach, all tied for the runner-up position. Crossley and Stuebecke won sole possession of first place about 9:30 p. m. during a series of jams in which they made a one lap gain.

PITT FIVE TESTS WILDCATS' TITLE HOPES TONIGHT

Northwestern's basketball team will seek its third consecutive victory tonight when it meets the University of Pittsburgh five at Patten gym. Game time is 8 o'clock.

Tonight's engagement is the fourth between Pitt and Northwestern in five years. The Panthers hold an edge in the series, having won two of the three games played.

Pitt Is Strong.

Northwestern seems destined to get somewhere in basketball this season, judging from its showing against Bradley and Marquette. Both of these teams fell victim to Northwestern's fast breaking offense and accurate shooting. Bradley was subdued 44 to 19 and Marquette 36 to 29.

If the Wildcats can get by Pitt, one of the strongest teams in the east, their strength will be well established.

Reiff Leads Attack.

Northwestern's hopes center principally around its lanky captain and forward, Joe Reiff, and equally elongated center, Elmer Johnson. This pair has led the attack in the two games to date. In addition to being crack shots, both are good defensive players. The probable lineup:

NORTHWESTERN.		PITTSBURGH.
Reiff	L. F.	Smith
Brewer	R. F.	Hughes
Johnson	C.	Cribbs
Culver	L. G.	Oechenhirt
Moonshower	R. G.	McCamant

FEDERAL ISSUES LEAD ADVANCE IN BOND MARKET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 15.—Again under the leadership of United States government issues, the high grade bond market advanced broadly today.

Enlivened demand for prime issues, government as well as corporate, was attributed to extreme ease of money and the low interest rates born by recent short term municipal issues.

Dealers report that many traders and government buyers are making sizable commitments in the government market on the theory that intermede maturities of the treasury should command a more favorable level than similar maturing municipal obligations.

Higher Rates Especially Active.

Treasury 4s and 4½s were especially active, while the two discount issues, namely the 3s and 3¼s, were taken in large amounts at higher prices. The new treasury issues, dated today, and the certificates as well were reported to be selling at a premium.

While government state and municipal bond prices were moving higher, corporation bonds of the better grades also advanced. In addition, an undertone of firmness was the rule in speculative bonds, including the volatile issues of the railroad group.

High Grade Liens Rise.

High grade corporation bonds to advance included such railroad issues as Atchison adjustment 4s, Burlington 3½s and 4s, due 1949; Cincinnati Union Terminal 5s, Long Island refunding 4s, and others.

In the utility group, such gains included Brooklyn Union Electric first 5s, Kansas City Power and Light 4½s, New England Telephone 4½s, and others.

A feature of trading in foreign bonds was a break of more than 4 points in French government 7½s, normally one of the steadiest of the foreign dollar issues. Dealers here could not trace the selling, but reported that supporting orders came into the market around 122, a price which compares with 126⅛ at the close yesterday. The French government 7s met better resistance.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

The official forecast for today and tomorrow and yesterday's table of records follow:

Lower Michigan—Generally fair and continued cold Friday; Saturday increasing cloudiness, probably snow in north and extreme west by afternoon or night; rising temperature.

Upper Michigan—Generally fair, not so cold in southwest portion Friday; Saturday probably snow, rising temperature.

Indiana—Generally fair Friday and Saturday; not quite so cold in central and north portions Friday; rising temperature Saturday.

Ohio—Fair, slightly colder in extreme east portion Friday; Saturday increasing cloudiness; slowly rising temperature, probably followed by snow in afternoon or night.

BUDGET DEFICIT PLACES NATION BETWEEN FIRES

Inflation, Borrowing Two Possibilities.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

With the passing of the date for war debts payments yesterday the financial community again turned to the problem of balancing the federal budget as of prime importance.

The statement by Secretary Mills that a deficit this fiscal year is inevitable was no news to business men. Considerable interest, however, was aroused by Mr. Mills' explanation of the character of the national debt, with its large proportion of short term obligations which sooner or later must be translated into longer term securities.

"By June 30th next we will have closed three successive years with large deficits," Secretary Mills reported to the ways and means committee. "While in the years 1931 and 1932 the treasury sold substantial blocks of long term bonds, these deficits have in the main been financed by certificates and notes, with a maturity of not exceeding five years."

One-Third of Debt Floating.

The United States national debt on Nov. 16, 1932, amounted to approximately $20,841,000,000, an increase of $4,656,000,000 since June 30, 1930.

Of this amount about $6,000,000,000—or approximately 30 per cent of the national debt—is of a floating or temporary nature, consisting of bills, notes and certificates maturing in less than five years.

In addition to this huge floating debt, arising largely out of repeated treasury deficits, Mr. Mills himself pointed out to the ways and means committee that $6,268,000,000 of 4¼ per cent Fourth Liberty loan bonds will mature between now and 1938.

Mr. Mills says that a refunding operation is "desirable" and that the success of such an operation would be "greatly facilitated by a balanced budget."

How to Balance Budget?

How is the budget to be balanced?

"Of course there are only two ways in which a government can cover its deficit," says the National City Bank of New York in its current bulletin, "by printing money or by borrowing.

"The former constitutes debasement of the currency. . . . On the other hand, if the deficit is met by borrowing there are plainly limits beyond which the borrowing cannot go without such disturbing effects as to offset, and perhaps more than offset, the temporary stimulus of the disbursements. Even the bonds of the United States cannot be offered in ever increasing amounts without disturbing the market for all bonds . . . and making capital timid, causing it at best to seek absolutely riskless employment and at worst to flee into hiding or out of the country."

Scrutinizing Alternatives.

But are there these two alternatives—inflation and balanced budgets? Inflation extensive enough to offset continued government extravagance and a continuation of the series of unbalanced budgets means going off the gold standard. At least, no one has yet advanced a way to prevent wholesale hoarding of gold when the public realizes its currency is to be diluted.

How can the United States go off the gold standard?

"The framers of our constitution," said one banker yesterday, "made it so rigid in respect to our currency that our abandoning the gold standard is practically impossible.

"When England decided to go off the gold standard the cabinet made up its mind one day and the next day the nation was off the gold standard.

"We cannot do things so quickly. Should we decide to go off the gold standard congress would have to argue the matter pro and con. Probably within two or three weeks action could be taken. During the period of uncertainty frightened depositors would draw their money out of banks and convert it into gold.

More Troubles Follow.

"That's just the beginning. Billions of dollars of mortgages and bonds and other instruments in this country specify that payment shall be made in gold. Insertion of the gold clause became a habit in the days of 'greenbackism,' when people were afraid of paper money.

"Some lawyers argue that congress has the police power to declare the 'gold clause' null and void, as a matter of public welfare; but this is by no means the consensus of opinion.

"For months, until this matter had been properly threshed out in the courts, business and finance would be chaotic. Creditors would not know whether to accept paper money and debtors would not dare offer anything but gold, for fear of an adverse decision by the Supreme court."

Thus, there are those who do not agree that going off the gold standard is an alternative and that the United States government can, in case it spends and borrows too much, square things the way European nations have done, by going off the gold standard and depreciating currency.

Balanced Budget Held Cure.

These individuals argue that the only solution is curtailment of government expenses, balancing of the budget, and discontinuance of the heavy government borrowing.

The National City bank bulletin states that at present 37 per cent of the loans and investments of New York City banks now consist of government securities, more than half of which are short term securities.

"Of course," the bulletin states, "there is at some point a limit to the readiness of banks to carry a constantly enlarging portion of their assets in government securities.

"Also, an operation to fund part of the short term debt into long term obligations is recognized as inevitable.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 15.—The Federal Reserve bank today carried through the $95,550,000 gold transfer operation by which England's debt installment due today was met as nonchalantly as though it were handling a $9,500 detail.

Between 10 and 11 o'clock a member of the bank's staff went down into the great gold vault, which lies along the Nassau street side of the bank building, located a cell in which, curiously enough, $95,550,000 was stored, and fastened a little pasteboard tag upon it, which stated it was the property of the Bank of England. While this was going on, the Bank of England in London had earmarked the same amount of gold and labeled it as the property of the Federal Reserve bank.

The Tag's Taken Off Again.

The Federal Reserve bank then notified the United States treasury that it had $95,550,000 of gold, tendered by the British treasury to the United States treasury, through the two fiscal agent banks, and asked for instructions as to what should be done with the gold. The treasury, which was not exactly surprised to hear the news, promptly sent back word that the gold was to be sold and the proceeds credited to its bank account. The reserve bank then bought the gold, and a guard went down into the gold vault, eighty-six feet below street level, and removed the pasteboard card. The deal was completed before noon.

At the same time instructions were transmitted to the Bank of England to begin shipping the gold it had earmarked in London to this country. A tremendous task is placed upon the British Central bank, which must pack and ship more than 150 tons of yellow metal at the expense of the British treasury.

Divide Shipments.

Since insurance companies balk at large consignments on single liners, it is probable that the metal will be placed on several vessels as rapidly as it can be packed and shipped. The whole operation probably will require five or six weeks, it was said. The operation will be a windfall for shipping companies in need of freight and for insurance companies in need of risks.

Only once before has so large an amount of gold been brought to this country from Europe in a few weeks' time. That was in 1920, when $111,000,000 was moved from the Bank of England to the Federal Reserve bank. This was the balance of $173,000,000 which was turned over to the United States Grain corporation in 1919 by European banks.

STANLEY DOLLAR TELLS OF GAINS BY U. S. SHIPPING

Business is improving for the American shipping industry, according to R. Stanley Dollar, president of the Dollar Steamship and other shipping lines. Mr. Dollar, who stopped at the Blackstone hotel, left last night for San Francisco on his way from New York. Herbert Fleishacker of the Anglo-California National bank of San Francisco was with him.

"Our volume of business is much better," Mr. Dollar asserted. "Rates, of course, are lower, but give us the volume and the rates will take care of themselves. One gets his feeling about general business from his own line, so with my business improved I can't help but feel more optimistic about all business."

Mr. Dollar discussed the notable additions to the shipping fleet of the United States, saying the building of new ships was made possible by the Jones-White act. He said that this act provided aid which has done "more for American shipbuilding than anything in the history of the industry."

RAIL UMPIRE ARRIVES IN CITY TO START DUTIES

Harry Guy Taylor, former Nebraska newspaperman, arrived in Chicago from Washington yesterday to assume his duties as commissioner for the western railroads. Mr. Taylor was recently appointed to the position by a committee of railroad presidents headed by Carl Gray of the Union Pacific.

"There isn't much I can say regarding the position," Mr. Taylor said yesterday in the offices of the American Railway association. "I have to get acquainted with the situation. The most important things before me at the moment is to get our office running."

The office of the commissioner will be located in the Transportation building. At the time of his appointment it was stated that one of his principal duties would be to act as an umpire in differences arising between the various railroads with respect to rates, schedules, etc. He will act in an advisory capacity and will have no power to compel railroads to follow his decisions.

Reserve Banks' Gold Holdings at Year's Peak

New York, Dec. 15.—A rise of $15,000,000 in gold reserves, corresponding to a $17,000,000 gain in the monetary gold stocks of the country, a fall of $14,000,000 in member bank borrowings, and a decline of $10,000,000 in note circulation were the principal changes for the week ended on Wednesday shown in the report of the federal reserve system published today.

Gold holdings of the system reached a new high for the year at $3,093,337,000, although the statement did not cover the gain of $95,550,000, which will result from yesterday's payment of the British war debt. Discounts at $284,473,000 fell to the lowest levels since September of last year. The reserve banks reported no change in their holdings of government securities and of bills bought in the open market. Total reserve bank credit fell $8,000,000.

Reserve Ratios Rise.

The fall in federal reserve note circulation exceeded the week's reduction in the volume of all money in circulation, a rise being shown in the amount of treasury currency in use. All money in circulation was down $5,000,000, a movement which compared favorably with the normal trend for this week of the year. The ratio of reserves to deposit and note liabilities improved to 63.1 per cent from 62.9 per cent last week as a result of the gain in gold and fall in note circulation, despite the fact that deposits increased $18,000,000.

The total of brokers' loans as reported in the condition statement of local member banks, published in connection with the reserve banks' report, showed a rise of $1,000,000 to a total of $393,000,000. The rise occurred in loans make by the member banks for their own account, loans for the account of out-of-town banks and other being unchanged.

Loans Fall; Investments Rise.

The reporting member banks showed a drop of $8,000,000 in their loans and investments resulting from a fall of $41,000,000 in loans and a rise of $33,000,000 in investments. Loans on securities were off $6,000,000 and all other loans fell $35,000,000.

Investments in United States government securities fell $33,000,000, but holdings of other securities rose $56,000,000 as a result, probably, of the loans to New York City made by the Chase National bank and the National City bank in the last week.

The banks showed a rise of $86,000,000 in their net demand deposits and a gain of $8,000,000 in their time deposits. Reserves with the federal reserve bank increased $60,000,000.

The report of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York showed a gain of $41,000,000 in gold holdings as a result partly of the week's gold imports.

He Tries to Lose $250,000 "Profit" to Escape Taxes

Because of a freak application of the federal income tax law, one prominent Chicagoan is trying to "lose" $250,000 before Jan. 1, according to a story being told yesterday on La Salle street.

Unless he can officially establish a loss of that amount out of various losses that he has sustained but not yet realized upon, he must pay the internal revenue collector $31,250 in income tax on another previous loss of $250,000.

It happened this way:

Several years ago this man, who for obvious reasons, prefers to remain anonymous, bought a piece of business property for $250,000.

Then came the prosperous years of the late twenties when real estate values were soaring. The property owner went to a large financial institution and borrowed $500,000 against this property.

Depression ensued. After three years of it the property owner was forced by circumstances to default on the $500,000 mortgage.

Realizing that they had made a bad investment and desiring to avoid possible litigation, the financial institution that held the mortgage offered to cancel it if the property owner would sign a quitclaim deed.

This he agreed to do. He thereby was freed of the $500,000 mortgage obligation, but, of course, his original $250,000 investment in the property was thereby wiped out.

According to the income tax law, however, the property owner by this transaction established a paper profit of $250,000 for himself in 1932, the reasoning being that the $500,000 mortgage minus the $250,000 loss of the original investment left a theoretical profit of $250,000.

Inasmuch as the property had been held for more than two years the tax rate was 12½ per cent.

Result: He must pay the government $31,250 in income tax for 1932. This he does not feel able to do. Therefore, he is frantically trying to sell some of his other bad investments to offset the $250,000 "profit" which the law says he enjoyed in 1932.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—The state department of mines and minerals stated today that the November coal output in Illinois—3,672,966 tons—was 10 per cent over the October output and 164,766 tons more than produced last November.

TOLEDO, O.—The Page Steel and Wire company, its officials announced today, has gone on full time, for the first time in two years, giving employment to 150 persons 10 hours a day and six days a week.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad today released 1,000 tons of rails from the 10,000 ton order it recently placed with the Carnegie Steel company, officials announced.

U. S. Raises Estimate of Wheat Crop

Estimates on the wheat crop for 1932 were revised upward by the government in its final report for the season, as compared with the preliminary returns earlier in the year. The aggregate yield of winter and spring wheat, as officially determined, is 726,831,000 bu, or 14,000,000 bu in excess of the previous figures, and compared with 894,000,000 bu in 1931.

Traders who had anticipated a heavy reduction in the spring wheat crop were greatly disappointed by the showing, as the decrease was only 6,000,000 bu from the early returns, while winter wheat was increased 20,000,000 bu.

Corn Off a Little.

Little change was shown in the yield of other grains as compared with the preliminary reports, although corn was lowered 13,000,00 bu to a total of 2,908,045,000 bu, or within 7,000,000 bu of the average of the private estimates in November. R. O. Cromwell came within 4,000,000 bu of the official returns.

As compared with last year, corn showed an increase of 341,000,000 bu. Oats crop of 1,242,000,000 bu was 20,000,000 bu under the preliminary figures and compared with 1,117,970,000 bu in 1931.

Aggregate production for the five grains, wheat, corn, oats, rye, and barley this year is 5,217,118,000 bu, compared with 4,803,026,000 bu in 1931, and five year average of 4,994,000,000 bu. Wheat prices based on future deliveries as compared with a year ago are 10@11½c lower; corn, 15c; oats, 19@20c; rye, 14c, and barley, 30c.

Comparison of Crops.

	Final— 1932.	1931.	5 yr. av.
Spring wheat..	264,680	104,000	280,000
All wheat	726,831	834,000	829,000
Corn	2,908,045	2,567,000	2,625,000
Oats	1,242,427	1,112,000	1,277,000
Rye	39,855	32,026	44,000
Barley	299,950	198,000	219,000
Total grains...	5,217,118	4,803,026	4,994,000

Change in Report.

A pronounced change has been made in the issuance of the final crop report this year. For years it has been customary to include the value of crops harvested which is omitted from the present returns, and hereafter will be published each year in February. The reason for the change is that the value of crops based on Dec. 1 farm prices has not been representative of their value. In February a report will give the total gross income of farmers, with the value of crops based on the average prices for the year.

As prices on all grains, fruits and live stock have sold at lowest prices known, the final returns should show a lower total.

INT. TELEPHONE NINE MONTH LOSS PUT AT $1,379,948

New York, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The International Telephone Telegraph corporation, for the nine months ended Sept. 30, reports a consolidated net loss of $1,379,948, compared with net income of $6,591,978 for the corresponding period of 1931.

The report of the directors pointed out that the corporation's telegraph and cable revenues during last July reached the lowest point since 1917 and, "while subsequent months have shown some improvement, there has been no sustained upward trend."

Gross earnings of the associated companies for the nine months totaled $52,690,037, against $69,395,387 for the same period last year. At the same time operating expenses were reduced to $45,386,695, compared with $54,875,526 in the 1931 period.

Harry H. Whiting Is New President of Pillsbury

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Harry H. Whiting, former vice president, is the new president of Pillsbury Flour Mills, Inc., the directors announced today. He succeeds Albert Loring, who died Sunday. The new president has served as vice president several years and has been with the firm 35 years.

Bendix Corp. Writes Off Patents, Contracts, Goodwill

Bendix Aviation corporation directors have authorized the writing down of patent right, contracts and good will, now carried at $36,910,228, to $1 as a result of changes in the capital structure.

AVIATION CORP. WILL TAKE OVER TRANS-AMERICAN

New York, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Richard F. Hoyt, president of Aviation corporation, announced tonight that directors of that company had authorized the purchase of Trans-America Airlines corporation.

Trans-American was one of the lines involved in the early stages of the recent proxy battle between the forces headed by E. L. Cord and Lamotte T. Cohu, former president of Aviation corporation, for control of the latter concern.

Control of Trans-American by the Cord corporation through the purchase of 45,000 shares of stock of the Thompson Aeronautical corporation was announced by Cord on Dec. 1.

In making that announcement Cord said:

"Just as our 45 per cent in Thompson Aeronautical corporation was offered to the Aviation corporation of Delaware at cost, so will our present 95 per cent holding be offered to the Aviation corporation at cost to us, without profit."

Loew's Heads Get Bonus of $2,670,939

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 15.—Revelation that three officers of Loew's, Inc., have received bonuses aggregating $2,670,939 in the last two years as their share of profits of the company was made at a meeting of the stockholders today. The three officers are Irving Thalberg, L. D. Mayer, and J. R. Rubin. They compose a partnership under the name of the Mayer corporation. The bonuses were paid to that company.

IRVING THALBERG.

The meeting was enlivened by a discussion of the salaries and bonus payments distributed to officers. At the height of the discussion William Klein, former secretary of the Shubert Theater corporation, announced that he was leaving the meeting because he was "unable to get an answer to repeated questions as to the amount of bonus payments to officers."

Several officers, including Nicholas M. Schenck, president, persuaded him to remain on the assurance that the information which he sought would be announced at the meeting.

Of the total payments $1,748,785 was paid to the Mayer corporation out of profits in 1931, while $922,154 was paid this year.

It was also announced that Mr. Schenck had received a bonus of $133,000 for 1932, against $274,000 last year, and that David Bernstein, vice president, had received a bonus of $79,996, against $164,164 last year.

In addition to these bonus payments, officers have been receiving, it was announced, the following weekly salaries, since a 35 per cent cut was placed in effect several months ago: Mr. Bernstein, $1,300; Mr. Rubin, $1,300; Mr. Mayer, $1,625, and Mr. Thalberg, $2,600.

The stockholders today authorized a personal service contract to four officers of the company, giving them the right to purchase at their option a total of 250,000 shares of treasury stock on the following terms:

Twenty-seven and one-half per cent after the first two years of service at $30 a share, 27½ per cent after the next two years at $35 a share and 45 per cent after the next two years at $40 a share. The stock may not be sold by the officers at less than $15 over the option price.

The stockholders elected Thomas Nelson Perkins a director to succeed Harley L. Clarke.

RAILWAY HEADS AND LABOR NEAR IMPASSE ON PAY

Workers Outline Their Demands.

Railroad managers and railroad labor seemed near an impasse in their wage negotiations at the Palmer House last night with labor raising the issue of human rights versus property rights and the managers retorting that the human rights were not all on labor's side.

As previously forecast, labor came into the morning joint session with a flat rejection of the management's most recent proposal. That proposal was for extension of the existing 10 per cent temporary pay cut from next Jan. 31 to July 31, the cut to continue indefinitely thereafter while the managers carried their project for a 20 per cent basic pay cut to the federal mediation board.

Suggests One Year Extension.

In a counter proposal labor offered to accept a one year extension of the 10 per cent cut to Jan. 31, 1934, the basic scale to be restored and continue in force thereafter while the managers carried on their presumably lengthy negotiations for the 20 per cent cut before the mediation board.

Chairman A. F. Whitney of the labor group raised the "human rights" issue in a statement of seven pages. The managers, he averred, were asking the workers in effect to "donate" their well earned wages to pay fixed charges on idle capital. The workers also have fixed charges in the form of bills for food and shelter, and fifty per cent of them are unable to meet those charges because they have no jobs, he said.

Warn of Bankruptcy.

At the afternoon session the managers raised the issue of other human rights. To maintain the predepression wage scale asked by labor, they maintained, would drive the carriers into bankruptcy, "with resultant disaster to millions of citizens who are depositors in our banks or hold policies of our insurance companies."

Mr. Whitney cited statistics of the interstate commerce commission in his statement. By these figures he sought to prove that every railroad worker had delivered 31 per cent more service in 1930 than in 1923. He matched these with other statistics

WHEAT PRICES IN GOLD

Wheat prices in gold in leading markets, computed from rates of exchange prevailing at the time they closed, follow:

	Thurs. day.	Wednesday.
Chicago, May	47⅝c	47⅝c
Winnipeg, May	37½c	37⅝c
Liverpool, March	45c	45⅛c
Do, May	48⅜c	48⅝c

Rotterdam, January	44¼c	44c
Buenos Aires, Feb.	37⅝c	38c

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat traders were inclined to express bullish opinions as to the probable trend of the market in the near future, but showed unusual caution in taking the buying side yesterday waiting for the liquidation by country sorts to run its course at Winnipeg. The latter dropped 1½c in Canadian funds to a new all time record low for that market, with December selling down to 35⅞c on a gold basis, but rallied ⅜c from the inside figures at the close.

When the action of Winnipeg and also of stocks was considered, traders believed that the local market had given an excellent account of itself. Marked resistance was shown to pressure on the dips. It was hard to trace the buying at times. Closing trades were ¼c higher to ⅛c lower, the former on December, which was 45c at the last, compared with 47⅛@47¼c for the May, the spread being the narrowest so far. July closed at 47⅝@47¾c.

Say Market Is Shock Proof.

The manner in which the local wheat market resisted pressure was regarded by some traders as suggesting it has reached a point where it was almost shock proof, especially to bearish news. The action of cotton in advancing over $3 per bale from the low point which followed the issuance of an extremely bearish government report recently was taken by traders as an excellent illustration of the situation which they believe prevails in wheat.

In some quarters there was a belief the continued widening of the Chicago-Winnipeg wheat spread, which was 9⅛c, gold basis, at the close yesterday, would bring in more or less backspreading between the two markets. According to the gossip there is a large short interest here against purchases at Winnipeg. Numerous stop loss orders were uncovered in the latte: during the day, while elevator interests were free sellers. Export sales of as high as 1,500,000 bu Manitobas were claimed during the day, but had little effect.

The decline in wheat in Liverpool was reported as having brought in more buyers, but the English market failed to hold an early rally and closed unchanged to ⅛c per bu lower, with March at 45c equalling the lowest figures since 1588.

U. S. Wheat Highest in World.

American hard winter wheat is quoted at the highest figures of any of the leading exporters. No. 1 hard at the gulf was nominally 4½c over Chicago May, or about 52c per bu based on yesterday's close. Sales of No. 3 Manitobas c. i. f. Liverpool were reported at equal to 47¾c per bu, with No. 4 Manitobas at 46⅜c and Australian 49c per bu. The sales of Canadian and Australian grain include all costs delivered at Liverpool, while to the hard winter from the gulf must be added freight and insurance.

Corn futures held within a range of ⅛@¼c, trade being unusually light and the finish was unchanged to ⅛c lower. December was 22½@22⅝c, May 27@27⅛c, and July 28⅛c at the last. Bulk of the business was of a local character, with some support given May at 27c by holders of bids. The country sold 18,000 bu to arrive, while shipping sales were 30,000 bu.

Oats were dull and finished unchanged to ⅛c lower, the latter on May, which was under pressure from cash interests. December closed at 15⅛c and the distant delivery at 17¼c. Rye was unchanged to ⅛c higher, with May at 32⅜c and July at 34¼c. Prospects that 3.2 per cent beer may be legalized failed to stimulate the demand for barley, and the May closed ⅝c lower at 29⅞c.

PROFIT TAKING IN EGGS

A combination of bullish news failed to produce material support in egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, prices closing unchanged to ⅛c lower. But-ter gained ½@¾c. The weather, receipts and the storage movement all were bullish in eggs and the market started higher, but the buying ietus and selling forced the market to an easy close. The four markets reported 34,000 cases of eggs out, or 145 cases more than last year. This unusually heavy movement, however, had little effect in the market. Butter benefited only slightly from its bullish statistics. The four markets took out 342,000 lbs more than last year and production reports showed the market decreasing. However, much of the buying was covering, and profit taking sales held the market in check. Sales: Butter, 54 cars; eggs, 141 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 4 cars; eggs, 5 cars. Prices follow:

RAILWAY CHIEFS AND LABOR NEAR IMPASSE ON PAY

Workers Reject 6 Month Extension of Scale.

purporting to show that the railroad capital investment at this time is only fifty-five per cent employed.

"We are aware of the pressure being exerted on the railway managements to sacrifice every other interest to continue without reduction the payment of what are called 'fixed charges,'" Mr. Whitney said. "This pressure quite clearly dictated your statement of Dec. 13, in which your attention was so concentrated on these particular financial demands that you evidently failed to observe the glaring injustice of paying unearned interest out of the earnings of railway labor."

Only 50 Per Cent Employed.

Today only fifty per cent of the normal railway working force is employed, Mr. Whitney averred. By their toil these workers are producing substantially the same revenue for the owners as heretofore, he added. But at the same time, he went on to say, the capital investment in the carriers is only 55 per cent employed.

"It would be necessary to pay full wages to 75 per cent of your employes to give the labor investment in the railroads an equality of treatment," he continued.

"We do not fail to recognize that you have contractual obligations to pay bond interest, rentals and similar fixed charges, and that you have no contractual obligation to pay wages except for services performed.

Time of Distress.

"But this is a time of practically universal distress in which it is necessary to disregard conventions and fictions and get down to the realities of life. We cannot permit you to advocate a glaring social injustice concealed under the convenient disguise of what is called financial necessity.

"We must point out that the interest of a security holder is ultimately the interest of some human being who has a claim against the railroad, a claim for payment of the use of his property. We ask you to face this question: Why should this property owner be paid full wages when half his property is unemployed? Why should the worker be paid nothing when he is unemployed and then be paid less than the wages he has fully earned when he is employed!

"You tell us you must pay fixed charges. But you are asking the workers to donate their earnings to pay those charges. Therefore you should tell us also how a million railway workers who are unemployed, or working only part time, are to meet their fixed charges. Our men, women and children must eat, be protected from sickness, safeguarded from cold and live like human beings. They must meet their fixed charges."

Capital, Not Labor, at Fault.

If the financial integrity of the carriers is threatened now, the fault is with capital, not labor, the labor chief insisted. Wage boosting is the road to prosperity, not wage slashing, he maintained.

"But we recognize that the financial leadership of the nation has not learned the lesson of the depression, perhaps is incapable of learning it," Mr. Whitney went on. "We recognize that your management committee is merely the representative of that financial leadership which has guided us into the depression and has been unable to guide us out. We are unwilling to join you in any program which will make matters worse. While we believe the wage deduction to be wrong in principle, it may be possible by its extension to prevent worse results. Therefore, we have prepared the counter proposal in which we suggest its continuance for one year."

Reply of Managers.

The reply of the managers was equally forceful, equally explicit. Wage earners as well as bondholders would suffer equally from the "tragic results" following the philosophy the labor groups advanced, Mr. Whitney said. His statement follows:

"So far as the counter proposal which you have submitted to us is concerned, we cannot accept it as it would completely tie our hands to meet such situations as may develop during the coming twelve to fifteen months, regardless of how necessary it may be if that interval to further reduce the costs of railroad operation.

"As we view the present situation, a 10 per cent reduction in wages is wholly inadequate, but we are willing to agree to a continuance of that measure of reduction for a limited period at the end of which the decision may be made in the light of the situation as it then exists as to what wages shall be paid thereafter. In other words, we are willing in this negotiation to commit ourselves to that sort of an agreement for a limited period of time. That period we are willing to make six months provided you will agree with us that at the end of that time, if either party should so desire, the wage deduction shall continue in effect for such additional period of time as may be necessary to accomplish a determination of future wage rates pursuant to the provisions of the Railway Labor Act.

"If you are willing to work out with us an appropriate arrangement which will incorporate these essential elements, i. e., [1.] an extension of the present deduction arrangement for six months, and [2.] a provision that the deduction shall continue thereafter, if either party should so desire, during such period that appropriate proceedings may be had under the Railway Labor Act to determine the wage rates to be paid in the future, we believe that this would offer equitable solution of our present difficulties."

MEN—TODAY!

TODAY an entirely new outlook may be opened to you. We want best looking, best managed or forgotten men, but DETERMINED MEN, with GRIT and CHARACTER, who are ready to exchange a half hearted existence for PERMANENT INDEPENDENCE AND GROWING INCOME paid weekly! You do not buy, invest or assume any financial responsibility. We do business in 46 countries, have increased our business in America monthly for 30 consecutive months; 1932 broken all past records—1933 will be still greater.

You might do as well as some of these men—or better: H. S., former salesman, $115 in a week; J. R., $100 in 4 days, $230 in his third week; W. B., $445 his first 7 days; E. G., former builder, from $30 his first week to $95 in a week; J. R., former advertising man, $275 last month; a former tool-maker $400 in 5 days. One group of 65 men in Electrolux (not refrigeration) received IN CASH over $7,400 each or the first 3 months in 1931, as our income tax affidavit proves.

Many of these men had no past experience in this business. You may have none. You need none. You must have character, determination, ability to work. Lazy men will starve at liberty. Many more men in this business work up to averages of $4,000 and up to $10,000 a year. Some $15,000 to $18,000 men. Some $25,000 to $30,000 men—or to YOU, if you qualify. You might be one of the big earners eventually and yes you might be $150 for your second month. Men come here from all trades, businesses, professions.

If you're from 25 to 48, with responsibilities, believe that effort is necessary for success, are not afraid of cold, snow, rain or heat, deserve a share of leadership, if you want to work 52 weeks a year, we will consider giving you such opportunity as you can grow with. No seasons or lay-offs. Nothing to invest, deposit or buy. A full-time, not a part-time position. If you are clean-cut, sincere, will make good, write for interview, call from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. TODAY. Room 2150, 20 N. Madison-Kedzie Bldg., 3 S. Kedzie-av.
